Congress Warned to Cut Industry's Taxes

BAILEY RAKES HIS COLLEAGUES FOR 'FIDDLING'

Both Houses Dawdle Over '4 Points.'

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] warned the senate today it and the house are fiddling with further meddlesome, collectivist schemes instead of acting to relieve business and industry from the effects of the administration's previous innovations. In the meantime the country is facing "a situation more desperate than we are willing to admit," he asserted.

Senator Bailey.

Senator Bailey not only demanded immediate repeal of the corporate undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax, but broad changes of policy to encourage the investment of capital, the expansion of industry, and the employment of men wanting work.

Both houses of congress, meanwhile, continued to dawdle while awaiting committee action on the four point legislative program which President Roosevelt demanded in his call for a special session to meet an "extraordinary situation."

Raises Sales Tax Scare.

In the face of an overwhelming demand in both houses for repeal of the undistributed profits tax to stop the downward spiral in business, the administration took steps to prevent such action at the special session by raising the scare of sales taxes.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Undersecretary Roswell Magill conferred with Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, which has jurisdiction over all revenue legislation. After the conference Mr. Harrison, who was designated as spokesman, declared that additional revenue to compensate for the modification of the undistributed profits tax can be raised in only two ways.

"It could be done by a broadening of the income tax base, to reach more taxpayers, or by a general manufacturers' sales tax, and I might favor the latter, although in the past I have been opposed to it," Harrison said.

Insists All Is Harmony.

Chairman Harrison insisted that he and the treasury secretary were in full accord. The suggestion of broadening the income tax base caused no surprise, since it has been regarded as an inevitable result of the administration's spending policy. Secretary Morgenthau indicated in his New York speech only last week that extension of the income taxes will be proposed at the next regular session of congress.

The talk about a sales tax, however, was regarded as camouflage over the clamor for action at this session on the undistributed profits tax. Senator Harrison, after the conference, repeated his belief that nothing can be done before the next regular session in January.

Many senators have threatened to attach a repeal rider to any tax title that comes over from the house, where revenue legislation must originate, and there is at least one tax measure already on the senate calendar, but Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the house ways and means committee served notice today that he would block any such efforts.

Would Pigeonhole It.

Instead of being referred to conference, he said, the bill would be referred to the ways and means committee and there the repeal rider would be pigeon-holed.

On the third day of the special session to meet the "extraordinary situation" the house, having nothing to do, met for two hours and adjourned while the leaders were seeking more signatures on a petition to force the deadlocked wages and hours bill out

JAPS THREATEN TO BLOCK WAR AID TO CHINESE

Ready to Stop Ships of Foreign Nations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 17.—A threat to blockade China's coast to ships of countries which attempt to send war supplies to the Chinese armies was reported to have been made today by Japanese officials at Brussels, Belgium. Diplomats in Paris interpreted the threat as a warning to nations of the world to keep their hands off the undeclared war in the far east.

"If the nations of the Brussels conference decide to help China we would have the right to establish a naval blockade under international law," a Tokio spokesman was quoted as saying.

Seen as Hostile Act.

Japanese circles further said acceptance of China's appeal for direct aid in the far east conflict would be regarded as a hostile act by the Tokio government.

"A serious situation would develop," was the brusque statement of the Japanese.

The Japanese, it is feared, will resist any attempt of the nineteen nations attending the nine power treaty conference to put pressure on Tokio to stop the war. Japan's defiance of the conference, which has condemned her as a treaty breaker and menace to world peace, was expressed by the Japanese, dispatches from Brussels said.

Comparing China with the Valencia government in Spain and Japan with the régime set up by Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish insurgent leader, he was reported to have said:

"It is the Spanish situation reversed. In Spain they have set up an elaborate nonintervention committee, but in the far east every one seems to think he has the right to interfere. We maintain it should be left to Japan and China alone."

Japan twice has refused to attend the conference which was called to seek an amicable settlement of the war. The condemnation of Tokio followed. The conference thereupon adjourned until next Monday, at which time it will consider taking steps to punish Japan for invading China in violation of the nine power pact. Direct aid to China and economic penalties are to be discussed.

CIVILIANS DESERT NANKING

NANKING, Nov. 18 [Thursday].—(AP)—The mass exodus from Nanking gained speed today after an unofficial government warning to noncombatants to flee from the path of the Japanese advance. The national capital's normal population is 1,000,000.

The city, still nominally the seat of the Chinese government, was the capital in name only. It was being deserted by civilians and government bureaus as fast as roads, boats, trains, trucks, and burdened coolies allowed.

Except for a few senior officials, all government employés had gone or were prepared to leave on short notice if the Japanese westward drive from Shanghai should put Nanking

Old Sea Law Gives $20,000 Farm to U. S.

A Chicagoan lost his $20,000 farm yesterday under a legal action originally devised to mete out justice on the high seas. It was a suit based on the principles of the ancient admiralty law under which the United States government may seize property put to unlawful uses.

The farm, near Woodstock, owned by John Jursich and his daughter Eleanor, 21 years old, was seized because a $15,000 unlicensed distillery was found in operation there last April. The internal revenue act provides for forfeiture of such property if the owner knowingly permits such a still to operate on his premises.

Action Is Against Property.

Actions in admiralty law are not against the owner but against the property itself. This rule is an outgrowth of the needs of sea litigation. A shipowner in London could not conveniently be served with a suit for damages in a collision in the Mediterranean, so admiralty law permitted the action to be brought in any port in which the ship could be found and the action was brought against the offending vessel itself. Such cases are called libel actions, the word libel being used in a sense entirely different from the common word meaning defamatory writing.

In accordance with admiralty practice the Jursich case was entitled the United States government against 151 acres of land on the Dean road, 3½ miles south of Woodstock, near state highway 67, in McHenry county.

Jursich, who now lives at 5525 Agatite avenue with his daughter, testified that a stranger who gave his name as John W. Horn appeared at his farm last spring and offered to buy it. A contract was drawn up, Jursich said, and Horn paid him $2,400 on a purchase price of $20,000. Title remained with his daughter, who was holding the property for him, Jursich added.

1,700 Gallon Still Seized.

Agents of the federal alcohol tax unit who raided the farm April 22 found a 1,700 gallon moonshine still, with complete equipment. Four men were arrested on the premises, and their cases are awaiting action by the grand jury.

In the libel action against the farm, heard before Judge John P. Barnes, the jury had to decide only one question of fact: whether Jursich had guilty knowledge of the presence of the still. Under questioning by Assistant District Attorney Daniel D. Glasser, Jursich admitted he visited the farm on March 13, and stopped in a garage 100 feet from the cattle barn where the still was in operation.

Judge Barnes, in overruling a motion to dismiss the case, declared he couldn't believe a man could be 100 feet from a 1,700 gallon still without smelling it. The jury agreed with him.

A BIG OIL BOOM ROARS IN, THEN SNEAKS OUT PAST A KNOWING NOSE

For the last two weeks John Wieting, 2243 West 138th street, Blue Island, has been drilling a well on the place of August F. Schmidt, who lives on Oak Grove avenue in Justice, Lyons township.

Yesterday there was a roar and a liquid stream shot 15 feet into the air. Wieting gasped and the Schmidt family ran out into the yard.

"Oil!" shouted Schmidt.

The word soon spread and the neighbors overran the place, adding to the general excitement. But the boom didn't last long, for Wieting dipped his cup into the liquid, smelled it, and turned to the eager persons around him.

"This oil is all wet," he said. "It's good artesian water."

Cop Has to Admit It's a Dog Gone Good Argument

Anadarko, Okla., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Patrolman Clinton E. Riggs followed two gleaming dots of light up the dark highway, only to discover there wasn't any light at all—just a Negro farmer with a wagonload of youngsters.

"Why don't you have a tail-light?" asked Riggs.

N. U. Discards M'Kinlock as Campus Name

Coincident yesterday with the announcement that Northwestern university is changing the name of its downtown campus from McKinlock to the Chicago campus, came the revelation that the university is returning $155,717 which it had received from the late George Alexander McKinlock.

The announcement was made by Attorney Nathan William MacChesney, one of Northwestern university's trustees. The name was adopted because of donations made by Mr. McKinlock of Lake Bluff, retired manufacturer, who died last Dec. 16.

$250,000 Pledged for Campus.

In 1921, the university announced that Mr. McKinlock had pledged $250,000 to the university for a downtown campus, which was to be known as the McKinlock Memorial campus in honor of his son, Lieut. George Alexander McKinlock Jr., a naval aviator who was killed in action in France on July 21, 1918. Subsequently another gift of $50,000 was announced.

Mr. MacChesney said yesterday that Mr. McKinlock made payments on these pledges from time to time but that circumstances beyond his control prevented him from entirely meeting all he had promised to donate. It is explained that the McKinlock holdings depreciated during the depression until the donor found it impossible to pay them.

Contract Cancelation Asked.

"Mr. McKinlock," Mac Chesney said, "generously contributed various sums to activities of the university and intended to make larger gifts, but he was unable to do so. Since he could not meet his pledges, he asked the university to cancel the contract.

"Under the circumstances, the university felt that although it was under no obligation to do so, it should repay portions of the gift which had been received."

This decision on the part of the university, it was explained, resulted

War Between Soviet Chiefs Shakes Russia

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 17.—Commissar Maxim Litvinov, regarded by many European chancelleries as the permanent soviet Russian foreign minister, is fighting the supreme diplomatic battle of his career in Moscow. Three of his ambassadors and four ministers stationed abroad, together with a large number of lesser soviet diplomats, are charged with complicity in a new plot to assassinate Dictator Josef Stalin and to separate the Ukraine from the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

The G. P. U. [Russian secret police] made the arrests while Litvinov was attending the conference of powers in Brussels, Belgium, on the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war.

Charges G. P. U. Frameup.

Since the commissar returned to Moscow he has been trying to convince the politbureau [political bureau] of the communist party that the latest plot is a frameup conceived by the G. P. U. and that his trusted assistants are innocent of the charges made against them.

Nicolai I. Yezhov, new chief of the G. P. U., is said to have the evidence which will blame Russia's present threatening internal conditions upon Germany's intrigues.

Upon the outcome of the struggle depends Litvinov's future career. Many believe his life is at stake. Mme. Litvinov and his daughter were not permitted to accompany the commissar abroad on his recent journey. They were held as hostages in Moscow.

Three New Developments.

There were three new developments today. Boris Pohkwalinski, first secretary of the soviet legation in Riga, committed suicide when he discovered he had been recalled to be arrested and charged with being involved in a plot. S. I. Brodovski, who as soviet minister to Latvia was Pohkwalinski's chief, was reported under arrest.

The second event which also strengthens Yezhov's campaign against Litvinov was the arrest of Michail Bondarenko, president of the council of people's commissars of the Ukrainian Socialist soviet republic. Like his predecessor, N. N. Lubchenko, who committed suicide Aug. 30, Bondarenko is charged with plotting to separate the Ukraine from Moscow.

The third was the announcement by the German embassy of a decision to close the German general consulates in Leningrad and in Tiflis and the consulates in Kharkov, in Odessa and in Vladivostok.

End Long Negotiations.

This move follows prolonged negotiations between Berlin and Moscow. The German ambassador in repeated protests had reported that G. P. U. supervision made it impossible for the consular representations to function and that callers at the consulate were subject to arrest and persecution by the G. P. U., which was seeking evidence of espionage activities.

Consular employés also were de-

WEEPING SON RECITES EVENTS IN SLAYING CASE

Tells of Destroying Woman's Baggage.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsfield, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The son and the foster daughter of the Rev. C. Ellsworth Newton took the witness stand in Circuit court here today to testify against the gaunt Baptist preacher from Missouri.

Before the day's session of court was ended it was apparent that the pastor's defense will be that Mrs. Maybelle Kelly, whom Newton is accused of killing, was beaten to death by jealous women.

Son a Tearful Witness.

The son, Noel, a tall youth of 22 with ruddy cheeks and dark hair, made a reluctant and sorrowful witness, but Miss Myra Hanan, the pastor's adopted daughter, an angular spinster of 37, made a grim one, with folded arms and sardonic, spectacled eyes flashing from behind a voluminous black veil.

The pair undoubtedly are the state's key witnesses in the trial of the Rev. Mr. Newton for the murder of Mrs. Kelly, his red haired parishioner and admirer whose body came floating down the Mississippi river on July 13. For not until Missouri authorities heard their story, at 3 a. m. on July 14, was suspicion directed against the minister.

The story both told today, in widely divergent manner, but to equally dramatic tempo, was of the finding and burning of Mrs. Kelly's shawl and suitcases which they discovered in the rear of the Rev. Mr. Newton's car the day after her disappearance and death.

Avoids Glancing at Father.

The similarity ended with direct examination. Noel Newton, a stricken, anguished figure, was released without cross-examination and darted from the courtroom without a glance at the emotionless, white face of his father. But Miss Hanan, swathed smartly in a bright green coat and dress, was kept on the stand for a grueling cross-examination that lasted until 8 p. m.

From this questioning came the first inkling of what the Rev. Mr. Newton's defense will be. It was indicated that he will take the stand and deny the murder, repudiating his confession of July 15, and seek to continue his reputation as the swashbuckling Don Juan of Paris, Mo. [a reputation his cadaverous appearance does not support], by contending that a jealous woman, or women, hammered Mrs. Kelly to death.

Miss Hanan bore up like an automaton under the verbal barrage of Defense Attorney Martin S. Turner of Kansas City. She folded her arms, ventured an occasional thin, tolerant smile and time and again answered monosyllabically, "I did not." The Rev. Mr. Newton, his face bland and shining with aggrieved innocence, watched her intently.

Denies Meeting Minister.

"Did you, at 4 o'clock the morning of July 13, meet Colonel [his first name] Newton near Monroe City, Mo.?" Attorney Turner demanded, veering suddenly from his discussion of the delicate matters such as where the pastor's study was located and how many sermons he wrote.

"Why," bridled Miss Hanan, "I did not. I was at home asleep."

"Did you say to him at that time," Attorney Turner persisted, "'Daddy, did it hurt you much? We are sorry for you. This is a terrible case. Everything has gone haywire.' Did you say that?"

"I did not."

Q.—At that time, in response to his question, "Whose blood is that?" did you say, "That's hers. You had better forget it." A.—I did not.

Insists She's Home in Bed.

Q.—To his question, "What happened to Maybelle?" did you say, "She is dead." A.—I did not.

Q.—To his question, "Where did it occur?" did you say, "Right where we caught up with you?" A.—[primly] I was at home in bed.

Q.—To his question, "What has become of the body?" did you say, "She's gone down the river?" A.—I was at home. We had no such conversation.

Q.—Did you say, "Could Loy or Ella or E. P. identify that old hammer?" A.—I was at home and not in a car with him. No such conversation took place.

Story Hits Father

Q.—And did he say, "I expect they could"? A.—No. I didn't say that.

Q.—When he said, "Was it used?" didn't you say, "Never mind. What you don't know won't hurt you"? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you say, "You'd better keep your mouth shut or you'll have everybody into this." Did you say that? A.—I did not.

Here's Elaborate Reply.

Q.—When he said, "I want to know the truth," did you say, "What good will it do you or anybody else? It's done and that's that"? A.—I did not.

Q.—Later, the afternoon of July 13, did you say, "What do you know or are you just guessing? For Pete's sake, keep your head"? A.—No [smiling broadly], I did not.

Miss Hanan's one elaborate reply came when she was asked where she was at 1 a. m. on July 13. She said she had gone out to look for the minister.

"Why?" he demanded.

"I was uneasy about him," she said. "I thought something might have happened to him."

Although the many women in the audience followed her testimony intently the witness who drew the breathless attention—and the sympathetic attention—of men and women alike was the minister's son, Noel.

Noel's steps lagged as he walked to the witness stand. Once there, he clenched his fists and steadfastly turned his gaze away from his father.

Noel often hesitated as long as two minutes before replying to the questions of State's Attorney Merrill Johnston, while a tense courtroom of farmers and townsfolk leaned heavily forward and a jury of eleven farmers and one barber eyed him with amazement. Judge A. Clay Williams often prompted him with a sympathetic "Go on, go on, boy."

Asked About His Father.

When Noel first ascended the stand his preacher father looked at him intently. But as the questioning continued, and the youth's anguish became acute, the Rev. Mr. Newton huddled up into his black suit, shot his long chin down toward the table, and shifted two pieces of paper together, again and again and again.

"Did you see your father on Monday, July 12?" Prosecutor Johnston asked.

Noel crossed one leg, clasped an ankle with both hands, and said nothing. Finally, looking pleadingly at his father, he replied that he had.

Q.—Tell the jury when and where, Noel. A. [again a long silence, as he rubbed his chin]—About 10 that evening.

Q.—Where? A.—At my filling station.

Q.—How long was he there? A.—About an hour and 15 minutes.

Q.—When did you close? A.—About 11:15.

Witness Shifts in Chair.

Defense Attorney Daniel T. Johnson of Kansas City, Mo., shifted uncomfortably. Previous witnesses had told how, on the morning of July 13, the Rev. Mr. Newton had said he stayed at his son's filling station until 1 a. m.

Q.—Then where did you go? A.—To a café and then home.

Q.—Did you see your father any more that evening? A. [slowly shifting in the witness chair]—No.

Prosecutor Johnston paused dramatically before asking his next question.

"Do you know Myra Hanan?" he asked clearly.

Noel's answer came faintly, almost inaudibly. Again and again Judge Williams admonished the spectators to quiet the shuffling of their feet.

Noel Newton (left) yesterday testified against his father, the Rev. C. Ellsworth Newton (right), who is on trial for murder in Pittsfield, Ill. The son was a reluctant and tearful witness.

"Yes," Noel said, "I do."

Q.—Shortly after noon on July 13 did you see Myra Hanan? A. [in a low voice]—Yes, sir.

Q.—Where? A.—At my filling station.

Tells of Finding Shawl.

Q.—What happened at that time? A. [turning his gaze around to the windows behind him and coughing]—I don't know if anything happened. She started to drive away. She was in my father's car, and I noticed that the back seat was jutting out. I told her to wait a minute and I would put it back in place. [Again he lapsed into a long silence].

Q.—What happened then? A. [slowly]—It wouldn't push in, so I pulled it out to see what was the matter.

Q.—Then what? A.—The first thing I saw was a shawl. I don't know what kind it was.

Q.—Had you seen it before? A.—Either it or one like it.

Q.—Where? A.—On Mrs. Maybelle Kelly.

A murmur of conversation rippled through the courtroom. Judge Williams turned a stern face toward them. His bailif rapped for order.

Q.—What else were there? A.—Two suitcases.

Q.—Did either you or Myra open them? A.—No, sir.

Meeting with Myra Told.

Q. [sternly]—At that time did you know anything about Mrs. Kelly? A.—I heard that she was missing.

The minister glanced severely at his son as he said this, then relapsed into his apathetic huddle.

Noel continued haltingly. He and Miss Hanan drove out to his home, southwest of Paris, Mo., he said, and placed the shawl and suitcases in an abandoned shed, then returned to town. That afternoon he called on his mother, Mrs. Grace Newton, who is ill.

Q.—Did you see Myra after that? A.—I did.

Q.—About what time? A.—Between 7 and 8, at my station.

Q.—What did you do? A. [in a whisper]—We discussed the disappearance of Mrs. Kelly.

Q.—Had you heard she was dead? A.—I had, yes, sir.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I wondered about those clothes and what we should do with them.

Again he paused. There was no sound in the courtroom. The minister made little marks on his two sheets of paper.

"Go on," said Judge Williams. "Go on, boy."

"Well, at 9 o'clock Miss Hanan came back," Noel continued. "We went out to the shed, moved the suitcases and drove out to the north, possibly 32 miles. We went off on a side road."

Q.—What did you do when you got there? A.—Burned them.

Q.—How? A.—With kerosene and gasoline.

Q.—Did you wait to see them burn? A. [clenching hands tightly]—Yes, sir. Then we got back to Paris about midnight, stopped by my station, and [his voice droned off into silence].

Noel next saw Miss Hanan at 2 a. m., he said, at his parents' home when she turned over some money to Sherif Russell Wilkes of Monroe County, Mo.

Jurors Given Rest.

Q.—How much money was delivered there? A.—I saw him count it out, but I've forgotten how much it was.

Q.—Was it $1,930? A.—I couldn't say [whispered].

Q.—Did you see the size of the bills? A.—Yes, $20 bills and $10 bills.

Q.—Where was the money?

"If you know," interrupted Defense Attorney Johnston.

I went with Myra to her office to get it," Noel said slowly.

With that he was excused without cross-examination and he hurried from the courtroom, ignoring his father. Judge Williams then dismissed the exhausted jury for a ten minute rest.

The money, the state will seek to prove, was the $1,930 remaining from the $1,950 Mrs. Kelly withdrew from the bank on July 12 preparatory to leaving her home and husband with the preacher. Newton later gave it to Miss Hanan for "safekeeping" and she turned it over to the sherif.

Miss Hanan Next Witness.

The next witness for the state was Miss Hanan, a pleasant spinster of 37, whose features were blurred behind a voluminous black veil.

Her testimony was similar to Noel's. She said that Newton, whom she served as secretary, gave her an envelope "which had money in it."

"Did he say anything?" Prosecutor Johnston asked her.

"He said," she replied distinctly, "if any one asked where he was the night of the 12th I should say he was home."

Q.—Was he at home during the evening? A.—Until 8:30.

Q.—Did you see him again that evening? A.—No.

When Defense Attorney Martin S. Turner asked on cross-examination if she were "uneasy" about the minister she replied, "I was afraid something might have happened to him."

The morning session was one replete with grimness and macabre relics of Mrs. Kelly. A tuft of reddish-brown hair, a piece of skull bone, a grimy white handkerchief, a pair of slippers, the contents of a pocketbook—all these were spread out on a little table, while the jury craned forward.

Tells of Seeing Hair.

Oscar Howarth, a Pike county farmer, a tall, wiry man, dressed in his dark Sunday clothes, testified that as he was driving along highway 66, a mile and a half east of the Mark Twain bridge, at 6 a. m. he saw a pair of woman's slippers and blood on the pavement.

Q. [by prosecutor]—How do you know that was a pool of blood you saw? A.—O, I've seen blood before.

Q.—Did you see anything else? A.—I saw bits of hair near the edge of the pavement.

Q.—Are these [producing a pair of small, dark blue, kid tie-pumps] the slippers of which you spoke? A. [peering intently at them]—I think they are. I know they are. That dent there [indicating a tear in the leather of one heel] was where one had been run over on the pavement.

The Rev. Mr. Newton, a look of superior resignation on his face, cast a cursory glance at the slippers, then bent over the table to scribble many notes.

Howarth admitted on cross-examination there had been quite a bit of rain the previous night.

Witness Evokes Titters.

Q.—But there was no water on the pavement? A—No, sir.

Q.—It was a comparatively hard rain? A—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you pick up the shoes? A. [emphatically]—I did not.

Q.—You left them there? A. [with slight disgust]—I moved them off the pavement with my rubber boot.

Q.—Did you leave them there? A.—I sartinly did.

The spectators and jury both tittered audibly as the farmer, with affronted dignity, drew back in the witness chair. Judge Williams sat sternly upright.

"There must not be anything of that kind in here," the judge said, frowning at the laughter. "I give you that warning now."

"I never touched them," Howarth hurriedly added. "I seen the law instead."

Recalls Finding Spots.

Q.—Was there hair on the concrete? A.—There was hair on the concrete and on the weeds.

Q.—Did you say the hair was between the bloodspots? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you see any footprints? A.—I saw a couple of men's tracks right where the bloodstains were. They looked like fresh tracks to me.

Later, on the bridge, he saw more blood, he said—"scattered all over." The size was "O, a nickel or a quarter or something like that."

James O'Donnell of Hannibal, Monroe county, Mo., coroner, a big man with gray hair and John L. Lewis eyebrows, testified he went with Kelly to identify the body. A Hannibal policeman, Bailey Brower, then took the stand.

Brower went out to the scene of the crime on Howarth's report, and found spots of blood "the size of my hand" on the pavement and a spot "twice as large" on the shoulder.

Women Witnesses Sob.

Q. [by prosecutor]—How much hair did you see there? A.—Several strands.

Q.—Where was it with reference to spots of blood? A.—Some was close by.

Q.—Describe that hair if you can. A.—Reddish brown, streaked with gray.

Q.—Did you pick it up? A.—I did later.

Q.—What else did you see? A. [slowly]—A piece of skull bone with jagged edges covered with blood.

A murmur of horror went through the courtroom. The minister, tilting his chair backward and forward, compressed his stubby yellow pencil in his fist. Women witnesses, awaiting their turn at the stand, began to cry. One left the courtroom.

Brower said he also saw imprints of shoes in the mud, some two feet away from the piece of bone, and found about four or five hairpins.

OWNER NAMES APPRAISER FOR AIRPORT LAND

Selects Realty Expert; Expect Quick Settlement.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Raymond E. Herman, real estate broker who owns a tract of land needed by the city in its program to expand the Chicago airport, yesterday appointed Ernest H. Lyons, secretary of the Chicago Real Estate board, to represent him as appraiser to determine the value of his holdings. Lyons is to confer today with John R. O'Connor, agent for the city council in the negotiations.

The appointment is a step forward in the airport expansion program, which has marked time for the last three weeks. It was feared for a while that Herman would refuse to sell his land and surrender his reversionary rights, but yesterday he repeated that he is willing to sell and said he will accept the price placed by the appraisers.

Expects Early Settlement.

"It's up to Mr. Lyons and to Mr. O'Connor and to a third man, if they feel it is necessary to have a third appraiser aid them," Herman said.

Lyons yesterday indicated he believes now that it will not be necessary to call in a third man. He said he saw no reason to delay matters by calling in a third appraiser.

"I think it would be a safe assumption to say that we should be able to talk price within a week," said Lyons. "I will make a study of the property itself and examine the sales prices of nearby parcels of land.

Plans to Look at Land.

"Then I'll be in a position to talk price with Mr. O'Connor. I expect to see him tomorrow and then look over Mr. Herman's property."

Lyons has been in the real estate business in Chicago for thirty-five years. He was president of the Illinois Association of Certified Real Estate Appraisers in 1936 and has been elected vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board in charge of the appraisal division for 1938.

Herman's land is a 105 acre tract bounded by 55th street and Archer avenue, and Cicero and Laramie avenues. It is of importance in the airport program because the present airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue must be expanded northward.

LONDON POLICE OPEN DRIVE TO PUT END TO 'STRIP TEASE' SHOWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A police drive to stamp out secret "strip tease" dancing in London night clubs has been launched by Scotland Yard. That was announced tonight. Since their recent introduction in Great Britain "strip tease" acts have been an added attraction in illicit drinking dives in London's west end.

Although police have known that these acts were being staged they were unable, in several raids, to catch the "strip teasers" in action.

The police watch on suspected clubs throughout London is being intensified. An official of the public morality council stated that college students have been receiving lurid postcards inviting them to strip tease shows.

"These places are a mixture of night clubs and bottle parties," he said. "We are fighting to stamp them out."

VICE RACKETEER GETS OFF IN N. Y., BUT NOT BY U. S.

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Although Nick Montana, vice racketeer, had been considered fortunate when his plea of guilty to a misdemeanor was accepted to take the place of the twenty-five year term, it was reported today that the federal government plans to keep him in prison.

The maximum penalty which can be imposed on him in New York will be an indeterminate term, which the parole board could extend to three years. There are indications now that at its expiration Montana will face charges of income tax violation.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Pilatsky has insisted the ring headed by Montana had an income of $350,000 yearly from vice trafic. Montana says his average income as a "betting commissioner" had been only $7,000. But Mr. Montana is very morose over the prospect of a federal grand jury investigation of his income taxes.

tained and questioned, and the constant shadowing made their lives torment. It was announced unofficially at the embassy that Berlin had decided to close the consulates in an effort to protect the German nationals remaining in Russia.

Moscow States Action.

MOSCOW, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Germany's agreement to close five consulates in the soviet union by Jan. 15 was officially announced today as "the result of diplomatic negotiations."

German consulates in Leningrad, in Tiflis, in Kharkov, in Vladivostok, and in Odessa will be closed.

The soviet union obtained elimination of the German consulates under a reciprocity agreement which provides for the same numerical representation in each country.

Since the soviets have consulates only in Hamburg and in Königsburg they had Germany withdraw all but their Kiev and Novosibirsk representatives. Poland recently closed her Kharkov and Tiflis consulates, leaving posts only in Leningrad, Minsk, and Kiev. Recognition of the Japanese consulate at Odessa was withdrawn when Japan refused to close it.

Diplomatic sources said that Italy, threatened with the loss of her Odessa consulate, offered to accept a soviet consulate in Naples.

URGE NEW CITY FEES ON TAVERNS OPEN AFTER 1 A.M.

Aldermen Act to Raise Funds for Pay Increase.

A plan to collect special license fees from taverns operating after 1 a. m., the legal closing hour, yesterday was tossed into the cauldron of proposals which city council leaders hope will boil down into $1,800,000 in hard money. This amount of new revenue is still needed to restore pre-depression salaries of city employés next year.

The move for night owl saloon licenses arose as the result of complaints that many tavern owners are paying graft for the illegal privilege of staying open after hours. It is the view of the aldermen that payments for special privileges should go to the city in the form of extra fees.

Seeks Quick Action.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the finance committee, seeking quick action on the revenue situation, called a meeting today of a joint revenue committee of ten which was hastily appointed yesterday at a meeting of the finance committee. He complained that the matter of raising funds has been simmering for four months, since it passed into the hands of the license committee from a special subcommittee appointed by Mayor Kelly last spring.

Arvey yesterday proposed that saloon licenses be increased from $600 to $1,000 a year and urged a $100 fee on cigaret vending machines.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] said the city ought to amend the present tavern ordinances to impose fees of perhaps $600 a year additional on places staying open after the present legal closing hour of 1 a. m.

Says Many Taverns Getting By.

"Many taverns are now getting by, staying open until 2 or 3 a. m. and later," said McDermott, a member of the new joint committee. "Why shouldn't the city be paid a fee for this privilege?"

He said some of these taverns have $25 amusement licenses and small orchestras to justify their after hours operations, but that they violate the present ordinance persistently in selling drinks after 1 o'clock.

Reports received by some aldermen were that these places paid $50 a month in certain districts for "unofficial privileges." Ald. McDermott said that many years of experience have shown that the present police force cannot enforce a closing hour against all taverns.

"By licensing those willing to pay to stay open late, it will make it easier to regulate the others," Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] said.

Called Aid to Regulation.

Ald. Thomas P. Keane, chairman of the license committee, said the city should collect fees for after hours operation as an aid to regulation.

"I favor such extra licenses," Ald. Arvey said. "The same thing has been done in many other cities and it is a practical plan. We ought also to increase the basic license on liquor sales from $600 to $1,000, the amount collected back in the days when a dollar was a lot of money. Instead of 9,000 places selling liquor, the city should have no more than 8,000."

New license ordinances already enacted this year, most of them effective Jan. 1, will add $750,000 to the city's revenue.

MISS GERTRUDE McCARTHY.

JEFFERSON CAFFERY.

ENVOY CAFFERY TO WED CHICAGO WOMAN IN RIO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Plans were disclosed today for the marriage of Ambassador Jefferson Caffery of the United States and Miss Gertrude McCarthy of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed Saturday in the presence of a limited number of guests. The bride is expected to arrive by plane from New York tomorrow.

Miss McCarthy is the daughter of the late Col. Daniel E. McCarthy and Mrs. McCarthy. She has been living with her mother at 181 Lake Shore drive. She is a graduate of St. Mary's school at South Bend, Ind. Col. McCarthy, who died in 1922, was chief quartermaster of the American forces in France in the early months of the world war and accompanied Gen. John J. Pershing on his first trip overseas.

Miss McCarthy and Ambassador Caffery have known each other for a number of years.

Mr. Caffery has been in the diplomatic service since 1911, when he was appointed secretary of the legation at Caracas, Venezuela. He was assigned to Paris during President Wilson's visit there in 1919 and has served in many foreign capitals. He was ambassador to Cuba, where in 1934 he was the target of assassins in an anti-American demonstration by revolutionaries. He remained at Havana until he was made ambassador to Brazil last July.

COUNTY DEFICIT IN '38 FORESEEN IN BUDGET PLANS

Income Short of Expenses Put at $20,424,062.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The county board yesterday received preliminary estimates on its 1938 budget, showing that despite a surplus of $3,232,243 at the end of the current fiscal year, next year's estimated revenues will fall $697,177 short of meeting expected expenses.

The board also passed a resolution accepting a PWA grant of $324,818 toward construction of a new power plant, laundry, and inter-building tunnels at the County hospital. The county's share of the work, of which the power plant is already under construction, will be $464,159, the major portion of which came from the bond issue for construction of the hospital nurses' home. The federal grant has not been made officially, but county officials have received unofficial promises of the money.

The estimated total of appropriations for the county's corporate [operating] fund in 1938 is $20,424,062, whereas the revenue estimate is for only $19,726,885.

The budget estimates submitted by County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, ex-officio county controler; his deputy, Richard J. Daley, and County Auditor Lee Howard, were on the slimmest possible basis. The appropriations for county offices and departments were fixed at those of 1937, except where statutory requirements indicate increases which cannot be avoided.

When the board starts work on the budget the revenue deficiency which it will face will be even greater, as most county elective officials and departments are asking appropriations higher than they received this year. The help committee of Circuit court judges, which fixes the number of employés in county fee offices, will hold its first meeting today.

1938 Extras Listed.

The 1938 budget estimates list the following essential additions to the 1937 spending schedule:

Costs of 1938 elections	$1,237,270
Additional loss and costs of tax collections	443,424
Pay increases to union employés and to women employés at the County hospital, the latter as the result of the passage of the eight hour law for women	125,000
Increased pay for jurors and witnesses	141,000
Total	$1,946,694

The county receives a 4 cent increase in its tax rate during even numbered years to cover increased election costs, but the tax levy increase will fall approximately $382,000 short of meeting the higher costs next year.

There are other budget increases almost sure to be made beyond those listed in the estimates, and whatever increases in help the Circuit judges' committee may allow. It will cost an estimated $250,000 to put County hospital nurses on an eight hour day and contemplated increases to the nursing and orderly force there, held desirable by recent surveys of the hospital, would cost $150,000.

Hospital Improvements Planned.

In addition Anton C. Negri, efficiency expert at the hospital, has listed permanent improvements there costing $135,000 to meet some of the defects disclosed by his own survey of the hospital and by a committee of hospital administrators headed by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university medical school. Altogether the county commissioners face a potential 1938 deficit of approximately $1,250,000.

The budget estimate lists the following revenue sources for 1938:

Tax levy	$ 7,606,642
Penalties on delinquent taxes	4,000,000
Other fee office collections	4,242,500
Licenses and permits	100,000
From state for mothers' and blind pensions	545,500
1937 surplus	3,232,243
Total	$19,726,885

The 1937 surplus was built up partly from improved tax collections of levies for prior years and partly by the fact that the 1937 budget appropriated only $5,000,000 of penalties on delinquent taxes, whereas actual collections this year will exceed $7,000,000. The cream of these penalties, which have kept the county from insolvency during the depression, has come in already, however, and the 1938 estimate is for only $4,000,000.

Estimates also were submitted for other county funds. Those for the highway, hard roads refund, and motor fuel tax funds provide $7,879,108 for 1938 highway construction in the county.

Alderman Suggests Flat 25 Cent Cab Rate in Loop

A flat rate of 25 cents a ride anywhere within the boundaries of the loop was suggested yesterday as a solution of the taxicab muddle.

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman, offered the proposal at a meeting of the local transportation committee, attended by numerous aldermen, trafic experts, and officials of the Yellow and Checker cab companies.

Studies Company Offer.

The committee has been meeting for several weeks to consider a joint proposal of the companies and their drivers. This would reduce the number of taxis from 4,108 to 3,000, extend the expiration of the taxi contract ordinance from 1940 to 1945, and increase the initial or flag pull charge 5 cents to a total of 20 cents. This, the companies contend, would increase the drivers' weekly pay.

Aldermen and the riding public have based their principal objection to the present and proposed taxi rates on the waiting time charge of 10 cents for three minutes which taxi meters automatically register when the cab speed drops to 7½ miles an hour.

Explain New York System.

In New York, several aldermen said yesterday, taxis allow six minutes waiting time on the original flag pull before a charge of 5 cents for each two minutes of additional waiting time is registered.

If this system, coupled with the New York rate of 20 cents for the flag pull and 5 cents for each additional quarter of a mile, were in effect here, they said, no ride in the loop would cost more than 25 cents instead of the 35 or 45 cents often charged.

Although the revenue per ride might decrease, they argued that this plan would stimulate business, attract many riders who do not now use cabs and eventually give the driver and the companies more revenue.

Object to Comparison.

Benjamin F. Samuels, general counsel for the Yellow company, and Michael Sokol, president of Checker, objected to any comparison between Chicago and New York rates as unfair.

Because trafic is heavier in New York, they said, taxis can make additional revenue on a longer waiting time allowance, which would seriously decrease receipts if applied here.

"The companies here would be taking a big gamble on increasing business by lowering rates," said Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., engineer for the committee.

Uncertainty Is Problem.

"Our big problem," asserted Ald. Quinn, "is the lack of a definite fare in the loop. A customer enters a cab and has no exact idea of what the charge will be because of the peculiar waiting charge.

"Our committee wants you men to try and solve this and report back in a few days. I think a 25 cent charge for the flag pull, to cover a mile long ride would be the solution. This would include any ride in the loop, where the average is three-quarters of a mile."

PERSONALTY TAX VALUATIONS UP IN TWO MORE TOWNS

Assessor John S. Clark yesterday published the 1937 personal property assessment lists for Bloom and Berwyn townships, showing additional increases in valuations as a result of his new policy of gaining assessment information from federal income tax returns.

In Bloom township, which includes a number of large manufacturing plants in Chicago Heights, assessments were increased 34 per cent, from $2,862,951 to $3,850,630. Among the larger assessments against industrial plants were the following, asterisks indicating those on which the taxpayer filed a return:

Assessments in Berwyn township increased 47 per cent, from $1,297,290 in 1936, to $1,914,950 in 1937. The assessments are largely against home-owners and small business establishments.

To date the assessor has sent personal property books for eighteen country towns to the board of tax appeals.

JAPS THREATEN TO BLOCK WAR AID TO CHINESE

Ready to Stop Ships of Foreign Nations.

in imminent peril. The government advised all to go except those whose presence was necessary for defense or essential public services.

Roads Are Thronged.

Roads were thronged with heavy movements in both directions—civilians fleeing and troops moving up to the front.

Some of the reinforcements were fully equipped army units marching directly into the battle areas east of Nanking.

Riverside wharves were piled high with baggage and jammed with men, women, and children patiently waiting for transportation by boat up the Yangtze river or by train across it.

Throughout the night huge bonfires on the grounds of the communications, war and other ministries were fed with documents, archives and other records being burned to prevent them from falling into Japanese hands.

Plan to Remove Americans.

President Lin Sen and the five yuans [councils] in which central authority is vested—executive, legislative, judicial, examination and supervisory—were proceeding to Chungking, in Szechwan province. Most ministries were being established at Hankow, 300 miles west of Shanghai. The ministry of communications, however, was located at Changsha, south of Hankow, and the ministry of war at Wuchang, across the Yangtze from Hankow.

Evacuation of American citizens from Nanking was not definitly arranged. Some physicians and nurses were expected to move with their hospitals. Other Americans, it was believed, would be withdrawn on American gunboats if it became necessary.

Rear Admiral Edward J. Marquart, commander of the American Yangtze river patrol, sped toward Nanking from Hankow on board his flagship, the gunboat Luzon. The American gunboat Oahu also was on its way to Nanking to join the Panay, the only gunboat in the Nanking harbor.

Several American missionaries already had gone to the Lake Tai region, 20 miles west of Soochow, to shepherd hundreds of refugees in camp there.

Jap Advance Slowed Up.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18 [Thursday].—(AP)—Chinese apparently were making at least a temporarily successful stand today against Japan's westward advance.

With heavy rains helping them stop Japanese planes and mobile equipment, the Chinese fought rearguard actions to hold their enemy east of the main defense line between Shanghai and Nanking.

Chinese leaders said they were preventing an immediate frontal attack on Soochow, a pivotal point on the "Hindenburg line" 50 miles west of Shanghai.

Dispatches said Chinese strength was being consolidated along the whole line stretching about 110 miles from Fushan, on the Yangtze river, south through Changshu, Waiting, Kashing, and Pinghu to Chapoo, on Hangchow bay. The main Japanese column, they said, was stopped along the Shanghai-Nanking railway between the Cheni and Waiting stations.

Gen. Chang Fah-kwei, "Ironsides" commander of Chinese forces on the Shanghai front, launched a counter-offensive near Kashing to hold off two Japanese columns menacing that point on the defense line.

Minneapolis Labor Leader Is Found Shot to Death

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18 [Thursday].—(AP)—Patrick J. Corcoran, secretary-treasurer of the Teamsters' Joint council and a leader in Minneapolis labor circles, was found dead near his home late last night, and Assistant Coroner A. N. Russeth said he had been shot.

STRICKEN IN STREET; DIES.

William Hanneman, 52 years old, 5723 West Erie street, a blacksmith, was stricken with a heart attack last evening in Chicago avenue near Cicero avenue, and was dead when taken to St. Anne's hospital.

Chinese Speed Flight from Nanking in Autos, Boats, and Trains

The mass exodus from Nanking, China's capital, was hastened yesterday as noncombatants received an unofficial warning to flee from the path of the Japanese advance. Most of the refugees hastened westward as indicated by arrows. The government in its evacuation of the capital began moving its ministries to Hankow, Chungking, Changsha, and Wuchang. Boats, trains, and roads were packed with fleeing humanity. The Japanese, who are in control of most of the Shanghai peninsula, as shown by black area, continued to assault Chinese defense lines 50 miles west of Shanghai, but made little progress.

MONARCHS DANCE TO JAZ BAND IN BRITISH FUNCTION

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(AP)—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth summoned a dance orchestra to the prim precincts of Buckingham palace tonight for the first time in their reign to entertain King Leopold III. of the Belgians at a state ball. A military string orchestra usually has provided the music at palace functions.

Their majesties set another precedent by decreeing male guests should wear evening dress with knee breeches instead of glittering uniforms. Lord Cromer, walking backward, ushered the royal hosts and guests into the ballroom. Fourteen hundred guests were on the dance floor. Leopold took Queen Elizabeth to dance and King George danced with his sister, Mary, the princess royal.

King Leopold received the homage of the City [financial district] of London earlier today after exchanging with King George mutual pledges to strive for peace. Leopold's schedule included a reception for the diplomatic corps and a luncheon at Guildhall with the lord mayor of London.

WINTER ADVANCES ON SPANISH WAR; DELAY OF REBEL DRIVE SEEN

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Winter weather paralyzed military action on Spanish war fronts tonight. Neither side reported any fighting.

Observers believed the advent of winter would prove a major obstacle to rebel Gen. Francisco Franco's campaign for an early end of the conflict. Fog hung particularly thick over the vital Aragon front, scene of the largest rebel concentrations. Military observers believed the settling of winter would delay decisive action for many months.

Britain Names Agent to Rebels.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 17. — Sir Robert Hodgson today was named the first British commercial agent to rebel Spain. He will make his headquarters at Salamanca and supervise agents in other rebel cities. The ambassador to London of the Spanish loyalist government protested that this "implies abandonment of the policy of abstaining from all official relations with those in revolt against the legal government."

JAPAN PREPARES TO RECOGNIZE FRANCO REGIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 18 [Thursday].—Germany and Italy have expressed to Japan a willingness to recognize Manchukuo when Tokio extends recognition to the Spanish rebel régime of Gen. Francisco Franco this month, it was reported here today.

Koki Hirota, foreign minister, told the cabinet members yesterday that Germany and Italy had requested Japan to recognize the insurgent government. The newspaper Asahi predicted the diplomatic moves will strengthen the Japanese-Italian-German alliance against communism.

The nation officially was placed on a practical wartime basis with the adoption of the "imperial headquarters" measure. The chiefs of the general stafs of the army and navy will assist Emperor Hirohito in exercising the imperial supreme command, formulating strategic plans, and coördinating the operations of the army and navy.

HALIFAX BEGINS NEGOTIATIONS WITH NAZI CHIEFS

British Cabinet Official at Berlin Hunt Show.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council in the British cabinet, arrived in Berlin today on a visit which may have important effects on future world history.

His contact with leaders of the Nazi régime in Germany began at lunch time, when he was a guest of Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, in the family circle at the latter's residence.

Much to the delight of Nazi Germany, the British emissary agreed to take the 20 hour trip back and forth between Berlin and Obersalzberg, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's home in southern Bavaria, for a visit with Germany's Fuehrer, thus stressing the eagerness of Great Britain to attempt an understanding with Germany.

Returns to Berlin Saturday.

An official statement issued at the British embassy stressed that—apart from visits to the international hunting exhibition in Berlin which has drawn huge crowds—Viscount Halifax has no other engagements until he leaves by train on Thursday night for Obersalzberg, accompanied by Foreign Minister von Neurath.

Again traveling overnight, Halifax will return Saturday to Berlin in time to lunch with Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air and national hunting master, at the latter's hunting lodge, Karin hall, about thirty miles north of Berlin.

Despite the publicity given to Halifax's arrival only a handful of persons were at the Friedrich-Strasse station when he alighted from the Nord Express this morning.

Greeted by Ambassador.

Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, was there to greet Halifax, but the Wilhelmstrasse was represented only by Herr von Buelow-Schwante, chief of protocol in the German foreign office.

Halifax spent two hours during the afternoon at the hunting exhibition, which will be held over another week because of the throngs which have attended it. Halifax found the exhibition so interesting that he arranged to visit it again tomorrow.

His anxiety "to establish friendly relations" was shown by his statement issued tonight giving his impressions of the exhibition. He lauded everything connected with it, and paid high tribute to its organizers, especially Col. Gen. Goering.

Aviator Sues Aviatrix

Mrs. Opal Anderson and her son, Norman Richard, age 2.

As soon as he taught his wife to fly she was up in a plane so much that he became an air widower. This complaint was made in his Superior court divorce bill yesterday by Willard H. Anderson, 2640 South 59th avenue, Cicero, a printer and private pilot. Instead of staying home to cook, according to the bill, filed by Attorney Victor Frohlich, the wife, Opal, who is 29, spent her time at the Ashburn airport, or flying about the country in "Betsy," the family plane. Anderson says he was willing to give her the plane in return for a divorce. To support his charge of cruelty he accused her of throwing the T bone of a steak, a stein of beer, a pitcher of water, and a loaf of bread at him. They have a son, Norman Richard, 2 years old.

Twins, Identical to Blood Pressure, Enlist in Navy

5 NEW CARDINALS TO BE GIVEN RED HATS ON DEC. 16

Pope Will Preside Over Elevation Services.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. will elevate five prelates to the college of cardinals in two ceremonial consistories next month.

Three will be Italians, one English, and one French. Their elevation will increase to sixty-nine the strength of the college which traditionally is limited to a maximum of seventy.

The Vatican announced today the following will be named cardinals in a secret session Dec. 13:

Archibshops Giuseppe Pizzardo, Vatican undersecretary of state; Ermenegildo Pellegrinetti, nuncio to Jugo-Slavia; Giovanni Piazza, patriarch of Venice; Arthur Hinsley of Westminster, and Pierre Gerlier of Lyons.

The 80 year old pope will bestow red hats upon them at a public consistory Dec. 16.

Bourne England's Last Cardinal.

The elevation of the archbishop of Westminster will give England her first cardinal since the death of Cardinal Francis Bourne in 1935. Like Archbishop Gerlier and Patriarch Piazza, the archbishop of Westminster is the new prelate of a see to which a cardinalate usually is accorded.

In elevating Archbishops Pizzardo and Pellegrinetti, the pope will accord them recognition for their work in his diplomatic service. With the new members, the college of cardinals will be composed of thirty-nine Italians and thirty of other nationalities, including four in the United States.

The pope, aged and infirm, will muster his strength to officiate at the lengthy consistories at which the cardinals will be created.

Wishes Everything in Order.

In occupying himself fully with the work of his office against the advice of physicians and advisers, the pontiff often has said he wished to depart with everything in order. The college of cardinals presumably will be no exception to this rule.

The pope frequently has asserted he may not have much longer to live and it is the cardinals who meet on the death of a pontiff to elect his successor.

Illness Halts Trip of Link to Prison in Whoopee Case

Because Frank J. Link, former sanitary district trustee, lay critically ill in his home at 4162 Lake Shore drive, deputy sherifs were unable yesterday to obey a court order that he be seized and sent to Joliet penitentiary to start serving a sentence of 1 to 5 years, imposed in 1932 when he was convicted of graft during the sanitary district's whoopee era of 1928-'29.

Cognizance was taken of medical opinions that removal might cause the death of Link, and two guards were stationed at his bedside to keep him in technical custody.

High Court Blasts Last Hope.

The last hope of escaping punishment held by Link and John T. Miller, a minor district official who was convicted with him, was shattered on Oct. 11 when the United States Supreme court refused to review their sentences. Capiases for their arrest were not given to the sherif's office until yesterday, however, five weeks having been required to certify the highest court's decision to the Illinois Supreme court and the Criminal court of Cook county.

Miller, whose sentence was six months in the Bridewell and a fine of $2,000, was not found by the deputies. He was in Springfield last night. He said he would return to Chicago late this week or next Monday and would surrender immediately thereafter.

When a deputy with a capias arrived at the Link home and was informed of Link's condition he telephoned the sherif's office for instructions. Dr. Meyer H. Levy, jail physician, was sent to make an investigation. He was joined by Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, who has had Link under treatment for months, and the examination was made by both.

"He is suffering from paralysis agitans [shaking palsy]," said Dr. Schmidt, "and prostatic trouble. His condition has been aggravated by shock due to the realization that he must go to prison. If he is moved now, the sherif must be responsible for the consequences."

Dr. Levy agreed it was inadvisable to hurry the removal of the patient and will examine him again today.

Once an alderman from the 48th ward, Link was elected to a six year term as sanitary district trustee in 1924. He retired at the end of that term and has not been active in business or politics since. He is 67 years old.

Indicted in Graft Case.

Link was one of nine persons indicted in the so-called whoopee era graft case. Two, John K. Lawler and Lawrence King, died before the trial ended. Three John J. Touhy, James Whalen, and August W. Miller, were acquitted. Besides Link and John T. Miller, those convicted were Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary board, and Martin Edelstein, a minor official. Crowe died while his case was being appealed, and Edelstein won a new trial and was freed.

During trial of the case, which lasted for two months, it was alleged that the graft conspiracy had cost the taxpayers $6,000,000. Judge Harry M. Fisher presided and was advised by two other judges, John J. Prystalski and James J. Kelly. There was no jury.

Link and Miller carried their appeal first to the Illinois Supreme court, where the sentences were affirmed on Oct. 14, 1936.

TURKEY TO KEEP PACE IN EUROPE'S ARMAMENT RACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 17.—Several new faces appear in the cabinet which guides Turkey into the fifteenth year of the republic, but President Kemal Ataturk is still at the helm and has launched a program to keep pace with the rearmament of other European nations.

Jelal Bayar, former economics minister, has replaced Gen. Ismet Inonu as premier, and Dr. Tewfik Rustu Aras, for many years foreign minister, has been given a long leave of absence.

Kemal is laying particular emphasis on strengthening aviation. Also early this month he reviewed Turkey's military and naval forces, the navy maneuvers being a demonstration of strength available for protection of the Dardanelles. Kemal declared Turkey's policy still is based on adherence to the league of nations.

REBELLION OVER WAGE AND HOURS BILL REARS HEAD

House Waits Morosely to See What's Up.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The administration's measure for political control over wages and hours was attacked on several fronts in congress today as a scheme to set up a labor dictatorship.

The wages-hours legislation is simmering in a morose house of representatives, waiting to see how far the scheme might go. Disaffection appeared in the ranks of the Democratic majority as the implications of the proposal dawned on congressmen who, hearing from home about the business slump, are not in a receptive mood for more regimentation.

The pending measure, it was pointed out, would set up a presidential board subject to political caprice and a new burocracy clothed with arbitrary powers for the fixing of minimum wages and maximum hours of labor. The board would be empowered to establish differentials between various regions in the country. This last was thrown in to woo congressmen from the south, where wage scales are generally lower than in the north. Other features of the scheme are odious to representatives from other sections of the country.

Taber Rakes Scheme.

While the majority leadership was trying to corral its demoralized forces, Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] took the floor of the house to rake the wages-hours proposition as "overlordship, a dictatorship, a totalitarian state." Members on the Democrat side either listened glumly in their seats or retreated to the red leather couches in the cloakrooms, there to stay until the storm was over.

After two days of intensive campaigning sponsors of wage-hours legislation could muster only 105 signatures on a petition which would bring the measure to the floor for immediate consideration. This was less than half of the 218 signatures required and was surprising in view of the fact that the bill is one of President Roosevelt's "must" measures and the Democrats have a three to one majority in the 435 house seats.

The petition would dislodge the bill, which was passed by the senate last session, from the powerful rules committee where it has been bottled up through the opposition of southern members. Under the complicated rules of the house the members can not take up the legislation until Dec. 13 even if the required number sign on the dotted line.

She's Still Optimistic.

Many house members dislike the bill in its present form and are suspicious that administration forces will inject additional collectivism in it after it reaches the floor. The house labor committee under Chairman Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.], is said to have 60 possible amendments in mind.

Mrs. Norton, who started the petition, still insisted today that she will gain her goal of 218 signatures unless there are "a lot of fibbers" in the house.

One of the proposals the labor committee is leaning to is that the fixing of minimum wages and maximum hours be done by an administrator under the wing of the department of labor. This plan has aroused considerable opposition because of the feeling against Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in congress.

In his attack on the scheme Representative Taber called attention to the fact that the fixing of wage and hour scales by the government would destroy labor unions or any other regulation that might represent the employé in bargaining with his employer. He pointed out that the late Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, had warned against such a plan.

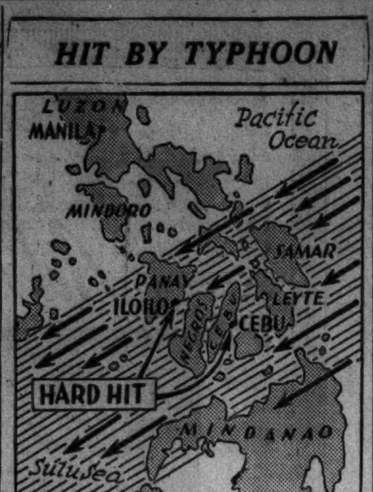
HIT BY TYPHOON



Two persons were dead and hundreds homeless as the result of a typhoon, the second in six days, which roared across the Philippines.

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 18 [Thursday]. —(AP)—Two deaths and hundreds of homeless were listed in first fragmentary reports today from the typhoon swept Vissayan group of Philippine Islands. Officials of Cebu province, one of nine hit by the typhoon, reported the storm raged all day Wednesday, inflicting heavy damage. They said "hundreds of families need help immediately."

Radio stations and the power plant at Cebu, 350 miles south of Manila, were disabled. The city of Capiz, on Panay Island, was reported hard hit. The typhoon was the second to strike the Philippines within six days.

SHOOT AND SEIZE YOUTH IN STOLEN CAR; TWO ESCAPE

Three youths riding in a stolen automobile were spotted in Irving Park boulevard at California avenue last night by Motorcycle Policemen Howard Hanson and Henry Vesgrove. The policemen chased the car, zigzagging west for a mile and a half to Keystone avenue, where it turned north and into a blind alley. The three youths jumped out and scattered. The policemen saw one of them climbing a railroad embankment and opened fire on him. He disappeared, but was seized a moment later by Policeman Edward Russ on the other side of the embankment. The fugitive had been struck by three police bullets—in his head, side, and shoulder. At the Bridewell hospital he gave his name as Raymond Shadnecki, 17 years old, 1049 North Hermitage avenue. His companions escaped.

Hamilton Sees Trend to G. O. P. in Fall's Elections

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 17.—(AP)—John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, said here today that "this fall's elections show a definite trend back to the conservative program of the Republican party." He was addressing a convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women.

BAILEY WARNS SENATE TO GET BUSY ON TAXES

Both Houses Dawdle on "Four Points."

of the rules committee. In the senate a filibuster against a motion to bring up the Wagner-Van Nuys antilynching bill continued unabated, with indications that it would go on until next week, when the agriculture committee may or may not be ready with the administration's compulsory crop control bill. After hearing Secretary Wallace today members of the committee said there was widespread opposition to many provisions of the bill.

Warning Part of Filibuster.

Senator Bailey took the floor ostensibly to speak against the motion to take up the anti-lynching bill, but addressed himself primarily to the business depression.

"We have undergone the experience of a very severe recession,' as it is called," said Senator Bailey. "What we had in 1929 was a depression. What we are having almost on the eighth anniversary of 1929 is a 'recession,' a turning downward in the old direction.

"In view of the untoward situation, the loss of 30 billion dollars in values on the stock exchange alone—the destruction of that immense blacklog of credit—in view of the losses in value of farm products and real esate, and in view of the fact that neither the secretary of the treasury nor the President nor the leading financiers and experts have been able to say anything so far to shore up the landslide and prevent it from coming down upon us in disastrous proportions, the primary duty of congress is to address itself without delay to that situation.

Terms Situation Disgusting.

"And I think it is a strange gesture, a most discomforting gesture—I could almost say that it will be in the public mind a most disgusting gesture—for the congress to sit here and fiddle away with legislation of this sort."

Senator Bailey said there is nothing to prevent congress from acting now and urged that the senate and house "take hold of the powers that we have and exert them in order that the American people may be delivered, if we can do it, from the disasters which so cl[illegible]y threaten them."

He said a simple resolution could be passed without further ceremony, returning to the old corporation income tax law, and "a great sigh of relief would go up in the country."

"The business men in America," he went on, "would get the idea that they could invest money and employ people and make a profit.

"Let the word go forth to America business tomorrow that this congress and this administration is going to stop talking about balancing the budget and is going to proceed to balance the budget and that will be the first step toward encouraging the investor of private funds in enterprise with a view to staying the recession and employing people."

Senator Bailey declared that balancing the budget and repealing the undistributed profits tax would not be enough to undo the damage already wrought by the administration's policies. He said it is most important to restore the confidence of the people that when they invest their money their enterprises will not be seized by C. I. O. sitdown strikers or crippled by the administration's labor policies. The utilities of the country, he asserted, want to invest 2 billion dollars in electrical developments, but cannot do so unless they are assured that government competition will not destroy them.

Agree on Modification.

The Vinson subcommittee of the house ways and means committee today agreed on a modification of the capital gains tax. Lowered rates, according to Chairman Fred Vinson [D., Ky.] would not necessarily result in a loss of revenue, because the moderation would serve to stimulate the number of transactions in securities.

The plan, in brief, provided two forms of relief, as follows:

1. Give taxpayers in the brackets above $18,000 a year the option of paying new lower rates ranging from 30 per cent if the capital gain is made after two years' holding of the asset, down to 16 per cent if the profit is not taken until after five years.

2. Grant to taxpayers in the brackets below $18,000 a year the option of counting capital gains in ordinary income and pay lower rates than at present.

At the same time a "painless" method of balancing the budget through a 2 billion 400 million dollar a year national lottery was offered by Representative Edward A. Kenney [D., N. J.], who suggested that a federal "voluntary tax" commission conduct a drawing every month.

Convict Who Fled 33 Years Ago Freed; Returns Home

Harry Burns returned yesterday to his wife and eight children, the family he raised by hard work as a truck driver and laborer after escaping 33 years ago from a prison at Sunbury, Pa. Capt. Patrick J. Collins of the Des Plaines street station freed Burns after dispatches from Sunbury said the authorities had agreed to forgive and forget. Burns escaped after serving six months of a sentence for a $30 theft. He surrendered eleven days ago to get away from the nagging of his mother-in-law, he said. He lives at 9 North Leavitt street.

TWO KIDNAPERS BACK IN CELLS; PAL BOTTLED UP

Machine Guns Block All Roads After Escape.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Police were close on the trail tonight of Percy Geary, leader of a jail breaking kidnap trio, after they had recaptured his two prison pals without firing a shot. A grand jury investigation is to be made into their escape early yesterday from the county jail at Jamesville. Discrepancies were reported in stories told by guards.

With 350 state troopers guarding all roads leading out of Syracuse, it was hoped Geary would be bottled up here. He was believed injured in his leap from the second story to escape officers who captured his companions this afternoon.

Janitor Informs Police.

Geary's confederates, John Oley and Harold Crowley, were taken in a cheap rooming house. Ivan Whitford, janitor of the building, informed police they were there. He said he had been forced to shelter them and provide them with food.

Police who went to investigate found the second floor room locked, but with a key on the outside. They turned the key and walked in. Oley and Crowley, taken by surprise, didn't have a chance to reach the guns they had nearby.

Geary escaped by leaping through a bathroom window to the ground, fifteen feet below. Police termed him "as good as caught," pointing out that the entire area is surrounded by police with machine guns, and all ready to shoot to kill.

Held Under Heavy Guard.

Oley and Crowley were being held under heavy guard in the County court building. They were kept in widely separated cells. Two deputy sherifs and a federal agent stood guard, with the shift changing every three hours. More deputies were placed at every gate in the building.

District Attorney William C. Martin said he would seek a court order tomorrow to impanel a special grand jury to investigate the trio's flight from the Onondaga county jail. The daring Geary cut his way through cell bars, liberated the other two prisoners, and then together they bound a guard staf of six.

Edward P. Mulrooney, New York state commissioner of correction, after a preliminary investigation at the jail, said the guards told different stories. Prison officials said the escaped convicts must have had outside help in order to get a saw and the two pistols they carried when they fled.

Cummings Deplores Unsafe Jails.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings in Washington, D. C., denounced the convicted kidnapers' escape and deplored the lack of breakproof jails in which to lodge federal prisoners. He said that only 800 of the 3,100 jails inspected by the government were found suitable to keep federal prisoners.

The three prisoners had been held at Jamesville awaiting transfer to Alcatraz Island penitentiary to serve terms for their parts in the $40,000 ransom kidnaping of John O'Connell Jr., member of a politically prominent family of Albany. Oley and Geary were sentenced to seventy-seven years each and Crowley to twenty-eight years for the abduction, which occurred in the summer of 1933.

ROOSEVELT USES WASHINGTON FOR FARM TALK IDEA

Contends First President Would Back His Plan.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—If George Washington were alive today he would heartily approve the administration's farm program, President Roosevelt asserted today.

"Knowing what we do of George Washington's belief in a national government strong enough to cope with the problems of his time, and his perception of the importance of agriculture as the foundation of our national life, we can be sure that if he had lived today he would have acted boldly to keep agriculture from going down to ruin," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Throbbing Tooth Lingers.

The President's address was read by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace before the association of land grant colleges, gathered at Mount Vernon to observe the 75th anniversary of the department of agriculture.

A throbbing tooth kept Mr. Roosevelt in bed for another day. He expects to be back at his desk tomorrow.

While the senate agriculture committee was considering a new farm bill Mr. Roosevelt's message at the home of the first President sounded only generalities on the farm program. He did not discuss pending legislation or outline a new farm plan.

Wallace a Witness.

Before reading the speech Secretary Wallace testified before the senate committee. He declared himself as favoring the Pope-McGill bill "in principle."

In his message President Roosevelt said many factors have arisen to complicate the farm problem since Washington's day.

Couple Files a Second Plea to Have Court Oust Black

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A second questioning of the eligibility of Justice Hugo L. Black was brought to the Supreme court today by Robert Gray Taylor of Media, Pa., chairman of the Philadelphia Court Plan committee, and Elizabeth L. Seymour of Salamanca, N. Y. A petition of the same sort was offered last week by Taylor and Miss Seymour but was denied.

This time, Taylor and Miss Seymour, "trading as Robert Taylor and company," asked permission to file a brief seeking to have the court "settle as far as possible and once and for all," whether the newest justice is qualified to sit.

Justice Charles E. Hughes instructed the petitioners to leave their papers with the clerk.

The sixty-two page petition asked many questions, including "whether" Justice Black had committed "perjury in taking the judicial oath in certain respects diametrically opposed to the prior irrevocable oath" of the Ku Klux Klan.

The court was asked to ascertain whether Justice Black's nomination and confirmation were accomplished through "withholding" knowledge of his former klan connections, whether he "sat silent and refrained from divulging" the facts, and whether his radio address amounted to "perjury" because he had "concealed the irrevocable character" of the klan pledge.

A letter from Taylor to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings asked institution of quo warranto proceedings against Justice Black.

The petition traced the origin of "Robert Taylor and company" back to 1683, and said the firm members for more than 200 years had been interested in backing movements against matters such as the anti-lynching and court packing legislation. Taylor said his predecessors had fought for the integrity of the courts since 1787.

JURY WILL SIFT LABOR RACKETS IN CLEVELAND, O.

Sixty Business Men to Tell of Extortion.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—An investigation of labor racketeering concluded today by Eliot Ness, safety director, resulted in the calling of a special session of the grand jury for tomorrow which will hear from about sixty business men who allegedly have been terrorized by union officials.

Ness' report to County Prosecutor Charles J. McNamee is reported to have charged several business agents with extortion and blackmail. No names were released prior to the summoning of the grand jury, but the belief was that at least two of the agents are of high rank in Cleveland unions.

Four Months of Investigation.

The young safety director, who formerly was a federal alcohol tax agent stationed in Chicago, filed his report with the prosecutor after four months' investigation which took him to New York, Chicago, Boston, and St. Louis. The evidence he found is confined largely to the building trades unions according to reports.

In addition to protests from business men that they were being shaken down, Ness also had numerous complaints from rank and file union men that their leaders had obtained dictatorial control of the unions and had used it for racketeering purposes.

This resulted in hundreds of men being thrown out of work, impeded legitimate business, and kept hundreds of thousands of dollars in new industries out of the city the Ness report was said to have stated.

Payments from $25 to $2,000.

Payments by legitimate business men of extortion fees ranging from $25 to $2,000 were made, the saftey director is believed to have reported, and if the demands were not met the racketeers utilized fake "jurisdictional disputes" to force a payoff.

Included among the witnesses ready to testify before the grand jury are business men who were driven from Cleveland by the rackets, Ness said.

"When I approached them they could hardly believe that a cleanup was going on," he explained. "One said, 'You couldn't get me there [to Cleveland] if I got a $5,000,000 contract because the racketeers would have it before I got through.'"

Some of the leads were obtained through investigation of a wave of window breaking which swept the city several months ago it was reported.

Labor Agent Gets Four Years.

One labor racketeer pleaded guilty to extortion and blackmail and three weeks ago was sentenced to serve from four to seven years in the state penitentiary. He is Harry Barrington, business agent of the carpenter's union. About thirty witnesses testified at the hearing to half a dozen cases of extortion.

Ness declared that some of the rank and file union men told him that their business agents "have sat in their offices and, instead of sending legitimate union members to jobs, have sent political 'punks' who didn't do the work well, discredited the name of union labor, thumbed their noses at their employers, declared that if they were fired the job would be 'pulled.'"

Two New Sitdowns Upset Auto Industry; Affect 21,500 Jobs

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The automobile industry was harassed today by two sitdown strikes affecting 21,500 workmen and by renewal of the unionization campaign against the Ford Motor company.

The sitdowns interrupted work in two General Motors plants—the Fisher body works in Pontiac and the Cadillac Motor Car company here. Officials of the United Automobile Workers of America admitted both strikes were unauthorized.

The outbreak at the Fisher plant was the second sitdown there within three days. Apparently it was a continuation of the trouble that flared Monday night and ended yesterday in a truce now broken.

This sitdown threw 7,500 Fisher employés out of work and affected 10,000 others. General Motors executives said the Pontiac Motor company plant at Pontiac, with 10,000 workers, would be closed Monday because of a body shortage if the Fisher strike continues.

Union Blames Management.

William Munger, research director of the U. A. W. A., blamed the Fisher trouble on what he termed the management's discharge of employés and "failure to negotiate satisfactorily."

The company announced that four persons responsible for Monday's sitdown would be suspended pending an investigation. Munger said the union was not convinced the management had established the guilt of the men.

E. R. Leeder, president of the Fisher plant, said the trouble Monday was established as a "wildcat strike by the admission of international and local union officials." This indicated that General Motors still considers effective a clause inserted last September in the union-corporation contract which conceded the management the right to discipline employés for participating in unauthorized strikes.

Night Shift Starts Trouble.

The Fisher strike started shortly after the night shift went to work. The same shift started the strike Monday night and held the plant 12 hours. Most of the shift went home tonight, but about 100 men stayed in the plant.

The Cadillac strike here lasted only a few hours. The company closed the plant and sent 4,000 men home after less than 100 workers sat down in the foundry core room. The management agreed to open negotiations tomorrow on a demand for a 10 cent hourly wage increase and the night shift went to work as usual.

Members of the U. A. W. A. distributed a special Ford edition of their union newspaper at the gates of the big Ford plant in suburban Dearborn. The distributors were careful to stay off Ford property, Dearborn police having assured them they would not be molested if they remained on public ground.

MAYORS DEMAND MORE FUNDS FOR WORK PROJECTS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A demand by the United States conference of mayors for more work relief emphasized today the split between advocates of budget balancing and those who believe emergency spending must go on.

The mayors, proclaiming a belief that "the problem of unemployment challenges the very existence of our industrial institutions," declared an extra allotment of money for the WPA would be necessary during the present fiscal year unless conditions improve.

A resolution cited estimates of mayors in major cities that "relief rolls during the last few weeks have been increasing and the trend is upward."

The mayors' conference instructed its reëlected president, Mayor F. H. La Guardia of New York, to make a new survey of conditions and recommend action by congress in January.

THEFT SUSPECT RETURNED WEST.

Ray Saltzman, 20 years old, who had $199 hidden in a shoe when he was arrested here last Saturday, was returned to Prescott, Ariz., yesterday by Sherif R. M. Robbins of Prescott for trial on a theft charge.

ATTORNEY CLEARED IN CRASH.

Hannibal, Mo., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Sam Friedman, Hannibal attorney, was exonerated today by a coroner's jury at New London, nine miles south of here, in the accidental killing of two women by his motor car last night.

FALLS, DIES IN CREEK.

Newark, O., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Harry Nies, 49 years old, a world war veteran, fell into Ramp creek, near his place of business, and died today. His wife pulled his body out. The coroner said he suffocated.

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—At least thirty firemen were injured slightly and some $500,000 damage was counted today from a fire that wrecked half a block of business houses in the heart of Columbus during the night.

The flames were discovered before midnight and were still licking through the débris fourteen hours later. The blaze left only shells of the five story brick building housing the F. W. Woolworth company and a four story structure occupied by the F. and W. Grand company, both five and ten cent stores.

INDIANA POLICE KILL EX-CONVICT LOOTING TAVERN

Worthington, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Trapped by state police after looting a tavern, Henry Davey, 51, a former convict, was slain here early today.

Davey, believed responsible for numerous crimes in recent weeks, had been trailed here from Terre Haute in connection with a Jasonville burglary three weeks ago. He had broken into the tavern, and after taking $8.55 from the cash register was walking out with a slot machine when confronted by seven state policemen. Five bullets pierced his chest.

Davey served a brief sentence at Indiana state prison in 1915 for transporting stolen goods; was convicted of highway robbery at West Palm Beach, Fla., in 1928, serving a sentence there; was sentenced to four years in federal prison at Atlanta as a counterfeiter in 1929 after escaping from a United States agent, and was arrested at Louisville in 1934 for possession of burglar tools.

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned an open verdict at the inquest over Charles Dahl, 78 years old, 6135 South Francisco avenue, who died from injuries incurred under unexplained circumstances.

JOHN DOE FINED AND FORCED TO GIVE NEW NAME

Self-Made Mystery Man Talks in Trafic Court.

George Knott, who gave his name as John Doe and said he was an important labor union official last Thursday morning when he was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, pleaded guilty last evening in the Trafic court and was fined $5 by Judge John Gutknecht.

Knott was seized with Miss Jean McMahon, 36 years old, 3525 Harrison street, who was charged with driving an automobile 53 miles an hour in Washington boulevard. When stopped at Kilpatrick avenue Knott protested against the arrest of his campanion, and denounced the policeman. He gave his address as 629 South Ashland avenue, the headquarters of several labor unions.

Plays Hide and Seek.

When Knott failed to appear in Trafic court Friday his $25 bond was forfeited and Judge Gutknecht ordered his arrest. In court last evening he played hide and seek with photographers and cried: "This publicity is ruining me." He gave his name only after the judge refused to accept his guilty plea under the name John Doe. Miss McMahon was fined $5 on the speeding charge.

Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court yesterday fined nine motorists and deprived them of their driving rights for varying periods. A fine of $100 was imposed on Charles Slepikas, 2943 Emerald avenue, and he was barred from driving for a year for drunken driving.

Young Capone gave $5 to the fund for auto accident victims at the hospital. He said he lived at 7244 Prairie avenue, which is the home of Mrs. Theresa Capone, mother of Al and Ralph.

Young Capone was arrested on Oct. 16 by Park Policeman George V. Burns for driving 53 miles an hour in the outer drive between 16th and 23d streets, a 30 mile zone.

YOUR VARIETY OF INTERESTS

By CALEB

MOST of us in this business have hobbies and avocations. Some of us are interested in many things besides the department store business. Sometimes we ride our hobbies hard. There are hours of the day and night we turn our backs on trade—grateful for relaxation and repose.

But we never are fully able to escape our business. The department store touches at too many places the daily lives of the purchasing public. Our best friends—and all our acquaintances—are units in that vast sea of shoppers, the people.

Therefore, we have become accustomed at dinners, the theater, weddings, prize fights, and funerals, to being maneuvered into talking shop. If we are not told a story of how wonderfully a conscientious salesperson served the enthusiastic story-teller, we hear how, in some transaction, we fell below the standard of service we seek to maintain. If we are not asked how we keep our store so clean, we are asked where we buy our window backgrounds, or how we get the colors of cape gloves to match footwear so perfectly.

The housewife, intent on making the most of re-doing her living room, is not interested in asking the same questions or looking to us for the same service as a Doctor of Philosophy who patronizes our book department and our Men's Store. We have indications, however, and oddly enough, that the answers to the questions of one may have a considerable element of interest to the other, and to many persons in between. Inasmuch as a department store serves all members of the family, some of the things a department store "thinks about" are of interest to all members of the family.

That is why we talk here about so many different things. Sometimes we are surprised when articles we think will appeal to only a limited group bring us mail from people of widely varying types and walks of life. Such experiences convince us that our store is near to the hearts of many kinds and classes of people.

We have never asked for suggestions as to what you like, but we are very appreciative of those who have on occasion written to us about what they like—and who have asked to have certain subjects discussed.

BOMB MENACE IN UNION WAR TOLD BY RAIL OFFICIAL

Testimony Is Given at Mass Trial of 41.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A railroad official told a federal court jury today that bombings growing out of the southern Illinois mine union warfare were so frequent in 1935 that for three months a light locomotive was operated ahead of his road's passenger trains for safety purposes.

The witness, G. W. Imgrund of Springfield, was one of several railroad and mine company officials who testified at the mass trial of 41 defendants before Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle.

The government contends that the defendants, financed by funds from the Progressive Miners of America, interfered with interstate freight and delayed the mails by conspiring to bomb trains hauling coal from mines operated by members of the rival United Mine Workers of America.

Train Speeds Reduced.

Imgrund, who is superintendent of transportation for the Chicago and Illinois Midland road, told the jury that train speeds were reduced on the Taylorville division of his line because of explosions on the right of way. Several Midland trains were bombed while operating on Illinois Central tracks.

W. C. Craggs, former superintendent of the Peabody mine No. 43 at Harrisburg, identified Sherif Earl Evans of Saline county as one of the Progressive leaders. He quoted William H. Thompson of Eldorado as saying the men would "take the law into our own hands."

Bridge Bombing Related.

Craggs also told of a barrage of rifle fire in a picket siege and of seeing a Big Four railroad bridge blown up one night in 1933 while Progressives picketed his mine.

W. C. Argust, division superintendent for the Peabody Coal company at Taylorville, testified that more than 10,000 men invaded Christian county in 1932 and stopped the operation of mines with picket lines.

T. T. Keliher of Chicago, an official of the Illinois Central railroad, told about midnight bombings on lines between Springfield, Clinton, and Cimic.

BAKER HANGS HIMSELF.

Fred Becker, 55 years old, hanged himself last night in his room at the Concordia Teachers' college, 7400 Augusta street, River Forest, where he was a baker.

Long John Silver Takes the Stump at a Bird Show

Long John Silver and his brother Free will stump about the Hotel Sherman tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday, but instead of pirate curses will utter only dulcet peeps. They are peg legged canaries that will appear at the Cage Bird club's sixth annual show. A baby toucan, with a bill nearly as long as its body, will be among the more exotic pets on display.

N. U. DOWNTOWN UNIT IS RENAMED CHICAGO CAMPUS

Drop McKinlock Name; $155,717 to Be Repaid.

in an agreement signed on Nov. 2, 1936, about six weeks before Mr. McKinlock's death. Under it, the university agreed to repay to Mr. McKinlock the $155,717 he had contributed in five annual installments of $31,143.43 each. Three of the payments already have been made.

At the time the agreement was made, Mr. Mac Chesney added, Mr. McKinlock requested that the McKinlock name be taken from the campus. But a reminder of it will remain in the Alexander McKinlock Memorial gate at Lake Shore drive and Superior street, which was erected with a $25,000 gift made by Mr. McKinlock. The words "Memorial gate" have been substituted for the word "campus" in the lettering on the gate.

Among the McKinlock gifts to other institutions was $500,000 for a freshman dormitory at Harvard university, which his son attended, and $50,000 to the Western Theological seminary, an Episcopal institution.

Many Contribute to Campus.

Many prominent Chicago families have contributed large sums for buildings on Northwestern's downtown campus. Among the donors and their gifts were Mrs. Montgomery Ward, $3,000,000 for the medical and dental schools; Mrs. Levy Mayer, $500,000 for the law school; the Wieboldt foundation, $500,000 for the school of commerce; Mrs. George R. Thorne, $250,000 for an auditorium, and the late Judge Elbert H. Gary, $100,000 for the law library.

Mrs. Marion W. McKinlock, Mr. McKinlock's widow, said last night through her attorney, Denis E. Sullivan Jr., that she had no comment on the change in the campus' name.

POLICEMAN SPREADS MESSAGE OF PEACE; THAT IS, TEMPORARILY

Exerting all his tact Policeman Lawrence Daly yesterday tried to reconcile a couple he found fighting at Giddings street and Long avenue. This was difficult because the gentleman had just knocked the lady down with a Sunday punch. But Patrolman Daly succeeded. Then he learned the combatants were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dziadula of 5341 Giddings street.

"Come along," said he. "I'll take you home." They came along. Getting them safely into the front room of their flat Daly turned to go. Dziadula put out his hand in a friendly fashion—and slammed the policeman square between the eyes, breaking his glasses and giving him the makings of a shiner.

You can see what happened to Dziadula by visiting his cell at the Jefferson Park police station.

KILLER WEDS HIS VICTIM'S WIDOW TO SUPPORT SON

St. George, Utah, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Disclosing that a slayer married his victim's widow because he felt a sense of responsibility toward her and the dead man's son, Sherif Antone B. Prince today announced solution of a three year old mystery.

Charley Bosshard, 25, a sheep herder, signed a statement that he killed Spencer Malan in March, 1935, when Malan attacked him in a drunken rage. The body was thrown down a well.

Mrs. Malan and her son, now 11, never knew of Malan's death, the sherif said. A year after her husband's disappearance she obtained a divorce on grounds of desertion and married Bosshard. Bosshard had not told the widow the secret of her husband's death.

Census Bureau Estimates Population at 129,257,000

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The population of the United States on July 1 was 129,257,000, the census bureau estimated today. This was an increase of 828,000, or .6 of 1 per cent over the 1936 estimate.

MOTHER GOOSE MURAL LEAVES WPA FACES RED

Branded "Grotesque" by Project's Critic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A storm of controversy broke today over another of the murals the administration is slapping on the walls of public buildings under the $600,000 program to make the nation art conscious.

The center of the latest controversy is a mural depicting Mother Goose characters in the Children's Tuberculosis sanitarium at Glenn Dale, Md. It was painted by Miss Bernice Cross, employed in the art projects division of the Works Progress administration.

Health Officer George C. Ruhland squinted at the mural this morning and ordered it effaced. He held a council with painters on means of blotting out the mural.

Brands Pictures Grotesque.

"The Mother Goose characters follow the unfortunate modern trend," Ruhland said, "and are, as a matter of fact, grotesque. If we could get some worth while representations of Mother Goose characters, I would be glad to have them in the children's playroom."

This brought a heated defense from Miss Cross, who said: "I think I know a little bit about child psychology, and I don't see that the painting is grotesque or objectionable in any way. It is, of course, fantastic—in keeping with the nursery rhymes it illustrates."

Miss Cross found a staunch defender in Russell Parr, in charge of art projects in the District of Columbia. Parr warned Ruhland that the mural is government property and he has no right to destroy it.

Ruhland called off his painters while he pondered the warning. Late tonight the painting was untouched.

Others Cause Red Faces, Too.

Murals first caused the administration embarrassment in the department of justice, where a panel depicting Attorney General Homer S. Cummings addressing the Supreme court in the gold clause cases showed him with his back to the court. Other justice murals were laughed at as puzzles which could not be unraveled.

Mural trouble broke out in the postoffice department when an arctic explorer translated a message in Eskimo on a Rockwell Kent mural as an invitation to Puerto Rico to throw off American rule. Postmaster General James A. Farley pronounced the message treasonable and ordered it removed.

The postal murals again drew Farley into trouble when he received a number of protests against a mural which showed several naked women awaiting the scalping tomahawks of Indians. The critics were silenced by production of proof of the historic authenticity of the incident depicted.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Lily Pons, the singer, has made her peace with Pietro Cimini, operatic orchestra conductor. The conductor recently criticized Miss Pons for wearing an abbreviated costume in a movie, but after Miss Pons appeared here with the San Francisco Opera company in "Lakmé" all was peace again. Cimini congratulated the singer on her performance, which was heard by many persons prominent in the movie colony.

A BLONDE WIFE GETS A DIVORCE BECAUSE SHE IS

While wooing her, Mrs. Elizabeth Guffin Kiesling testified yesterday, her husband often said he did not like his first wife because she was a brunette and brunettes are inconstant. But after their marriage, on May 9, 1936, Mrs. Kiesling, who is 24 years old and a decided blonde, said they quarreled because he always talked of returning to his first wife. After Attorney Harry X. Cole presented her case Judge John J. Lupe granted her a divorce on grounds of cruelty from Benjamin L. Kiesling, 4002 Kenmore avenue, treasurer of the S. F. Kiesling company, gold stampers. Mrs. Kiesling, who lives at 713 South Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, waived alimony and resumed her maiden name.

DROP GUN TOTING CHARGES AGAINST TWO UNION MEN

On the grounds that their constitutional rights had been violated by policemen who searched them without warrants, charges of carrying concealed weapons against James Dungan, business agent for Local No. 191 of the Painters' union, and E. J. Loftus, a member of the union, were dismissed by Judge Eugene Holland in the South State street court.

Revolvers were found in side pockets of the car in which they were riding Sept. 2 when a detective bureau squad stopped them for questioning.

Dungan has been arrested several times previously on similar charges, but he has been punished only once, that time being fined $100 for carrying a gun. After a long legal battle he was freed a few months ago on another such charge by an Illinois Supreme court decision.

GRANGE RESOLVES TO KEEP FARM SOCIETIES FREE OF GOVERNMENT

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Delegates to the national grange convention went on record today as favoring divorcement of the agricultural extension service from any farm organization.

A resolution, adopted unanimously by the 68 delegates, said federal programs have given the opportunity for an unfair advantage by one farm organization over others because of its quasi governmental status.

"We believe," the resolution said, "that the extension service as well as any other governmental assistance should not be distributed to members of one organization in any different manner than to any other but should be available to all alike."

ATTY. GENERAL RULES HAIR TRIM IS NOT HAIR CUT

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Attorney General William S. Ervin, called upon today to decide when cutting hair does not constitute a hair cut, replied when it is "a slight trimming" incident to dressing a woman's hair.

Paul Spearing, secretary of the Minnesota State Barbers' Examining board, posed the question. He asserted many beauty operators were thinning hair, cutting bangs, and giving neck clips, and asked whether this violates the state barbers' code, which prohibits hair cuts by any but licensed barbers.

Ervin explained the "slight trimming" might be removal of a few long ends or banks, thinning outpin curls or snipping off ends where a part in the hair has been changed.

For generations the overcoatings woven by the weavers of the British Isles have been looked upon as the finest obtainable. These overcoats represent the pick of these fabrics—fabrics that possess, besides the desired qualities of warmth without bulk, patterns and colorings of gentlemanly appeal, as well as enduring qualities that equal the enjoyment found in wearing coats of this character. The luxury of these coats, however, goes beyond the admirable traits of the cloths. You will like, we believe, the manner in which they are tailored and the keenly copied styling details that distinguish coats that had their beginning in the Custom Shops of London's West End.

POLITICS AND CRIME.

Nick Montana was a partner of Lucky Luciano in the protected New York vice and crime business. They were at the top of it. Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, recently elected New York county district attorney on the Republican ticket, sent Luciano to the penitentiary. Dewey will succeed District Attorney William C. Dodge, but before he could take office Dodge permitted Montana, indicted for felonies, to plead guilty of misdemeanor. The vice mongering felon will get about ten months for that.

Although Dewey was appointed special prosecutor by Gov. Lehman when crime conditions in the metropolis became public scandals, all the big shots of the Democratic party, Lehman and Senator Wagner included, were politically regular in supporting Tammany, whose one desperate effort in the recent election was to keep Dewey, the Republican candidate, from taking over the district attorney's office after he had won more than seventy convictions in exposing, indicting, and prosecuting the most vicious racketeers and gangsters in the United States.

For the first time in years New York had found some one who could break the criminal rings operating rackets affecting food prices, the conduct of business enterprises, the security of the citizen, and the public morality of the city. The immunity of the gangsters and terrorists was based on political protection in the tightest alliance between politics and crime ever formed in this country. The alliance includes the parole power, which to the criminals is merely gubernatorial patronage. In spite of the facts, which had become notorious, the most respectable men in the Democratic party allowed their names, if not their influence, to be used last month in behalf of the political machines which nourished crime for political purposes.

Although the voters of New York county have voted their grievances and elected a prosecutor they can trust to protect them, the facts of the New York alliances are still to be found in the metropolitan area. They have become so bad in Brooklyn, which will get no benefit from Dewey's administration, that the business men of several sections have formed vigilante committees to stop robberies and street holdups. Also in Brooklyn labor troubles have resulted in street fighting involving hundreds of pickets and many policemen.

Up in Syracuse the other morning three desperate members of a kidnap gang, all under sentence to Alcatraz, trussed up five guards and a matron and escaped. It was easy. All were armed with pistols. The incident demonstrated that the politics and crime combination in New York is not confined to the metropolis.

So long as crime and politics are partners communities will suffer from the depredations of holdup men, burglars, and racketeers preying upon merchants and consumers, exploiting vice, and conducting their lawless and vicious business by means of sluggers and murderers.

Gov. Lehman, at the head of the state government, has never shown any disposition rigorously to combat the alliance. The pardons he has granted to convicted felons have indicated less regard for the strict impartiality of justice and more for sentiments hurtful to harassed communities. It will be remembered that he was bitterly criticized by a special grand jury when he supported District Attorney Geoghan of Kings county after the fiasco in the trial of gangsters indicted in the Druckman murder.

"What good are new laws," the jurymen asked the governor, "if the district attorney of one of the principal counties in the state can so flagrantly fail to prosecute for the crimes of murder and bribery?"

The demi-reps of politics can keep their connections with the scum and also maintain political associations with respectable men at the top who tolerate the tradition that politics is necessarily a mixture of good and bad. Without such tolerance the alliance of crime and politics would be impossible. It needs countenance to succeed.

THE MODERN CITY.

It seems impossible to study the map of Mayor Kelly's traction program without conjuring a picture of the future city that must of necessity develop from these small beginnings. Within a few years the proposed elevated highways will prove inadequate to meet the demands of the trafic just as our north and south outer drives have frequently become congested. It is impossible to estimate the space requirements of the future.

Gradually, through street widening and other engineering projects, these elevated highways will become the transportation strips of the future modern city. Easily accessible from the residential areas as are the outer drives, they will carry all public rapid transit vehicles as well as through automobile trafic in precisely the same manner as our completed lakeside arteries. Their character will change as time goes on, and they may even acquire service drives. In that case the space beneath the elevation may offer a partial solution to our parking problem.

One can get a vision of these futuristic transportation strips by glancing southward from Grant park. Fast bus lines, safety highways, and the Illinois Central parallel each other to offer excellent accommodation in at least one direction. Greater conservation of space will be necessary when similar arteries are pierced through to the northwest, west, and southwest sides, but modern highway engineering will overcome these difficulties, and the cost will be met.

It is an evolutionary process that cannot be definitly planned in advance. The facilities will be widened and enlarged as necessity dictates. The thing to do now is to make a start on the very practical foundation work that has been drawn by Mayor Kelly.

MEAT FOR CAESARS.

The Geneva conferences to keep Italy out of Ethiopia made Mussolini, just as the treaty of Versailles to keep Germany away from the Rhine made Hitler. The nonintervention conferences to keep Fascists out of Spain made Gen. Franco and now to keep the record consistent the Brussels conference has made Japan. One more conference and anything can happen.

Japan's retort to the Brussels meeting mentions the debt settlement treaties with the United States. Thanks for the reminder. The financial treaties are slightly infringed. Repudiation is not the diplomatic word, although Japan uses it. Are the Japanese trying to drive a wedge between the United States and its European conferees? Our Wilsonian war adventures were heavy in costs and light in returns.

The meat upon which our Caesars feed is furnished by the would-be lion tamers. The lions eat, but they will not sit up, roll over, jump through hoops or play dead. The French, it is revealed, have been really scared. The Japanese have turned an eye on Indo-China, demanding that the frontier be closed to shipments into China and threatening to seize the Island of Hainan and bomb the Yunnan railway.

Just one more conference might be enough to put the Japanese in India, the Italians in Egypt, and the Germans in Morocco.

A CALL TO ACTION.

The interstate commerce commission has duly acknowledged the railways' application for permission to advance their passenger fares and freight rates, and has notified all concerned that public hearings on the subject will begin on Nov. 29. This is a routine announcement. The commission has considered nation-wide rate adjustments on several different occasions, so that the modus operandi has become a ritual. To the public and the railways, however, it is not a formality. The decision of the commission in this case may determine whether the government will take over the railways or whether they will continue under private control.

Nobody other than a few radical politicians and starry eyed theorists honestly desires federal operation of the railways. Railway labor is certainly far better off under private management. It ranks near the top in the well paid industries. To the shipper public ownership would be a nightmare because it would mean political rate making with all of the evils that the term conjures. Railway security holders would realize little from condemnation proceedings and can contemplate the action of the dominion government when Canada took over her national railways. The principal common stock was declared to be worthless.

In no part of the world, except militarized Japan, have government railways proved successful. The traveler has but to recall the inferior railway systems of Europe. Canada has partial public ownership and pays for it with an annual appropriation of 50 million dollars from the small dominion treasury. On an equated mileage this would mean a half billion annual contribution by the taxpayers of the United States.

But we will get public ownership if the apathetic attitude of those most interested continues. To stir them to action is the purpose of this editorial. Each and every user of transportation should consider whether the prospect of healthy railways with their huge purchasing power and ever improving service will not overbalance a relatively small increase in freight costs, particularly when there has been a gradual advance in commodity values. The railway tax contribution of 1 million dollars a day paid by private management must not be forgotten.

This is no time for industry to permit its trafic managers to make routine objections to the prayer of the railways. It is no time to attend meetings of local associations of commerce or trade leagues to vote in favor of opposition to the railways' appeal. The trafic fraternity is schooled only in downward revisions of the carriers' schedules and knows little of the broader aspects of this case. The executives and owners of business must interest themselves because the alternative is political control, mismanagement, and the dumping of the huge railway pay roll into the spoils system.

Editorial of the Day

"THY WORDS ARE NOT IDLE."

[New York Sun.]

Descendants of Acadians in Louisiana and elsewhere observe this day by dramatizing scenes from "Evangeline," which appeared in print ninety years ago. The idyll has served history perhaps better than it has literature. How much of it do school children recall ten years after their first reading? Even those who think of it as a classroom task owe their recollection of the exile of the Acadians in 1755 to the story in hexameters. Other authors have used the theme in fiction. George W. Cable's "Bonaventure" is of Acadians in Louisiana; Mrs. Catherwood, born the year Longfellow's poem appeared, wrote of Acadia as it was a century before the expulsion of the French inhabitants, and Charles G. D. Roberts wrote "A Sister to Evangeline." Longfellow's work, done at Hawthorne's suggestion, without personal acquaintance with Nova Scotia or the west, remains the most moving no less than the most famous account of the Acadians' wanderings.

The poet was 40 when it was published, and already known for his skill in narrative. He has been accused of frigidity by recent critics. The words of Father Felician to the girl whose lost lover has passed her in the night disclose an insight into the darkness where modern students presume to make discoveries:

Daughter, thy words are not idle; nor are they
to me without meaning.
Feeling is deep and still; and the word that floats on the surface
Is as the tossing buoy, that betrays where the anchor is hidden.

A highway has been proposed to be named for the poet and his poem, linking Nova Scotia with Louisiana. No pavement could span the distance more effectively than the poet's words have for generations.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

SNOWPLOWS ARE LINED up on the railroads' side tracks now, freshly painted, oiled, and repaired. It was an occasional snowflake set us to wondering until we went out and investigated for you, but it was the calendar brought the matter to the railroads' attention. For a month those snowplows have been ready, and you know how warm the weather has been.

The Illinois Central kept the 36 plows it uses within 150 miles of Chicago in the Burnside yards all summer. Even on the hottest days, when work was slack, men were fixing them up. On Oct. 15 three of them were brought up to the yards between 18th and Randolph streets, and the rest were taken to strategic points to await the six inches or more of snow that might require them. When snow begins falling the railroad men get anxious; when it looks as if it will reach that six inch mark that means the tracks are covered the dispatcher notifies the general superintendent. His staf calls the snowplow crews, men who work all year running locomotives, but who have been especially trained to operate the plows. They leave a telephone number if they're off duty and away from home in the winter. Forty-five minutes after the call goes out they can be pushing the plows out in front of their engines.

The Illinois Central has a dozen 45 ton plows that cost $12,000 each. The rest are made by attaching plowing equipment to a gondola car and loading the gondola with 70 tons of rock or iron so that it can hit the snow hard. Snowplow men must know just how closely they can adjust the plows to take off all the snow without wrecking them. They must know where every switch is, so that they won't tear up tracks and signals. There's no rest for a snowplow crew. The men work from the time they're called out until the tracks are clear. You'd think, the way the railroad worries and puts all that money into plows and keeps its men on what you migh call the qui vive, that the snowplows went out every other day or so. But those snowplows in the downtown yards weren't out all last winter; they've been out, indeed, but twice in the last twelve years, if Mr. M. J. Ryan has his figures correct. But those times, says Mr. Ryan, the Central station master, were worth all the bother and money; the plows kept the trains running.

Mr. Ryan explained the kerosene burner system that keeps snow from blocking the multitude of switches in the downtown yards. There's a burner beside every other tie that will burn twelve hours when it's lighted with a torch. They keep snow melting and prevent ice from forming, Mr. Ryan said, but make a dreadful smudge in the train sheds. We asked about the fellows who tap the locomotive wheels. They do know what they're doing. Flat wheels have one pitch, and those that are shelling out—suddenly developing tiny holes that will cause trouble—have another. Both are different from that of a wheel that's O. K. The men who tap the wheels are old, because it takes years and years to learn the differences in pitch.

I have set me the task of forgetting
While that hand organ plays in the street
The heartbreak of rain in September
And fire from an ash-covered ember
Leaps upward to make me remember

Of tears, in a useless regretting.
I have set me the task of forgetting,
But smolders in quivering heat
The fire from an ash-covered ember
While that hand organ plays in the street.

MISLEADING DIGESTIVE SYMPTOMS.

THINGS are not always what they seem. In fact, symptoms may point—at times—to regions of the body quite remote from the seat of a malady. I often wonder how many of those who complain of stomach or intestinal disturbances will be found—after a careful study—to be suffering from lumbago, sciatica, or arthritis.

Sometimes an individual will come to the physician with a "ready made" diagnosis of indigestion. It is popular [in some quarters] to have a pain somewhere and the suggestion may be made by a friend or neighbor that dyspepsia lies at the bottom of all the difficulty. But does it? No term in medical lore blankets so wide a range of diseases, for, on final analysis, gallstones, peptic ulcers, or kidney calculi may be found to be responsible—not a mere stomach upset.

If a surgeon gets hold of a patient who is certain that his only hope of ultimate salvation lies in having an operation, he probably will [though he should not] be accommodated. A few X-ray plates may be taken which are perhaps doubtful enough to justify the verdict, "Well, the pictures are not very clear, but we will find out."

For a time improvement may occur. Why? Because—due to rest in bed and freedom from business activities, with the light diet that accompanies convalescence—the individual actually is better. In fact, the family and the doctor are all convinced that the operation was a huge success.

Thirty days—yes, even 60—may elapse before the whole miserable chain of pains returns. As a matter of fact, a functional affair rather than one that involved damage to some tissue or organ was being dealt with. Had the symptoms been more cautiously studied at the outset, had the laboratory procedures been rechecked, the man or woman might have been saved not only considerable expense, but many days of distress. It is necessary to readjust the victim's outlook on life and to diminish the worries that lie at the foundation of his trouble.

Walter Alvarez reports the case of a woman who had journeyed from one physician to another, accumulating X-ray films. She had had diagnoses of gallstones, colitis, intestinal obstruction, food allergy, hernia, and what have you. On examination, the principal complaint was disclosed as bloating, which appeared periodically and which continued for two or three weeks. During this interval she was depressed, moody, faultfinding, and a nuisance to herself and her family. Skilful questioning elicited the fact that she was suffering from a mild form of psychosis which came and went, coincident with the bloating episodes. Proper attention to the sympathetic nervous system was able to extend greatly the time between attacks. Her reactions, however, had become so deeply fixed that complete alleviation was not accomplished.

But there are thousands of examples of indigestion real as real can be. Some may be remedied by an adjustment of diet; others, by adding the acid of the gastric juice; still others, by higher vitamin or mineral feeding. Occasionally, however, the prescribed regimen will aggravate the condition if it is due to a food allergy. There are far more instances of such sensitivity than we realize—in fact, about one-fourth of all those who complain of digestive disorders react unfavorably to one type of food or another. Milk and eggs—two of our standbys—are the commonest offenders.

It behooves every patient, therefore, to study his dietary peculiarities. Everybody cannot eat everything. In the presence of dyspepsia—so-called—every sufferer should keep a food diary. This means that an actual record—as faithfully preserved as the weather report—is set down. Then the menus of the meals preceding these seizures can be studied in an effort to recognize some particular substance common to all. Omitting the article in question may solve the problem.

Naturally, care must be taken not to starve the patient to the point where an unbalanced diet will make matters worse.

BLOOD TESTS ARE BEST.

M. H. writes: Can syphilis be determined otherwise than by blood tests?

REPLY.

Yes, it may be diagnosed by the character of the skin lesions and from constitutional symptoms. The Kahn and Wassermann tests, however, are the most reliable.

MONGOLIAN IDIOCY.

I. S. writes: My six year old child is a Mongolian idiot.

1. What is the average span of life of such children?

2. Is there any danger that my normal 8 months old child will become one?

REPLY.

1. About 8 to 10 years. A very few live to the age of 30.

2. Mongolian idiocy is present at birth. Your second child—normal at eight months—will continue so.

WHEN THEY TAKE IT.

W. A. M. writes: What is the best time of day to give children haliver oil when just one daily dose is administered?

REPLY.

There is no best time if you ask the kids. Whenever the youngster will take it.

CAUSES OF HERNIA

R. D. writes:
1. What is the cause of a hernia?
2. The remedy?
3. The dangers?

REPLY.

1. Some defect or injury of the abdominal wall, combined with some increase of pressure within the cavity.

2. Reducible hernia is treated by a truss, by operation, or by injection. If irreducible, surgery is imperative and an emergency.

3. Danger to life, as a loop of bowel may strangulate [kink].

SOME ARE THAT WAY.

B. T. writes: Why is it that I cannot use cream? It seems to be too rich and makes me sick.

REPLY.

Some people have an idiosyncrasy or sensitivity against cream. Such a person cannot "stomach" it at all. No use trying unless you later become sensitized.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW.—Col. Josef Beck, former aide-de-camp of the late Marshal Pilsudski and for the past five years Polish foreign minister, is another living proof of Pilsudski's ability to pick the right man for the right post. In 1930, when Beck was first attracted by a diplomatic career, Pilsudski told him to take a job in the foreign office and study for the appointment he desired.

August Zaleski served as foreign minister from 1926 [when Pilsudski seized power] until 1932. During his ministry the Polish foreign policy was based on the possibility of Germany splitting up into a number of small states. France hoped to stimulate the disintegration of the reich. When Adolf Hitler assumed power Zaleski retired and Beck was appointed in his place.

The office of foreign minister is the most difficult post in the Polish cabinet. During his five years as minister Beck has survived many plots and intrigues. For many years France sought his removal. Paris blamed him for the ten year pact of nonaggression and friendship signed by Warsaw and Berlin in 1934. However, this originally was a project of Pilsudski.

Beck has to be careful. He has eight bodyguards. He has more enemies than any other man in Poland. Many Polish leaders still are under French influence. Widespread distrust and hatred of Germany also contribute towards making the foreign policy unpopular.

But Poland has no other man competent enough to take Beck's job. Besides having unusual diplomatic ability he has the support of President Ignace Moscicki. They are the two strong men in the government. Compared to them Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, inspector general of the army, is just a figurehead.

That Poland's position in European affairs has been strengthened since the death of Pilsudski is chiefly due to Beck's efforts. The Kurjer Poranny epitomizes the nation's foreign policy in the phrase, "We covet no territory and we surrender no territory."

Since Beck became foreign minister, Poland's foreign policy has changed. Formerly it was based on Poland's alliance with France. Now both countries view this pact skeptically. France's military agreement with soviet Russia antagonized Warsaw.

To make her alliance practical, France persuaded Nicholas Titulescu, then foreign minister of Rumania, to agree to permit soviet troops to cross Rumanian territory to help Czechoslovakia, another French ally, attack Germany if the emergency arose.

Titulescu lost his job and Rumania made an alliance with Poland. Both nations promised they would permit no foreign troops to cross their frontiers. Rumania joined Poland in opposing the Franco-Russian pact and now Warsaw and Bucharest are trying to extend their influence to the Baltic states in order to form a barrier between Germany and Russia.

LIMITATION PERIOD.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a note in my favor dated Oct. 12, 1913. Hired an attorney through whom I accepted a monthly instalment plan of payment. The debtor made last payment to attorney on Dec. 19, 1925, thus paying up about one-fourth of the note. The attorney about this time was disbarred and omitted making some of the payments to me. Efforts to locate either the debtor or attorney failed.

1. Is the note collectible in future [2] in view of their concealment, and would this fact extend the time allowance as contained in the statute of limitations applying to notes? There is still over $1,000 due.

3. What can I do with this muddle?

A. J.

1. The Illinois limitation period is from five years from the maturity date or from the last payment whichever is later. Hence, it appears probable that your rights are barred, unless you can prove absence of the debtor from the state or some other ground for extending the period.

2. This would not be enough.

3. See preceding answers.

TAX EXEMPTION AS A STIMULUS.

Harvey, Ill., Nov. 15.—In the early days of Harvey we had an assessor who hardly ever placed a new building on the tax roll the first year, and often not until the second or third year. He used to say that when a man died he was dead a long time and when a house was assessed for taxes it would pay taxes a long time. This was hardly according to the law, yet we find some people here now who will say that one point helped them to decide to build.

We have in Cook county thousands of lots with such improvements as concrete streets, sidewalks, water, and sewers, which have paid no taxes for many years. Suppose builders could be guaranteed that should they build homes on these forfeited lots, after paying all taxes to date, that until the sixth year after the erection of a house no tax would be assessed on the improvement.

The county could be at no loss, but on the other hand this plan would put many lots back on the payable tax list and the improvement would very likely be made with funds not now being assessed. It is my opinion that many communities in Cook county would find new homes springing up on forfeited lots if this plan could be adopted.

I read in today's CHICAGO TRIBUNE that the state of Louisiana boasts that sixty-nine manufacturing plants costing 36 millions of dollars and employing 20,000 men were attracted to the state during the last year because new industry is guaranteed to be tax free for ten years.

JAPAN'S PROBLEM OF POPULATION.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Japan, with a population of over one-half that of the United States, occupies an area about the size of Nevada and Arizona combined. Imagine us in that predicament!

In relation to its arable land the density of the Japanese population is twice that of Belgium and four times that of Great Britain. There are only 1,000,000 less farms in Japan than there are in the United States. Over one-third of these farms are less than one-fourth of an acre in size and over another third are below 2½ acres in size.

With your excess population denied immigration rights by foreign governments, what would you do if you were in Japan's position? What would the United States do? The American Indian is well qualified to answer what the United States did do. Perhaps it is well to take such conceptions into consideration before condemning other nations for actions which we deem unwarranted.

THE LINCOLN BATTALION.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—The group of American communists fighting with the Spanish loyalist forces must be given credit for a willingness to fight for their beliefs. However, the name of our civil war President is held in veneration by the vast majority of Americans.

In view of the beliefs and purposes of this particular outfit it seems to me the name of Stalin, Lenin, Trotzky, or even Debs, would have been far more suitable.

THE CONFEDERATE FLAG.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—In THE TRIBUNE under the caption of "Voice of the People" in a recent issue there appeared an article from Marvin T. Grattan, Marshalltown, Ia., who "defies THE TRIBUNE to name a Union veteran sailor or soldier who was ever in battle who will oppose the confederates carrying their flag at the coming reunion of the Blue and Gray at Gettysburg, Pa., or elsewhere."

Permit me to inform the very much misinformed man, who evidently was not present at the meeting of the annual encampment of the G. A. R. held recently in Madison, Wis., or last year in Washington, D. C., that by a unanimous vote it was decided against permitting the confederate flag to be carried in the parades and the same vote prevailed whenever and wherever it was presented at G. A. R. meetings. This is a well known and established fact.

The ex-confederates were invited, however, in each instance to attend the reunion of the Blue and Gray at Gettysburg next year but admonished to leave their flag at home. Some have accepted and will attend.

Milton H. Myers, commander of Gen. George H. Thomas post, and Albert Gage, commander of Old Glory post, G. A. R., department of Illinois, have personally expressed their sentiments most emphatically to me and said they voiced the sentiments of their comrades, in substance saying: "This is now one country and there is room for only one flag and that is the Stars and Stripes; one country, one flag.

THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—A short time ago you used in one of your editorials the name of Leif Eriksen as the discoverer of America, when the story in my history is that a sailor named Bjorn was over in Europe and learned that his father was in Greenland. Bjorn started west to meet him and got caught in a storm and was driven past Greenland onto the coast of America in the year 1001. He explored it slightly and then sailed to Greenland, where he met Leif, the son of Eric, and told him about his discovery. Leif fitted out a ship and hired Bjorn to pilot him to the country that he had discovered and Leif landed on this country in the year 1002. In my opinion Bjorn should get the credit as the first person to discover America.

FRIENDLY TERMS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—I have read several statements by Dr. Johnson to the effect that a superintendent was ineffective unless he got along with his board of directors. Is not this common sense? Professional fault-finders infer that this means "selling out" to the board. It simply means that by being on friendly terms with the board the superintendent can accomplish much more in his efforts to carry out a program of improvement. How long would a bank president last if he was always at loggerheads with his board of directors?

CONGRATULATIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—President Roosevelt dispatched hearty congratulations to "the all-union central executive committee of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on the anniversary of the bolshevik revolution in Russia." Did Mr. Roosevelt take any such trouble on anti-communistic anniversaries, or didn't he recently rave about "bandit nations"?

EXTRA CHICAGO U.S. JUDGE ASKED; IGNORE VACANCY

Docket Full; Alschuler's Place Unfilled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special].—Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind] today introduced a bill authorizing the President to appoint an additional judge to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago.

That court has jurisdiction over the 7th circuit, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. The court has had one vacancy since the retirement of Judge Samuel Alschuler last year.

Cites Other Reasons.

Senator Minton, who supported President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the Supreme court as well as the lower tribunals, recalled that the additional federal judgeship for Chicago was recommended by the recent judicial conference, presided over by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes. Senator Minton added that Judge Evan A. Evans, senior member of the Chicago Circuit court, had urged the appointment of another judge because of a congested docket.

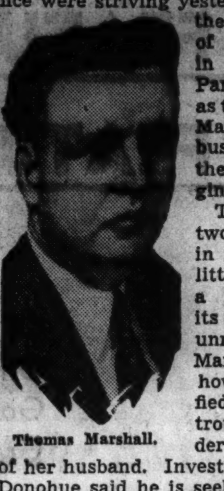
One of the main arguments of the administration for the Supreme court packing proposal was that the courts were behind in their work and more judges were needed.

Cited to Refute Plea.

The existing vacancy on the Appellate court at Chicago, which Mr. Roosevelt has failed to fill for more than a year and a half, frequently was cited by opponents of the court packing scheme as evidence of the administration's insincerity.

President Roosevelt, it is believed, soon will fill the Chicago vacancy because of the embarrassment that might be caused by seeking another judgeship with a vacancy existing. Both Illinois senators, James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich, say they have no candidates for the vacancy.

NEW IDENTIFICATION SOUGHT FOR BODY OF SLAIN EX-UNION AGENT



Thomas Marshall.

Investigators for the coroner's office were striving yesterday to verify the identification of a body found in Evergreen Park on Nov. 10 as that of Thomas Marshall, former business agent of the stationary engineers' union.

The body, with two bullet holes in the head, was little more than a skeleton and its features were unrecognizable. Marshall's widow, however, identified a pair of trousers and underwear as those of her husband. Investigator Francis Donohue said he is seeking a dentist who did work for Marshall nine years ago in the hope that he will be able to determine finally from dental work whether or not the body was really that of the missing business agent.

Jury Votes to Free Unwed Mother in Death of Infant

The grand jury yesterday was reported to have voted a no bill in the case of Miss Cora May Marsh, 28 years old, an unemployed school teacher, who threw her new born baby into an incinerator shaft on the tenth floor of the La Salle Towers apartment building, 1211 North La Salle street, on Oct. 22. A coroner's jury had ordered her held to the grand jury on a charge of murder.

a COOK BOOK for ALL AMERICA

AMERICA'S COOK BOOK

prepared by the Herald Tribune Home Institute and published by Scribners ... its 1000 pages contain not only 3000 laboratory-tested recipes, but sections on subjects such as foods for children, invalids, the aged, and those with specific allergies. They likewise contain guide material for buying foods, for serving them, for equipping kitchens, planning meals, setting tables, serving guests. All told there are 26 sections in this nationally acclaimed book to which Emily Post has written a preface. You may see it ... and buy it ($2.50) in book stores and book departments throughout America.

A new cook book has been published. It is a new kind of cook book, wider in scope — a modern cook book for all America.

America's Cook Book (published by Scribners) has a background like no other. Twenty years ago, the New York Herald Tribune set up the Home Institute — for the laboratory testing of foods, food preparation methods, kitchen and laundry equipment.

From the day it started, the Herald Tribune Home Institute has been the working end of the typical better American home — working on the thousand home problems of hundreds of thousands of readers. Meanwhile food manufacturers, appliance makers, housewives, gourmets, celebrities, new and old cooking hands alike sent in their food ideas for testing under actual home kitchen conditions.

The Institute not only tests. It has submitted to readers, over the course of years, some 800,000 samples of its laboratory-tested recipes. Out of this huge and unique experience has come this modern cook book for all America —America's Cook Book.

QUINTS ALREADY A BIT DOUBTFUL OF SANTA CLAUS

Recall Pulling Whiskers Off Last Year.

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—There are some skeptics among the Dionne quintuplets now, so this year Santa Claus had better watch his step.

Dr. Allan R. Dafoe said today he believed one or two of the sisters "have a few doubts" about Santa, because last Christmas they pulled off his whiskers and thought they recognized him.

"O, no, they still believe in Santa," said one of the "advisers" usually present at an interview about the quintuplets. Dr. Dafoe didn't say anything more, after that.

Anyway, It'll Be Big Day.

Anyway, big plans for Christmas are under way in quintland—not the least of them the dinner for Mama and Papa Dionne and their eleven children, to be served at the five sisters' nursery.

Dr. Dafoe, here for a few days' vacation, also said that the quintuplets:

Have a half million dollars in liquid assets.

Get a great "kick" out of using a hammer and nails.

Call him "Docteur Dapoe."

Like to tell the story of Jesus.

"Hello" was the first English word they learned to say.

Millionaires in Ten Years.

It may be ten years or more before the quints become millionaires, for their expenses, Dr. Dafoe said, will be greater from now on.

Today they're not only self-supporting—and it costs from $1,600 to $1,800 a month to maintain them, their nursery and staf—but they contribute $100 a month to their family and have that tidy half million in bonds.

The funny part of it is that money—even a shiny new dime—doesn't interest them at all.

Need $750,000 to Fill Community Fund Quota

Contributions to the Community Fund campaign now total $2,801,219, Gen. R. E. Wood, chairman of the drive, announced last night. Less than $750,000 more is needed to fill the quota of $3,550,000 required to give financial aid to Chicago's 177 major organized social agencies for the coming year, Gen. Wood said.

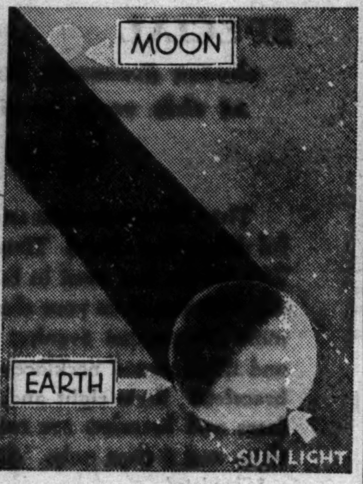
NIGHT OWLS SEE ONLY ECLIPSE OF MOON THIS YEAR

Earth's Shadow Darkens a Large Area.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Eclipses have been calculated ahead until the year 2,000, so the lunar eclipse early this morning was no surprise to Chicagoans who stayed out of bed to observe it. With fair visibility they were rewarded for their vigil, as this partial eclipse is the only one that will be visible from the United States this year.



MOON
SUN LIGHT

How partial eclipse of moon is caused by earth coming between sun and moon.

An eclipse, partial or total, is the result of the moon in its orbit entering the long conical shadow cast by the earth. It began to move into the shadow this morning at 1:37 a. m., and gradually a dark portion appeared to be gouged out of the moon. This increased in size until 2:19 a. m., when approximately one-sixth of the moon's diameter was covered. The shadow disappeared at 3 a. m.

Moon's Temperature Drops.

Scientists were not especially interested in this eclipse, as it was only partial and would not have disclosed any new facts about what was happening there among the mountains and the gray craters. The temperature in the moon falls to about 132 degrees below zero during the darkness of an eclipse.

They are waiting until the next complete eclipse, in 1938, when elaborate efforts will be made to get photographs that will throw some light on the intensity and constitution of the atmosphere in the area of the eclipse.

To the layman, however, this shadowy hand reaching out from the earth 238,000 miles to touch the moon, is a drama of unfailing interest. The shadow goes on in a tapering cone for another 543,000 miles beyond the moon, which merely dipped into the edge of the shadow in this eclipse.

Movements Mapped for Ages.

It is the movement of these heavenly bodies that form the basis, more than anything else, of the law and order of the universe. The earth has been journeying on its cycle about the sun and the moon in its orbit around the earth for billions of years, long before the first living thing was on the earth and before man had emerged from the deeps. Ancient astronomers reasoned out these relationships, even as far back as the Mayans in their observatories of 5,000 years ago.

START $775,000 SEWER PROJECT IN RELIEF CRISIS

City to Put 1,180 to Work in Pullman District.

Another step in Mayor Kelly's program to abate the relief crisis was taken yesterday when work was started on a $775,000 sewer construction program in the Pullman district. Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt, who announced federal approval of the work, said the project will employ 1,180 men for eight months. The first 250 went to work yesterday.

The new sewer will be from two to eight and one-half feet in diameter. It will serve the area bounded by 103d and 113th streets, Michigan avenue, and Lake Calumet.

Start Street Program Monday.

Works Progress administration officials said the resurfacing program for 28 arterial streets, word of which was telephoned from Washington by Mayor Kelly on Tuesday, will probably be started next Monday. The work will employ 1,200 men. This and the Pullman project will bring the total of those employed on WPA in the city to 53,800.

Gov. Horner's relief employment council of 14 will interview heads of private social agencies this afternoon in the Palmer house to determine the advisability of launching a study of the need for more relief funds.

Walter Gregory, the Horner committee spokesman, said the committee has heard that employment is dropping off and that the relief problem is becoming more acute.

Report on New Emergency.

"We intend to continue the long time reëmployment study we have started," Mr. Gregory said, "but it may be necessary for us to develop also a report to the governor on the new emergency which apparently is developing."

The staf of experts who are to make a spot check of relief records is almost assembled and will probably start work within the next ten days, Gregory said. The experts are being lent by private industry to make the survey for the committee.

COW AND QUADS LOOK OVER CITY'S MILK SITUATION

Loop workers stopped to stare yesterday at an unusual sight in La Salle street outside the city hall. There in a farm truck were Elvira, a sloe eyed, golden brown cow, and her four calves. Their owner, Hiram W. Long, a farmer of Avery, Okla., told passersby they were the only quadruplet calves on record. In the truck beside them were Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, and Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th]. The cow and her calves are on exhibition until Nov. 20 as part of the National Milk week observance here.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Thanksgiving turkey dinner at the home of Mrs. Mary Stewart will be served a week early. "We'll eat it tomorrow," Mrs. Stewart told the policeman.

MRS. FERDINA GIANNINI.

Mrs. Ferdina J. Giannini, 26 years old, 5551 Adams street, testified in the trial of her divorce suit yesterday that she gave up a job as a radio entertainer to work by day as a social worker and in the evenings as a night school teacher after she married Dr. Michael Giannini, 2843 Lexington street.

Questioned by her attorney, Edward L. S. Arkema, Mrs. Giannini said she took on the added work a year ago to help her husband, then an intern, but that he beat her repeatedly until she left him on Oct. 5. Attorney Norman Becker, representing Giannini, accused the wife of waiting maliciously until the doctor opened a practice before starting her suit on the ground of cruelty.

Mrs. Giannini was granted $7.50 a week temporary alimony by Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Her attorney said she is an expectant mother.

GETS PROBATION IN $27 ROBBERY.

Anthony Joyce, 23 years old, 3128 Harrison street, who was shot in a $27 robbery at a hamburger stand at 3155 Madison street, was placed on probation for a year by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Felony court yesterday on a charge of petit larceny reduced from robbery.

SEVEN INDICTED ON $50,000 RAIL FRAUD CHARGES

Plot to Win Personal Injury Judgment Alleged.

Two women, a girl of 16, an attorney, and three other men were reported named yesterday by the grand jury in a true bill charging them with conspiracy to obtain a $50,000 personal injury judgment against the Monon railroad. The judgment later was set aside on grounds of fraud.

Mrs. Frieda Hanief, 34 years old, a divorcée, living near Michigan City, one of the seven reported indicted, who admitted Oct. 7 in the civil trial that she gave perjured testimony for the plaintif, Rosemary Kieffer, 9 years old, is in the county jail. She was sentenced Tuesday to 30 days for contempt of court.

Those reported indicted with Mrs. Hanief are Attorney Harold Jackson, who represented Rosemary; his investigator, James J. Stahl; William Kieffer of Michigan City, who is Rosemary's father; his daughter, Margaret, who is 16 years old; Eddie Szczpanek, a witness, and Lucretia Wahl, alias Frances Carter, said by Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown to have signed a false affidavit.

Two Free On Bond.

The attorney and his investigator are free on bond. The others, Mr. Brown said, are being held in custody. Because of her age, Rosemary was not named in the true bill. She was released yesterday after being held with the others since their arrest Saturday in Jackson's apartment.

Judge Paul A. McWilliams of Litchfield, who heard the trial of the personal injury suit in the Circuit court here, set aside the jury verdict last month when Mrs. Hanief said she gave perjured testimony after being offered money by Attorney Jackson.

Files Counter Charges.

Jackson filed a counter petition alleging that railroad detectives persuaded her to change her testimony after they promised her marriage and lavished money on her entertainment. Mrs. Hanief has been married twice.

It was near her roadside stand and gasoline filling station that Rosemary lost an eye when she was struck by an automobile at a grade crossing of the railroad. Mrs. Hanief testified that she saw the automobile careen out of control because of faulty railroad ties. Later she admitted she had not seen the accident.

BOOKKEEPER DIES IN OFFICE.

Edwin Bowen, 65 years old, collapsed and died yesterday, apparently of a heart attack, at the office of the Lord & Bushnell company, lumber concern at 2424 Laflin street, where he was a bookkeeper. His home was at 9524 Longwood drive.

EX-OFFICER KILLS HIMSELF; SOUGHT IN CHECK FRAUDS

Chief John De Smidt of Highwood estimated yesterday that stores in the north shore suburbs had been defrauded of $5,000 by bad checks passed by Grant Eugene Hill, former army officer who killed himself with poison Tuesday in the city jail at San Diego, Cal. He resigned from the army a year ago after being stationed at Fort Sheridan.

Warants were out for Hill in the suburbs from Evanston to Lake Forest, and recently he had been sought by federal agents for impersonating an army officer and for driving an automobile, stolen at Fort Sheridan last fall, to Texas.

Last May 6 his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Phelps Hill, 275 Prospect avenue, Highland Park, divorced him at Waukegan for desertion.

2 NANNY GOATS CHARTER TAXI TO ANIMAL SHELTER

At 1 a. m. yesterday a taxicab pulled up at the Anti-Cruelty society's animal shelter at 157 West Grand avenue. The cab door was swung open and, aided by the driver, two nanny goats minced out, pranced up the steps, and went inside. The driver said a passerby found them wandering at Lincoln and Belmont avenues and suggested he take them to the shelter. His bill for the goats [no charge for one extra passenger] was 95 cents, which the society paid. The goats had a fine breakfast of carrots, green beans, and other fresh vegetables.

GIRL'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury yesterday held that the death of Phyllis Ann Burke, 9 years old, who was fatally burned Monday at her home in Arlington Heights, was accidental.

13 EX-ALDERMEN SUE FOR $50,421 IN SALARY CUTS

Attorney James W. Breen, representing thirteen former aldermen, yesterday filed suit in the Circuit court for a mandamus compelling the city council to appropriate $50,421 for salary deductions during the 1932-'34 retrenchment period. The former aldermen are: O. E. Northup, William H. Feigenbutz, Walter W. Morris, Frank A. Sloan, Jeremiah P. Leahy, Wiley M. Mills, David L. Sutton, Albert E. Loescher, George A. Williston, James J. Hurley, James C. Moreland, Louis B. Anderson, and Irving J. Schreiber. A similar suit on behalf of 27 present members of the council was denied by Judge Harry M. Fischer on March 22.

BRIDE IN BLACK WEDS NEW GRAND DUKE OF HESSE

Leave on Honeymoon to Claim Dead Kin.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 17. — Grand Duke Ludwig von Hesse bei Rhein, who became head of his ancient German house yesterday when five relatives were killed in a plane crash at Ostend, Belgium, today married Margaret Campbell Geddes, daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes, former British ambassador to the United States.

Instead of the bright Bavarian peasant dress the bride had expected to wear in the ceremony originally planned for Saturday, she had a black dress, black coat, hat, and veil, and carried white Camellias. The wedding date had been postponed once before because of the death of Ludwig's father Grand Duke Ernst Ludwig, on Oct. 9.

After the ceremony in St. Peter's church, Eton square, the bride and groom left for Ostend to claim the bodies of his mother, the Dowager Duchess Eleonore; his brother and sister-in-law, Grand Duke George and his wife who was Princess Cecile of Greece, and their two children, Princes Ludwig Ernst and Alexander George. It was learned today that a child was born prematurely to Cecile in the tragedy.

Substitute for Best Man.

Lord Louis Mountbatten was Ludwig's best man, taking the place of Baron Joachim Riedessel zu Eisenbach, marshal of Grand Duke George's court, who was among the six others besides the members of the Hesse family killed at Ostend.

Among wedding guests was Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London.

Other guests were the duke and duchess of Kent, brother and sister-in-law of King George VI. of England. The duchess, former Princess Marina of Greece, and Princess Cecile were cousins. The duchess of Kent was the godmother of George and Cecile's surviving child, the 14 month old Princess Jean Marina.

In State at Darmstadt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—Flags were at half staf throughout the duchy of Hesse and the Rhineland today in mourning for five members of the Hesse grand ducal family killed in the Ostend plane crash. The bodies will arrive at Darmstadt, the family seat, tomorrow and will lie in state until they are placed in the family mausoleum at Rosenloehe.

Though Ludwig, 29 years old, sole male survivor of his branch of the Hesse dynasty, becomes grand duke in the eyes of the people of Hesse, who loved their grand ducal families, he is technically entitled only to the rank of a prince. An agreement reached between the German republic and the former reigning houses of Germany after the 1918 revolution, provided that only the eldest descendant of a reigning prince would inherit his full title.

Ludwig's father abdicated as ruler of Hesse-Darmstadt in 1918 and when he died the title of grand duke of Hesse bei Rhein passed on to Ludwig's elder brother George.

Princess Jean Marina inherits the bulk of the family estate.

Ludwig's bride is now related by marriage to the royal family of England, the former imperial families of Germany and Russia, and other royal families from Greece to Scandinavia.

2,500 Attend Funeral Rites for Mrs. Johnson

About 2,500 persons, including many school teachers, attended funeral services yesterday for Mrs. Lillian Mattocks Johnson, wife of Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue. Members of the board of education were present. Burial was in Graceland cemetery. Mrs. Johnson died Monday in her home at 914 Gunnison street.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

First Touch of Winter

Nov. 17, 1937.

THERMOMETERS fell below the freezing mark yesterday, bringing the first touch of real winter to the Wheaton farm. Men with spades, hoes, and rakes hustled to the garden to look after tender flowers and to do last-minute chores in preparing for severe cold weather.

Roots of young foxglove, hollyhock, and campanula or canterbury bell are being shifted to cold frames, where they can easily be protected over winter. All three flowers were started from seed in August and later shifted to 2½ inch pots and left outdoors until they became pot-bound. This week they are being transferred to 4 inch pots and placed in cold frames.

The plants will be kept covered with glass and allowed to grow for about a month. Then a light covering of straw will be put over the plants, which will be left inside the frame. Just before severe cold weather sets in, the glass frame will be tightly covered with boards.

Tests made by gardeners at the farm indicate that it is not necessary to keep the plants in pots after they are put in the frames. The clumps may be lifted and set close together and handled under the same method followed where they are potted.

Open Frames for Air

On mild days the farm's head gardener finds it necessary to open the frames enough to admit fresh air to prevent damping off, which kills the plants.

This week the gardeners also are tying up the branches of the hybrid tea roses. The plants will then be hilled up by throwing 8 to 10 inches of dirt around them. After the ground freezes, a covering of loose leaves, at least 8 inches thick, will be put on top of the soil. The leaves will be weighted down with cornstalks or branches trimmed from shade trees to keep them from blowing away.

Another job on the gardeners' schedule for the latter part of this week or next is the preparation of a bed where Japanese lily bulbs are to be planted outdoors this winter. Bulbs of the speciosum magnificum and auratum golden banded have been ordered, but will not arrive from Japan until December.

Bed Will Be Dug

The bed for these bulbs must be dug in advance. It will be prepared along the north side of a shrubbery border. It will be dug up and rotten leaves and fine sand mixed in with the soil to a depth of one foot. Then the bed will be covered with leaves to prevent the soil from freezing before the bulbs are planted.

The bulbs will be set in the ground to a depth of 8 inches; 10 or 12 inches of space will be left between each bulb. After planting, the bed will be covered with 8 or 10 inches of leaves, to be left on until spring.

Regale lily bulbs are to be planted this week. These are being handled in the same way as the imported bulbs, except that they will be set now.

METHODISTS ACT TODAY ON WAR ZONE MISSIONS

MapStand onJapanese Conquest of China.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Missions problems arising from the Sino-Japanese warfare, involving large church investments in hospitals, schools, and colleges, churches and welfare stations in both countries, will be up for decisions when the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church opens its annual meeting today at the La Salle hotel.

As the foreign board meeting opens, the Methodist board of home missions and church extension will be closing its annual sessions at First Methodist church, Evanston. Today will also see the convergence of Illinois Methodists at the Chicago temple when the leadership of the several annual conferences comprising the Chicago area will meet in council under the chairmanship of Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf.

Annual Reports to be Given.

Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer and Dr. William E. Shaw, both of New York, executives of the foreign missions boards, will raise the questions pertaining to the Sino-Japanese situation in their annual reports. They have announced that recommendations to meet church problems arising from the conflict have been prepared for the board's adoption. They will also propose a statement for adoption relative to the board's attitude toward Japanese aggression in China.

More than 70,000 American born Japanese were reported in the Evanston home board meeting yesterday as opposing Japan's aggression. Making this report was the Rev. Singto Tanabe, pastor of a Japanese Methodist church in Sacramento, Cal.

Jap Youth Opposes Mikado.

The Rev. Mr. Tanabe said American born Japanese are unanimous in condemning Japan's Chinese policy and have refused to aid in collecting money for the Japanese cause. However, parents of the youth solidly back their native land. The board adopted a budget of $1,000,000 for home missions and church extension for the next fiscal year.

Tonight the two boards and members of the Chicago area council will be guests of the Chicago Methodist Social union at a reception and dinner at the Medinah Athletic club.

The Rev. Francisco Quintanilla of Los Angeles, former captain in Pancho Villa's bandit army in Mexico, was a principal speaker at the meeting of the home missions board at Evanston last night.

[ADVERTISMENT]

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

BRITISH AIRWAYS CONTROL UNDER FIRE IN COMMONS

Lack of Progress Hit by Conservative.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—After hearing a terrific onslaught on the air ministry and Imperial Airways, Ltd., in the house of commons, the government tonight ordered a departmental inquiry into a series of charges concerning the operation of British civilian air lines with which W. R. D. Perkins, tall and aggressive Conservative, earlier in the day had alternately angered and astonished the members.

In addition to specific charges of inefficiency at the Croydon airfield, which he said was "only fitted for a second class Balkan state," Perkins alleged the whole of British civil aviation rapidly was coming under the control of two London financial houses and that pilots were being "victimized" and their pay was being cut.

Charges Fuel Cut Too Fine.

He gave the government "food for thought" when he disputed a statement that Imperial Airways—the government's subsidized line—was "the safest air line in the world," by recalling that an inquiry into one fatal crash had disclosed the company had been "regularly cutting the supply of fuel too fine on the Mediterranean route."

He announced that Air Vice Marshal Sir Thomas Ince Webb-Gowen, staf manager of Imperial Airways, suddenly had resigned "on personal grounds," and was loudly cheered when he declared: "We are not leading the world; we are running a bad third."

Government spokesmen made little attempt to meet the charges. Col. Anthony Muirhead, undersecretary of state for air, conceding the inquiry, said the government is satisfied there had been no victimization of pilots and attributed to Britain's rearmament program the delay in the delivery of new airliners.

Names Financial Houses.

Challenged to name the two financial houses allegedly gaining control of civil aviation, Perkins retorted: "I believe they are D'Erlangers [bankers] and Whitehall Securities." Railways, he said, also had a substantial holding in this group.

"According to official figures," Perkins said, "Imperial Airways in 1936 received from the government £377,000 [about $1,885,000], and it is estimated that the 1938 figure will have gone up to £800,000, more than double."

In 1933, he said, Imperial Airways carried most of the passengers in and out of Croydon, but he declared that in 1936 it carried but 42 per cent. He estimated that this year it would have 34 per cent.

"The reason," he said, "is that the public is beginning to find out the truth about Imperial Airways. There is one story of how some time ago Imperial Airways sent an airplane to Berlin, which was treated so much as a joke that pilots there tied a parrot to its tail."

Perkins then charged that certain Imperial Airways pilots had approached the management about equipment for the London-Budapest service and all had been promptly dismissed. "No pilot dared open his mouth because he knew he would be dismissed next day," he asserted.

ORDER TEACHER'S NAME PLACED ON PRINCIPALS' LIST

Judge Donald S. McKinlay yesterday ordered the board of education to place the name of Raymond S. Cook, teacher at the Hyde Park High school, on the list of prospective principals and to give him a rating of 86.25 as a result of a principals' examination he took in September, 1936. Cook sought a mandamus after his name was taken from the list of those eligible to promotion. His attorney, Cameron Latter, asserted he finished fourth out of 830 candidates who took the examination. Attorneys for the board announced that Judge McKinlay's order would be appealed.

Merry Season of Gift Buying Starts Again

BY RHEA SEEGER.

After days of firm resistance to the many signs of the annual frenzy of Christmas shoppers, after scuttling past the Christmas card racks that have been up for weeks, even the "Scrooge-iest" shopper weakens and suddenly becomes an optimist again and joins the crowds. We're starting another grand season of telling you what is new for your Christmas lists!

Monogramming takes from one to two weeks . . . make your decisions now. This means handkerchiefs, lingerie, and all the masculine gifts such as tailored robes, pajamas, as well as lether gifts and jewelry. This also includes stationery, playing cards, swanky lether cases for desk or pocket, and all the metal gadgets, pencils, cigaret cases, and humidors.

It isn't too late to order your Christmas cards, suitably engraved, but these demand an almost instant attention as the best and most unusual designs and sentiments [there aren't so many new verses either] vanish while you take time out to mutter over your list.

Plenty of otherwise Christmas minded shoppers avoid the crowds for various reasons. Some have an incurable dislike of competition, we suspect, others have a seasonal affliction, claustrophobia — a fear of too darn many elbow diggers—and still others because they can't get out. For these stay-at-homes and those who fear the good natured rush of too many shoppers we recommend the personal shopping staf of the various stores.

These obliging people function all the year round with an awe inspiring smoothness, but at Christmas time they rate all the chest medals available. They shop for you by telephone or letter; they have imagination, intuition, and even second sight in unending variety. You send your check, your list, a few hints of what you think you want, or just the list and the check and your troubles are over.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Hers are gloves that do more than cover her hands with style. They're of soft lether, treated with almond oil, and protect against chapping as well as the cold.

Ordinarily we leave the subject of gloves in the capable hands of our fashion editor, but since this is the beginning of the "hard on hands" season, which is most emphatically a beauty writer's business, we're shoving out of our own territory today and talking about gloves. Very special ones, because they have some beauty tricks beneath their smart cuffs.

The woman who finds cold weather harrowing because of what it does to her hands has plenty of work to do. There is the all important oiling, to be done nightly. There is the careful selection of soaps that won't contribute to the chapped state. And there is also the matter of giving thought to the kind of gloves she wears.

There are some velvety soft, kid-like lether gloves on the market, and dress gloves at that, that help to prevent hand chapping. They're treated with glycerine and almond oil. And they have the lovely almond fragrance. They're perspiration proof, which is an aid in preventing chapping, and they're washable.

These gloves come under the head of protections against chapping. But unlike many truly sensible articles of clothing they're not at all unfashionable. They're smart street or dress gloves. You'll find them, in many smart styles, in black, white, and brown most everywhere. Some shops have them in other colors, such as navy, beige, and gray.

It's possible now, you see, to have your gloves help you in your task of keeping the hand skin soft and white. Do look these up if your hands need special winter coddling.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Even people who like modern, streamlined cars and chromium furniture enjoy old fashioned birthday cakes with candles. And often the candle grease goes drip-dripping over the icing, too.

Because a birthday cake is unthinkable without these little tapers and because they often do make a mess some clever person has invented a birthday cake board. It's a large, round piece of wood with enameled border, and there are places, right along the rim of this board, for the candles. The cake looks all the prettier wearing a wreath of lighted candles, and it's easier to cut if you don't have them to consider.

There are places for twenty-one, but you may use fewer than that, of course. And as an extra touch of beauty, why not make a circle of flowers and lay it on the board at the base of the cake, with the candles rising through it?

At Christmas you could serve a plum pudding on this board and surround it with a holly wreath and mistletoe, and use red candles. It's a grand item to add to your table equipment.

Fear in Child No Indication of Cowardice

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"What kind of a week-end did you have?" said Tom to Dick, both men with families, and friends since school days.

"Oh, swell," was the answer. "Mother and Sis were fine. But we had a burglar scare. We were wakened by the strangest noises, and I was expected to go down and investigate. 'I'm so glad there's a man in the house!' Mother said." Here Dick grinned. "They didn't know I was as scared as they were when I went sneaking down the stairs."

All men aren't physically brave, or rather, physically fearless, which is after all the accurate way to put it. Neither are all children physically fearless. Some of this is a matter of training, certainly fearful, over-protective rearing can affect a child in this phase of development. But different children are constituted differently, in muscles, nerves, imagination, and so they differ in this respect. Consequently we must not expect the same response from all children to the same situation.

Also we who are fathers and mothers must not confuse fearlessness and bravery. It is not cowardly to be afraid of something. Neither is it brave to do something of which you have no fear at all. The bravery or the cowardice consists of the way in which a feared experience is met. Parents, in the ideals they hold for their children, especially their boys, are too ready with their labels, "brave" and "cowardly."

Also there is such a thing as moral courage, as well as physical courage. This is another thing grownups are too apt to overlook. A boy who doesn't care to fight, who may shrink from the impact of a blow or be loath to give one, may show fine moral courage in being truthful in a tight spot, in holding to a belief or line of action in the face of ridicule, or in bearing pain, and yet be labeled "coward."

Many parents worry because their boys aren't fighters. Some just aren't. I know several muscularly strong men, cool, level-headed and physically brave, who avoid a fight and always have, even as boys. Children vary. Some boys like a fight and look for one, some fight with gusto to defend themselves [it lets off a lot of steam and clears the air—and satisfies those old primitive urges], but some boys just don't want to fight at all. That doesn't mean they're cowards.

Admit this in your own mind. At the same time be ready to recognize the qualities of mental or moral courage, and foster them.

And last, don't, whether you're a father or mother, identify manliness solely with physical fearlessness. There's more to manliness than that.

These are just thoughts set down—perhaps not very logically; but I know they are worth your thinking about. Many a boy has been bruised in spirit because his reluctance to bruise or be bruised in body was not evaluated.

Windsors Approve Blue Clothes for Men's Formal Wear

PARIS, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The duke and duchess of Windsor, two of the world's fashion setters, approved today of men's formal evening clothes in colors—especially blue.

"We have hunting jackets in bright red color—why not dress with a little color in the evening?" the duke asked, admiring a display of new styles during a three hour visit the couple paid to the Paris exposition.

"I like the blue one particularly," the duchess declared.

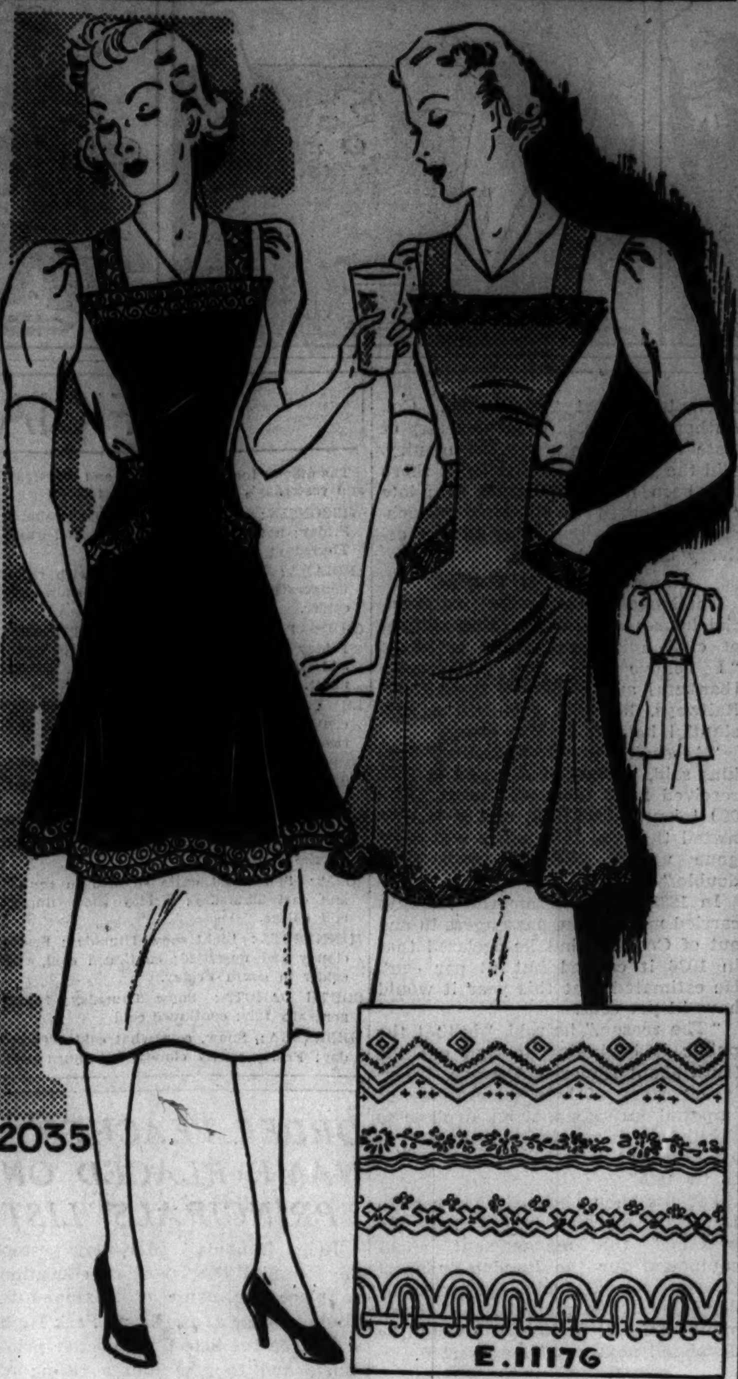
"I am going to hold the duchess to that," Edward answered enthusiastically.

Later, at the new museum of masterpieces of French art, the former monarch, a connoisseur of art, did more talking than listening.

"That picture," he said, pointing to a landscape, "we tried to buy from you several years ago. I was a trustee for the national [British] gallery."

He paused a moment, then added, "but then I became king."

Attractive Hostess Apron



WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON.

If you're given to having informal cocktail parties, teas, luncheons and bridge affairs, you know how indispensable a dainty apron is to your hostessing. It covers up the vulnerable areas of your pretty frocks. Needless to say, the prettier the aprons you wear, the better. We've designed one which we think is attractive. It has a bib front, a squared neckline, comfortable straps on the shoulders, a snug waist, a flared skirt, and pockets which are camouflaged to appear as merely part of the trimming.

As the sketch illustrates, dark shades are equally as smart as the traditional light ones. And one of the things you must have to glorify this wash apron into something dressy is embroidery. It may be used where you wish, but it's a nice idea to put it on the shoulder straps, yoke, waistline, pockets and hem. The pattern for this is No. E-11176, and it's available for ten cents extra.

Style No. 2035 is designed for sizes small, medium and large. The medium size requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

"Adventures in Salads" is a booklet containing many meat, vegetable, and fruit salads, and is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, The Tribune, Chicago.

BY MARY MEADE.

I do not quite agree with the cooking authority who declares that fruits have no business poking their noses into salads. I think that unless the dessert is fruity, a fruit salad has its place in any meal.

But the vegetable salad shouldn't be neglected, of course. And it perhaps offers more opportunity for the exercise of ingenuity and good taste in preparation than does the fruit concoction. Almost all of our everyday vegetables may be used fresh or in left-over form to make tantalizing salads in combination with any of numerous salad greens, including lettuce, chicory [curly endive], French endive, romaine, Chinese cabbage, spinach, and the like.

STRING BEAN, RADISH, AND CHIVES SALAD: Combine two cups slivered string beans, one teaspoon chopped chives, and one-half cup thinly sliced, crisp radishes with French dressing. A little Roquefort cheese may be added to the dressing for variation. This amount of salad will serve four.

BEET AND CABBAGE SALAD: Combine two cups finely shredded cabbage or Chinese cabbage with an equal amount of diced beets and one-half cup prepared horseradish. Add mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Serves six to eight.

BEET AND CAULIFLOWER SALAD: Add French dressing to two cups diced, cooked cauliflower, one-half cup diced celery, one cup diced beets, and a little grated onion, to serve six.

RED CABBAGE, BACON, AND ONION SALAD: Fry two slices bacon and chop fine. Pour bacon with fat over two cups finely shredded red cabbage, two slices chopped onion, and two-thirds cup finely cut celery. Toss together with a tart French dressing. Serves four.

CORN SALAD: Combine two cups whole kernel corn with two slices green pepper, chopped, one tablespoon minced onion, one-half pimiento, chopped; one chopped, hard cooked egg, and one small tomato, cut in pieces. Use a mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing. Serves four or five.

SPINACH SALAD: Combine three cups chopped raw spinach with one cup chopped lettuce, endive, or chicory, and three chopped hard cooked eggs. Add French dressing and chill until ready to serve. This amount will serve six or more.

CARROT AND PEANUT SALAD: To three cups ground raw carrots add 1½ cups ground roasted peanuts and a little salt if the peanuts aren't salty. Combine with dressing made in the proportion of three-quarters cup mayonnaise and one-quarter cup cream, whipped. Chopped celery may be added. Serves six to eight.

TURNIP SALAD: For two servings combine one cup diced cooked turnips and one tablespoon chopped parsley with French dressing to which a teaspoon of onion juice has been added.

Any of these salads may be served from a salad bowl, in which case the bowl should be lined with lettuce or other greens. Individual salad plates may be used if preferred.

Good Posture Essential to Clothes Chic

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

To get the most possible out of your best fall wardrobe why not take an inventory of your good points and your faults and then do everything in your power to overshadow the deficiencies by playing up the assets? To show off clothes most effectively about the most important thing is a good posture. No matter how smart the outfit may be, if you do not carry yourself gracefully, with ease, you can't hope to look the part of the well turned out woman. So look to your carriage first. It's so important in the makeup of the chic person.

If you do not possess a good carriage stand before a mirror and practice standing and walking. The back should be straight so that the abdomen does not protrude, the head held high, with chin level. Let the shoulders fall naturally, not rigidly, as some are wont to do in their effort to overcome the habit of slouching. Extreme rigidity is as disfiguring as slouching. The step should be springy, without any rigidity of the leg muscles, weight resting on the balls of the feet.

Should hips be too large, the abdomen protrude, or legs and ankles out of proportion, spend some time each day in exercise until you overcome your particular fault.

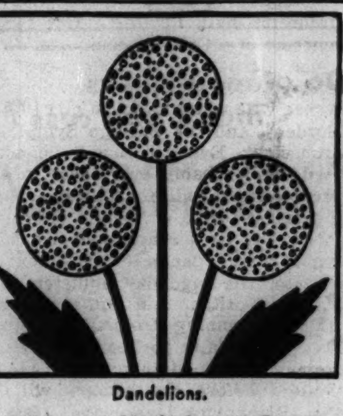
If you're not satisfied with your present coiffure, or feel another might be more becoming, consult a reputable hairdresser and let him provide the most becoming hairdo.

Have a well defined eyebrow, not plucked to a fine line, but a clean, even line, nicely arched.

Experiment with rouge and lipstick until you find the most becoming shade, the shade that does flattering things for your particular coloring. Study the shape of your face and lips so that you may apply rouge most advantageously. If you have a well shaped mouth follow the natural outline when applying lip rouge. When lips are thin use lipstick generously over the entire lips; if thick, apply rouge to center, then blend toward mouth corners.

Strive for naturalness, than which there is nothing more charming.

Lowly Dandelion Lends Cheerful Bloom to Quilt



Dandelions.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This lowly member of the aster family, the dandelion, has served many purposes, but this is the first time its cheerful yellow face has been successfully transferred to a quilt block. There are certain yellow and white printed materials from which this block may be made, which create an illusion of the natural bloom. It is a delightfully simple applique job which is recommended for the beginning quilt maker. This same pattern, with another choice of material, can create any number of interesting simple floral designs. This block is small, measuring 11½ inches square. A quilt may be composed entirely of applique blocks, or be set together in an alternate arrangement with plain ones, depending upon the individual's taste.

Many Parties Will Precede Assembly Ball

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE 800 who are on the invitation list of the governors of the Chicago Assembly received in yesterday's mail invitations requesting their "presence at a dance to be given in the gold room of the Congress hotel on Friday evening, Dec. 10, at 10:30 o'clock."

And you may be sure all of the 800 will accept, for no one wants to risk being left off the list once he or she is on it. Illness or absence from the city or even ennui may prevent one from going, but nothing prevents one from accepting!

One of the many dinner parties planned to precede the ball is one the Walter Paepckes will give for the Albert B. Deweys, who are coming from Washington, D. C., to attend the assembly. The Deweys will be the guests of the Philip Mahers during the short time they are here. Another couple who will have guests from out of town for the ball are the Ballard Moores, who will be entertaining Marchesa Carignani from St. Louis and Ralph Hill from Washington.

Many Will Give Parties at Casino.

Every nook and cranny in the Casino that possibly can hold a dining table will be in use the evening of Dec. 10, for several large and several small parties are to be given there. The Frederick A. Prestons are having the largest, for their guests will number about sixty; the Herbert E. Bradleys and the John F. Jelkes will have parties of about forty each, Mrs. de Koven Phelps will have thirty guests, and the John Jay Bryants and Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell Rogers will have smaller tables.

There will be music for dancing at the Casino, so every one who dines there will "leave the club exhausted and arrive limply at the Assembly," as one woman who will be there remarked yesterday. Debutantes and their beaux do not find it difficult to dance almost steadily from 8 until 4 a. m., but no debs ever are invited to the ball, and this year there will be practically no second year girls there.

The James H. Douglases have reserved the Polo room of the Hotel Ambassador East for a dinner party before the Assembly, and there are several more tentatively planned.

Carpenter Concerto Will Have Premier Tonight.

Tonight will be a gala occasion at Orchestra hall, for the latest violin concerto of a Chicago composer, John Alden Carpenter, will be played by Zlatko Balokovic, Jugo-Slav violinist, whose wife was a Chicago girl [Joyce Borden], and the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Every box will be occupied and probably every seat in the great concert hall, for Chicago music lovers are proud of "home talent."

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter are having a family party in their box except for the Jugo-Slav minister, Constantin Fotitch, and Mme. Fotitch, who are coming from Washington, D. C., especially to hear their countryman play. Dining with the Carpenters before the concert will be the Balokovics, who are visiting them; Dr. and Mme. Fotitch, the John Paul Wellings, and Mrs. Carpenter's sons-in-law and daughters, the Adlai Stevensons and the Robert Piries. The Wellings will occupy their regular main floor seats in Orchestra hall.

Mrs. John R. Palandech will give a luncheon today at the South Shore Country club for Mme. Fotitch while Dr. Fotitch is lunching at the home of the Jugo-Slavian consul general, Peter Cabric. At the luncheon Dr. Fotitch will bestow the decoration of Commander of the Jugo-Slav Crown upon Mr. Palandech.

Art Institute Holds Reception Today.

This afternoon brings the annual reception of the Art institute, for fifty-eight years one of the outstanding social affairs of every winter. The fifty-ninth reception, which will open the forty-eighth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture, will be from 3 until 5:30 o'clock.

As usual, the paintings and sculpture will not be the only artistic things to interest the thousands of guests, for the tea tables always are works of art that are thoroughly appreciated by the women who are served from them.

Presiding at a table in gallery 25 will be representatives of the Antiquarian society and the Fortnightly club; in gallery 48 members of the Arts, the Friday, and the Contemporary clubs will serve; committees from the Chicago Woman's club, the

Two Northwestern Dances Tomorrow

Tomorrow night while Northwestern alumnae are dancing at the Purple ball, Miss Beatrice Bamford will have the honor of leading the grand march of the colorful Navy ball in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Beverly Pattishall, chairman of arrangements, will be her escort. The Navy ball is an annual Northwestern undergraduate event and is a favorite with the student body.

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Miss Janice Hall is busy with plans for the most important social affair of the year for Northwestern alumni, the third annual Purple ball, which will be held in the Crystal ballroom of the Drake hotel tomorrow night. It will serve as a pre-pep session for those attending as it is being held the evening preceding the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game.

Institute Opens American Art Exhibit Today

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The 48th annual exhibition of American Paintings and Sculpture opens this afternoon in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. It is an amazingly generous show in its proportions.

Practically every kind of picture which has appeared under the nomenclature of "art" during the last decade has been extended the glad hand of welcome; you will stand dumbfounded at some of the contrasts sheltered this year in these galleries.

There are numerous paintings of strength, beauty, and force. The "Jesus Galvez with Baby Benjamin," by Leopold Seyffert, and "José Lupez," by Wayman Adams, are equally stunning. Boris Anisfeld shows a decorative flower still-life, very large; "The South Wind," by Paul L. Clemens, is an exquisite composition in color and line. The "Seaweed Gatherer," by Eugene Higgins, is a powerful figure, and "Paradise Terrestre," by Lauren Ford, is a delicious fantasy.

There are many fine pieces of sculpture and several less fine. The balance between modern and nonmodern has been kept fairly even with a resulting collection of contrasts that is interesting, even though it has its absurdity.

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan Art institute medal and $500 was awarded to "Wyoming Landscape," by Aaron Bohrod. The Norman Wait Harris silver medal and prize of $500 went to Ernest Fiene for "Frosty Morning," and the Norman Wait Harris bronze medal and $300 was won by Lila Copeland with "Railroad Bridge."

"Drifters on the Mississippi," by Joseph Vorst, received the M. V. Kohnstamm prize of $250. The $200 prize of the Chicago artists' annual ball went to Robert Lifvendahl for "Landscape." The Martin B. Cahn prize of $100 was awarded to "Studio," by Boris Anisfeld. The William M. R. French memorial gold medal was given to "The Lute," by Gladys Rockmore Davis.

Honorable mentions were awarded to "Picnic on the Alleghany," by Henrik Mayer; "House in Solitude," by Nicola Ziroli; "Head of a Provincial Peasant," by Stuart Benson, and "South Wind," by Paul L. Clemens.

Fisherwoman—Cycle.

INDIVIDUALIST note. A woman smartly clad in tweeds and wearing pigskin gloves was fishing in the lagoon in Jackson park on one of the coolest of recent days. Later she was to be seen striding on the Midway, carrying her fishing rod neatly folded in a yellow chamois cover and carrying a little bag with a similar cover which undoubtedly contained additional fishing equipment.

THIS little tale of a coincidence seems to have some significant connotations, if we could only crystalize what they are. William B. Benton, the new young vice president of the University of Chicago, bought an old house in Southport, Conn., about five years ago, because he thought it was pretty country and a nice old house. When a cousin came to visit she discovered a fact of which Mr. and Mrs. Benton had been unaware when the house was purchased. In looking through an old diary kept by Mr. Benton's grandfather, a gentleman who was graduated from Yale in 1843 and who went out to Asia Minor to be a missionary, she learned that at one period in his life he had been head of an academy in the same town in which his grandson, nearly a hundred years later, had elected to buy property. The academy is now a museum.

Because the grandson had found his way back from Montana to Connecticut we feel the tale has connotations of American history. The grandsons of the covered wagon gentry back east again, heading advertising agencies—for that was what Mr. Benton was doing when President Robert M. Hutchins brought him to the University of Chicago. It means, perhaps, that our pioneer days are farther in the background than we have grown accustomed to feeling they are.

FURNITURE in Mr. Benton's house in Connecticut includes some pieces that traveled westward during an era when frontiers were being pushed toward the Rockies. Carried west by early methods of transportation, they were shipped back in recent years to the New England country whence they came, probably over a national trucking route.

I heard a slightly similar tale from Boston friends shortly before starting for Honolulu in September. A Hawaiian girl, daughter of an elderly Hawaiian who was court chamberlain to the last Hawaiian kings, married a Bostonian. Before she sailed for her new home she selected, at her father's suggestion, a favorite piece of furniture to take from her Hawaiian home to Boston. She decided on a bureau. A year or so ago she sent the bureau to a furniture store in Boston for some repairs and found that it was the same store from which the piece had been purchased and sent to Honolulu a half century before.

ON the other hand, I saw two child-size mahogany rockers in a home in Honolulu that had come around the horn on a missionary boat during the first half of the nineteenth century.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Again Edward G. Robinson takes upon his able shoulders the dour, dark mantle of a public enemy in a melodramatic screen sermon preached from the w. k. text, "Crime doesn't pay."

And HOW it doesn't pay in "The Last Gangster"!

The action harks back to the era when racketeers were kings—and you meet Joe Kronac returning home from the old country with a sweet young bride. He's culled her from the town where he was raised, taken her to Paris for a bit of polish, and brought her home to give him a family. She adores him inarticulately and wots not from whence comes the money that buys her so many pretty things. . .

She learns a lot besides how to speak the English language.

Joe is caught up with by the federal government on income tax evasion. . . Follows Alcatraz. . . Mrs. Kronac, now the mamma of Joe's son, at last sees the light. She divorces her gangster husband and marries a noble young newspaper man who carries her and her child off to Boston. Here he believes she and the youngster will be safely hidden from the searchlight of publicity—and Joe when he shall have been released.

For years they enjoy a normal, happy suburban life. Then Kronac, having served his ten years, leaves Alcatraz. . . I'll let the picture follow on from here.

The story material is familiar, but it's well handled.

Mr. Robinson presents a convincing portrayal. Rose Stradner, a stranger, is refreshingly different as the innocent, bewildered Talya. James Stewart plays her gangly, goodhearted savior with an air. . . Attendant gangsters, attorneys, guards, etc., do their stuff in capable manner.

The Alcatraz episodes—and what happens to "Napoleon" Kronac after he leaves Alcatraz—should divest gangsterism of all its glamor! If, indeed, it has any, any more, for anybody.

See you tomorrow.

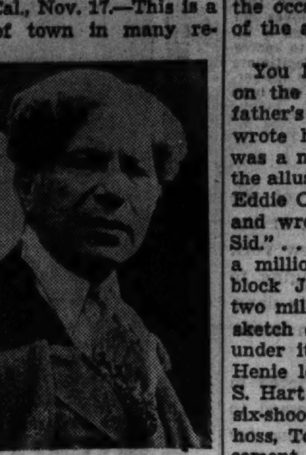
Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 17.—This is a curious sort of town in many respects. . . . Take, for instance, the forecourt of famous Grauman's Chinese theater, that ugly edifice of Hollywood boulevard, where moving picture stars, starting in 1927, left the imprint of their feet and hands in cement blocks.



Sid Grauman
a good showman.

I dropped in there the other night to see a Shirley Temple picture, and on the way out stopped to survey the imprints of the celluloid famous . . . and discovered something that struck me as quite horrible. . . . The footprints, handprints, and signature of beloved Marie Dressler are no longer visible. . . . In July, according to attachés of the theater, the box office was moved in from the sidewalk and erected over the cement block which carried the signatures of Miss Dressler and Wally Beery.

Grauman, bushy-haired, short, Morris Gest-ish sort of a person, is supposed to be a great showman, so perhaps he had some reason to be so lacking in good taste as to blot out the Dressler signature with anything so crude as a box office. . . . I tried to get him on the 'phone to ask him for the reason, but up to the present moment he hasn't called, so we'll postpone judgment until his side of the story can be presented.

William Powell and Joan Crawford, I think, have the cleverest inscription in the theater forecourt . . . "May this cement our friendship" was La Crawford's reaction . . . and Bill Powell, after implanting his feet and hands for posterity, scrawled: "Sid, old boy, I am happy to put my foot in it for you."

Most of the movie celebs, with the arc lights beating down on them as they stepped into the soft cement, were unable to think up anything so clever as the cement sallies of Miss Crawford and Bill Powell. . . . The best Mary Pickford could evolve was "Greetings to Sid," and you know that isn't a new high in originality. . . . Myrna Loy is at least sincere: "To Sid, who gave me my first job."

Al Jolson and Bing Crosby acquitted themselves handsomely. . . . Jolson, in addition to his footprints and hand prints, left the impression of his knees. . . . Crosby traced out the musical bars of "When the Blue of the Night." . . . Pola Negri was quite overcome: "Dear Sid," she scrawled, "I love your theater." . . . This completely misses the mark, as the occasion didn't call for a review of the architecture.

You like Tyrone Power's message on the cement..."Following in my father's footsteps," young Power wrote his own footprints...his dad was a noted Shakespearean actor, so the allusion is more than figurative. . . Eddie Cantor traced his goggled-eyes and wrote: "Here's looking at you, Sid." . . . Dick Powell wrote, "Thanks a million," and in the next cement block Joan Blondell says, "Thanks two million." Joe E. Brown made a sketch of a large cavern and wrote under it, "My mouth print"; Sonja Henie left her skate prints, William S. Hart has the imprints of his two six-shooters, and Tom Mix had his hoss, Tony, plant his forefeet in the cement.

There are a lot of others represented: Jean Harlow, Marion Davies, Norma Talmadge, Connie Talmadge, Doug Fairbanks, Raoul Walsh, W. S. Van Dyke, Ann Harding, the Marx Brothers, the Ritz Brothers, Bebe Daniels, Colleen Moore, Shirley Temple, May Robson, but there are a lot of equally important footprints that have been ignored...How about the footprints of the movie fan who had to see Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in "Parnell"? Doesn't such a mezzanine victim rate attention?... Or how about the footprints of a stockholder in a movie company which announces that it has just completed an artistic triumph for $3,000,000? . . . The footprints would indicate the stockholder en route to a pawnshop, or something equally subtle.

I'm ag'in all such galleries of immortals as that which is represented in the Grauman lobby, and I'll tell you why. . . . Never have I found in such a collection the name of a poor bloke who has been unsuccessful. . . . This, in fact, always has bewildered me. . . . The world always can find its way to the dressing room of a winner, but never gets confused and goes to the dressing room of the loser.

So, quite naturally, only the winners, the successes, are represented in this cement gallery, and consequently the gallery lacks shading or balance. . . . If Sid had included the footprints of one down-at-the-heel derelict and written across it, "Here, but for the grace of God, is any one of us," I'd believe his collection was on the level.

The whole issue of Fame is confusing, at best. . . . Marie Dressler is blotted out by a box office. . . . Some day some satirist will come to this town and around that incident will build a very scathing article. . . . However, at the moment your correspondent has a very high boiling point, so he simply presents the facts as they appeared to him in the lobby of Grauman's Chinese theater.

Weddings Announced

Heirloom rose point lace covered the long train on the ivory slipper satin gown Miss Virginia Rice wore for her marriage to Richard Allen Munnecke last night in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. Dr. Walter H. Macpherson of Joliet read the service and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor S. Rice of Beverly Hills, gave a reception at the South Shore Country club.

After a honeymoon in the east Mr. Munnecke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Munnecke, and his bride will be at home in Beverly Hills, where she is president of the Beverly Hills auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society.

The wedding of Miss Miriam Hart, daughter of Mrs. Adelcia Mendenhall Hart, 4940 East End avenue, to Fred D. Stone Jr. will take place tomorrow evening in the Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. Mrs. William Atwill Jr. will be the matron of honor and Miss Kathleen Stewart, Miss Ruth Voltz and Miss Gretchen Walrath will be the bridesmaids. William Atwill Jr. will be best man. The bridegroom's father, Dr. Fred D. Stone, will officiate at the wedding.

Miss Hart entertained at a trousseau tea at her home yesterday afternoon and this evening the bride's brother, E. Kenneth Hart, will give the bridal dinner at the Windermere East hotel.

Grace Moore Gets Series of Wild Ovations

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A face and figure known in all the movie houses on the main streets and back streets of the world and a voice familiar to every one who has ever twirled a radio dial were the features of last night's performance of "Manon" by the Chicago City Opera company. Face, figure and all belong to Grace Moore, American soprano, who on this occasion made her Chicago operatic debut.

Even the capacious Civic Opera house can hold only the tiniest fraction of the Grace Moore public. That tiny fraction filled every seat in the huge structure and endeavored to apprise the singer, on behalf of the tens of thousands who were unavoidably absent, of the deep affection in which she is held.

Again and again the house rocked with applause; on occasion there were shouts mingled with the noise of pounding palms. A good time, apparently, was had by all—even by the lobby critics who talked nostalgically of the Manons they had seen at the Comique when the nineteenth century was old.

Miss Moore, too, must have had a pretty good time, for ovations such as that which followed the third act are not commonplaces in the life of anybody. Certainly not in the life of a singer who spends most of her time working for a distant and invisible audience.

A likable personality, a nice eagerness to please, and a clear, easily produced voice are the principal reasons for Grace Moore's astoundingly successful career. She does not color very aptly nor phrase with a great deal of care. And her acting, curiously, seemed quite stiff—especially in the third act.

Closely approaching the dimensions of Miss Moore's triumph was the ovation earned last evening by André Burdino, great French tenor of the Opera Comique. He sang Des Grieux to the American soprano's Manon and greatly deepened the good impression he made here in two previous appearances.

In applying the adjective "great" to Mr. Burdino one must cautiously explain that it does not refer to voice quality nor to any other single endowment—but rather to a combination of voice quality, style, and stagecraft. Thoroughly conversant with French operatic tradition, the man's musical and histrionic demeanor alike have the polish and distinction which have come to be international hallmarks of Gallic art.

His work boasts a restraint which stops far short of coldness. He possesses a deep awareness of the musical and dramatic demands of the moment which never results in an impression of artificiality.

John Brownlee repeated his successful Lescaut of the first week of the season. The other principal rôles went to Chase Baromeo, Giuseppe Cavadore, and Wilfred Engelman.

A dazzling performance, all in all, with Louis Hasselmans alert on the conductor's stand for every opportunity to squeeze out of the lovely, lyrical music its last drop of eloquence. Costumes, setting, and lighting were in the best Civic Opera house tradition—quite a lofty tradition, indeed.

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter died his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties Isabella had never told him about Sally. Sally bids good-by to wise Mary Culpepper, school headmistress. En route she meets Robin Ashe, whose family live near the old Crewe mansion, Sally's new home—he falls in love with her—and has an unpleasant encounter with an arrogant tramp called Vincent. The morning after Sally's homecoming Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp—Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi. Gossip reaches Robin that Sally is the new heir's mistress. Vincent surprises Sally when he tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him. He shocks her by harboring an evil looking tramp who is ill. When Robin calls to beg Sally to marry him she announces that she is going to marry Vincent. Vincent is told by Manchi that he is not Caleb's nephew, but the illegitimate son of Caleb's first wife. Vincent takes the evidence, forced from Manchi, to the lawyer, relinquishing the fortune to Mrs. Winter. When Mrs. Winter hears the news she begs Sally not to marry Vincent. Sally insists she will, but Vincent won't let her.

INSTALMENT XL.

A SOUL SET FREE.

Sitting up, straight and strong against her pillows, forgetful of the partial helplessness of her disease, staring without conscious sight, at the opposite door, Isabella Winter saw only Sally: Sally exquisite in New York frocks, Sally with orchids and roses, Sally at play, her skirt swinging to the turn of a golf stroke or to the quick dart of a tennis court, Sally dancing under the crystal lights of Crewe House, Sally at the piano, on horseback, radiant with love, in satin and lace, a bride. Sally a mother.

During the last part of this reverie Mrs. Winter had been bothered in one corner of her attention by a sound. Some trailing branch seemed to brush at irregular intervals across a rough surface . . . an odd noise for such a still hot day. It was like a gardener brushing at fallen leaves with a broom of twigs. No . . . it was like a dragging step. She remembered that the end of the passage that led to her own and to the servants' quarters was carpeted in a long central strip of fibrous stuff. Someone very slowly and with pauses was shuffling his feet along this ropey surface. No one in the house, thought Isabella Winter, had a step like that. Isabella put out her hand to touch the bell. It hung on a cord close to her pillow but must have slipped away during the activity of her triumphant interviews with Marr and Sally, for she could not reach it. She was about to lift her voice to call for Zona when that door was slowly opened from the hall.

There was entering a figure utterly unaccountable to her. It was dressed from neck to slippered feet in a flannel dressing gown. The hands of the figure moved along its body, traveling almost to the knees and up again, without cessation.

When he had reached the foot of her bed, Isabella spoke.

"Jack Keyne . . . you're dead," she said, a thick guttural assertion of a fact.

He peered as though his sight had been impaired. He smiled doubtfully. "That you, Isa? I thought I'd find you. They left the door unlocked. The pill he gives me didn't work . . . I spit it out while he wasn't looking. Yes . . . I guess you thought I was dead all right. I worked it pretty carefully. I'd got tied up to another woman, Isa, down in Rio. I didn't want you to have any doubts but that I was killed in that scrap. I'd no money to go through the divorce courts or to pay lawyers. The other girl was pretty . . . young. I knew you'd land on our feet anywhere, anyhow." He laughed, his eyes still peering at her, as though they were searching through a deepening dusk. "I didn't reckon you'd marry another man. That's where you fooled me. But I never meant to plague you. I saw in the papers how your rich husband had died and I thought he'd left you a pile and that you'd kind of take care of me. My girl down there was dead. Things weren't so good with me. I'd got the liquor habit and it had got me plenty. The doctors told me I wasn't good for long."

Isabella spoke in the same throaty and undirected voice.

"How did you get here? Why do you look like this?"

"The fellow that got your money away from you . . ." Keyne lowered his voice warily. "he got to see me first and, after I'd told him my story he wanted to keep you from the trouble of knowing what you did, marrying Winter. He gave me money to keep me quiet. When I came back again he gave me more. Last time I came . . . It was at night and I was sick . . . the damn things crawling over me, he put me to bed here in the house . . . I guess he was scared to have me anywheres about, thinking I'd tell someone . . . but, Isa, I wouldn't do that . . . no, sir . . . though I let him think I might . . . needing money so bad. I wanted to see you, Isa, just once. I wanted to ask you about that little yellow headed kid of ours."

"O . . . Sally . . . Sally . . . Sally! Grief and anger and fear surged up into the helpless woman's throat. She struggled to raise herself, to deny and to command her ghost. There was no faintest memory in her at that instant of young love. Only horror and hatred and guilty dread. If she had had a weapon she might have killed him. Perhaps he saw the will to his obliteration and eternal silence in her dark face, for, shuffling sidelong to the door, he went out and closed it upon Isabella's frantic search for the lost bell.

When Sally came, fifteen minutes later, and bent over her she was able to move her head a little and to speak once.

"I think God punishes," she said. "Tell Vincent that I have no rights."

It was the confession of surrender, that effort at honor and at truth that killed her body and set free her soul; a confession and an effort completely uncomprehended by the shocked young ears that were the only ones to hear.

. . . .

"My darling Sally," wrote Mary Culpepper with less than her usual restraint. "It nearly breaks my heart not to be able to be with you during these sad days. But now that you are sorrowfully released from your duty to your mother, you must come to me and stay with me until the road ahead of you is clear again.

"I have had an extraordinary visitor. He announced himself to me, a most romantic youth. His name is Robin Ashe. What he wanted of me was that I should go down and speak to his family on your behalf. This Robin, I gathered, has offended you and desires with all his heart reconciliation and forgiveness. I told him, Sally, that I could do nothing for him, as man or lover, until I had talked him over with you. His description of your employer at Crewe House gave me, I must admit, a bad night. I was urged to believe . . . against every conviction I have of your character . . . that you are to be forced into a marriage with a gangster. I was able to keep my head above the drowning waters of my maternal instincts only by telling myself that this was the report of a lover on a possible rival. I am sorry, Sally, that the road that lay before you and looked so smooth and flowery that afternoon we talked together should have turned out such a steep and thorny trail. But come to me and let's see what can be done about it. Your foster mother, MARY C."

This letter brought Sally down into the hall of Crewe House one sad week later, dressed for traveling. George Elmer had brought her roadster, now indisputably her own, up before the door. She was to drive herself.

Vincent came out from the workroom. He carried, to her amazement, a pistol in his hand and, coming up to her, held it out.

"I want you, please, to carry this with you in your car. I don't hold much for ladies traveling alone, even though you are going to make it before dark. If you don't mind, you'll just stick this into your car . . . to please me, understand?"

He was looking at her steadily, his eyes seeming to take no part in the process of his spoken thoughts. She took the heavy weapon in her hand and held it down against her dress.

"I don't think I shall need it . . . but . . . thank you, Vincent. Will you write to me . . .?"

Thirty Leaders Approve Sale of Christmas Seals

Officials of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute declared yesterday that more than thirty national government, civic, business, and church leaders have indorsed the 31st annual sale of Christmas seals, which opens on Thanksgiving.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Yesterday's question was:

Question 44: Both sides vulnerable. You are South, and hold:

♠A K J 8 5 ♥8 6 ♦7 5 2 ♣K J 7

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	4 hearts

What call do you make now?

Answer: You should pass. You have a "near minimum." If you were to bid four spades over four hearts you would be making a FREE bid, thus advertising distinctly better than minimum strength and, at the same time, you would be depriving your partner of the opportunity to exercise his judgment, whether to double four hearts or go on to four spades. Certainly you yourself should not double, and since North is the "last one to speak," your pass really is a "forcing pass." It forces North to bid or double, at his discretion. [Two points demerit for bidding four spades. Three points demerit for doubling four hearts.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 45: You are East, defending against a four heart contract, reached on this bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	2 spades
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Your hand and dummy are as follows:

NORTH [dummy]
♠6 5 2
♥Q 10 8 4
♣A 6 4 2

EAST
♠A Q 9 8 7
♦K Q 9 5
♣K 10

West leads the spade jack. What card do you, East, play?

TODAY'S HAND.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

SOUTH

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	2 spades
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the spade queen. Declarer won, crossed to dummy's ace, and took the heart finesse. It lost to West, who returned a low club. East won and led the spade jack. Too late declarer realized his danger. The spade king was played [it could do no good to hold off] and, as per South's fears, West ruffed. Eventually South had to concede the three of spades for the setting trick.

Just one more case of "finessing mania." Declarer should have seen that he could afford to lose one spade, one trump, and one club. Surely he should have spotted West's spade queen as a singleton. The crux, then, was to get out trumps quickly. Instead of bothering with a finesse the ace and another trump should have been played, and the defenders then would have had to whistle for more than three tricks.

Rough, Red Chapped Hands Healed Overnight

There is one sure way that has never failed to heal rough, red, chapped hands. The way Doctors, Dentists and Nurses do—and every one knows how important it is for them to keep their hands in good condition.

Hands get chapped, rough and red when essential skin elements are destroyed by harsh treatment and bad weather. The way, then, to heal them and to make them soft and white, is to replace these essential skin elements. To do this, get a jar of Mystic cream from any druggist or department store. Mystic cream supplies everything your skin needs to make it soft, smooth and white.

Apply Mystic cream at night before retiring. It is absorbed almost instantly. Mystic cream is not the least bit sticky or greasy, and it won't stain. Results are quick and sure. In most cases, hands are healed overnight.

No work will be too harsh. Bad weather won't bother you. You will always have soft, smooth, lovely hands if you get the habit of using Mystic cream. This simple treatment never fails.

Radio's Cycle Leaves Family Teams Behind

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Radio entertainment moves in cycles. Scores of entertainers whose names were on listeners' lips a few years ago have almost been forgotten. Two years back the program schedules were filled with family acts—brother and sister teams. Now they have almost entirely disappeared. Perhaps when the Dionne sisters undertake broadcasting on a regular basis a new day will be ushered in for close [kin] harmony.

From 1932 to 1934 brother and sister units headed some of the most important sponsored shows. There were the Boswells, the Lane sisters, the Pickenses, and the Mills brothers. Connie Boswell is still singing alone occasionally, her sisters are married. Jane Pickens also appears alone, her sisters having wed. One of the Mills brothers died and they went into a declin . The Lanes left Fred Waring and are in pictures.

Dozens of other mixed units, not necessarily related, reached great heights of popularity—the Revelers, Men About Town, Rhythm Boys, Kings Jesters, Kings Men, Tom, Dick, and Harry. But the public is fickle and sponsors are more so, and for some reason or other they aren't as much talked about as they once were. The King's Jesters, of course, have expanded into a complete band, and a successful one. Tom, Dick, and Harry have gone to Hollywood.

Best known group of sisters still heard are the Kings with Horace Heidt, and they are featured separately more often than as a quintet; the Three Graces of W-G-N and Mutual; the Dorings, no longer comprised of sisters, and the Morins. Incidentally, we haven't heard them lately. Perhaps they, too, are not active.

The Stroud Twins are doing very nicely, thank you, on the Charlie McCarthy program. Perhaps they will start a vogue for multiple birth combinations.

Audrey Call, former Chicago violinist and composer and sister-in-law of Dell Coon, the band leader, is to make a guest appearance on Buddy Clark's show at 9 tonight on WBBM-CBS. She will present her recently published "Witch of Harlem."

Kay Armin, song stylist, and Stan Norris' band plan to air a special broadcast for shut-ins at midnight tonight over WMAQ-NBC. Miss Armin formerly was a WAAF staf singer and recently joined Norris.

Third Recreation Conference Will Be Held in City Today

Society will go on trial for failure to train youth to use leisure time properly at the third annual recreation conference of the Chicago recreation commission, the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, and cooperating organizations this afternoon at the Hotel Sherman. College students and leaders of the Girl Scouts, the park district, and other agencies will take part in the trial, at which Judge J. M. Braude will preside.

Dr. Glenn Frank will be the principal speaker at a dinner meeting climaxing the conference this evening. His topic will be "Citizen Leadership in Today's Leisure Time."

Friends of Literature.

Rabbi Louis L. Mann will speak on "The Five Greatest War Dramas" before the Friends of Literature at a dinner meeting at 6:30 o'clock this evening at 410 South Michigan avenue.

Here Are Tips on Acquiring Boys' Favor

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Sally is a young girl of 18 who says she hopes to marry. She's not interested in a career and wants to know just how to make herself popular with the boys so she will find her mate.

First of all, you want to be yourself. If you're a big girl don't try to act cute because you saw some tiny little thing getting away with that act. If you're inclined to be serious minded, don't try to be funny. It's never a success. Don't pose. If you live very modestly, don't put on airs. Nor is it wise to be too blasé. You don't want to be afraid to register enthusiasm. Boys like the girls who act as though they were enjoying themselves.

Don't let a boy know you haven't other dates if you don't happen to have any. He may think there is a reason and not wait to find out for himself. On the other hand, it is unwise to talk too much about the boys who do take you out.

Don't feel it is your duty to keep up the conversation and so make a real chatterbox out of yourself. He may have many interesting things to tell and if he doesn't get an opportunity to tell them he'll go some place where he can.

Don't tell him everything about yourself or all you know. You want to keep him guessing a bit, and the way to do it is to be a little mysterious.

Many who use Midol do not feel one twinge of pain, or even a moment's discomfort during the entire period. So, don't let the calendar regulate your activities! Don't "favor yourself" or "save yourself" certain days of every month! Keep going, and keep comfortable—with the aid of Midol. These tablets provide a proven means for the relief of such pain, so why endure suffering Midol might spare you?

Midol brings quick relief which usually lasts for hours. Its principal ingredient has often been prescribed by specialists.

ST. GEORGE, FENWICK PLAY SCORELESS TIE

VERY GALLANT WINGS BATTLE HAWKS TONIGHT

World Champions at Full Strength.

The Lineup

CHICAGO.		DETROIT.
Karakas	G.	Smith
Seibert	R. D.	Goodfellow
Burke	L. D.	Bowman
Romnes	C.	Barry
March	R. W.	Aurie
Thompson	L. W.	Lewis

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The world champion Detroit Red Wings hocky team and the Chicago Blackhawks, who would like to be the world champions next spring and thereafter, but don't quite know how it can be accomplished, tonight at Chicago Stadium will engage in their first hocky match of the season.

Of course, one of the theories the Hawks have in re the way to succeed the Red Wings as world champs is to whip the Red Wings every time they meet them. If they can do this and break even with the Toronto Maple Leafs and a few other good teams, it is probable they can take the rest of the league in stride.

In carrying out this ambitious program, the Hawks have to outskate and outshoot a galaxy of very classy gents. Gents, incidentally, who showed that they can frustrate that wicked old goalie, Tough Luck.

Trouble?—Nothing But.

The Red Wings won the Stanley cup though beset with a scourge of injuries that would have left some of the teams in the National league with nothing but their rinks. They carried on, as all the other teams know, from bruising experiences.

The Wings' troubles began last year when Doug Young, star defense man and captain, broke one of his legs early in the campaign. The injury put him out for the season. Shortly after Young was hurt, Marty Barry, another of the team's stars, developed a bum hip. He was after an endurance record and stayed in the lineup when he should have withdrawn.

After Barry was hurt Mud Bruneteau, flashy right winger, got a stick whack in the chest which resulted in a lung hemorrhage and two weeks' absence from the lineup. Syd Howe was the next to join the hospital crew. He had a brain concussion, after which Defenseman Scotty Bowman went out with a wounded knee.

It Goes On and On.

Next to get it was the essential Herbie Lewis. Herbie got his nose busted. And then, to stretch the jinx to almost unbelievable lengths, Larry Aurie, the team's leading scorer, broke his left leg. But still the Red Wings went on to win the Stanley cup.

Tonight the Red Wings will be found sound and eager, probably possessed of the same courage sans the desperation that attended their efforts last season. The two fellows with the broken legs are knitted to perfection. The Red Wings have nothing about which to worry, except perhaps, the fact they came to town yesterday in last place in the American division of the league. And they probably aren't worrying much about that. Just a little slow getting started. But it won't be long now, they opine.

The Hawks, a bit proud of the neat battle they waged here Sunday night against the Maple Leafs when they had every right to register fatigue, yesterday went through a stiff scrimmage under the direction of Manager Bill Stewart. All hands are in good shape, and if they can win tonight they have a chance to resume the American division lead. The Americans, however, will have to help by knocking over the Boston Bruins.

MARSHALL GETS BID TO PLAY IN TOBACCO BOWL

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Marshall college's undefeated football team has been asked if it would accept a bid to a new post-season contest—a Tobacco Bowl game to be played at Louisville on Dec. 4.

Athletic Director and Head Coach Cam Henderson said tonight he was interested in the game, but indicated he would not make a definite decision until after Saturday's game with the University of Dayton for the championship of the Buckeye conference.

Marshall's opponent would be an outstanding eleven from Kentucky or Tennessee.

Marshall scored 263 points to 19 for its opponents, including a 36 to 0 triumph over Centre.

Brown Throws McMillen in Rainbo Fronton Match

Orville Brown, Olathe, Kas., heavyweight, threw Jim McMillen of Antioch, Ill., in thirty-two minutes and twenty seconds with a body press at the Rainbo Fronton last night. Other results:

Bobby Bruns and Dory Roche wrestled to a 30 minute draw.

Jack Conley and Gorilla Grubmyer wrestled to a half hour draw.

Rock Dempsey threw Jack Kogut in 14 minutes and three seconds.

Paul Miller threw Angelo Martini in 29 minutes.

WILDCATS SEE NOTRE DAME AS 'BALM' CHANCE

Win Would Assuage Big Ten Defeats.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern, having finished its western conference schedule with three victories and three defeats, and having no hope of better than a tie for a first division berth in the final conference standings, now comes to its annual battle with Notre Dame, in which Coach Lynn Waldorf and his aids hope that the Wildcats will repeat their 1935 triumph over the Irish. This victory would assuage memories of three conference defeats, each of which has been lost by one touchdown.

Northwestern has whipped Notre Dame only once since the inception of the modern series, and Waldorf achieved that in his first season at Evanston. More important, this 14 to 7 defeat was the only licking Notre Dame received that year. The Irish came back last year to pay off the score with interest by whipping Northwestern, 26 to 6, and this was the only beating the Wildcats received last fall.

Capacity Crowd Assured.

All of which makes a proper setting for Saturday's engagement at Dyche stadium. Without doubt the game will be played before a packed house, and this, in view of the indifferent records of the rivals, is further proof of the attraction of this rivalry.

There is no point in comparing the records of the teams. For in any review of the scores, the first question would be: Will Notre Dame play as it did against Army last week or as it did against Carnegie Tech? And the same question might be asked of Northwestern. Will the Wildcats play as they did last Saturday against Minnesota or as they did against Illinois?

Each team has had difficulty in fashioning an adequate attack. In six conference games Northwestern has scored five touchdowns and was held scoreless by Illinois and Minnesota. In its last six games [following the opening conquest of Drake, 21 to 0] Notre Dame has scored only five touchdowns and also was held scoreless by Illinois.

Irish Need Ball Carriers.

Elmer Layden's problem apparently has been to find ball carriers to perform behind a line which in pre-season estimates was presumed to be one of the finest since Layden returned to his alma mater. Northwestern began the season with veteran backs, except at the full back position, which has been manned by sophomores all fall, and the Wildcat attack has been handicapped by inexperience in the line and by injuries.

By its defeat of Minnesota, in which Notre Dame bottled up the Gophers' assault throughout the second half, the Irish probably must be favored over Northwestern. It remains to be seen if Northwestern's defense can check the power that the Irish showed against Army.

The Wildcats went through their final hard drill of the season yesterday. At the conclusion it seemed apparent that Capt. Don Heap and Bernie Jefferson again would be paired at half backs; that Fred Vanzo would be the quarter back, and that Jay Laskay, who won this position before the Minnesota game, would start at full back. Bob Swisher, who opened last week at right half back, may get the call Saturday if his leg injury responds to treatment. Swisher was injured when he carried the kickoff at the start of the second half at Minnesota forty-one yards.

N. U. Line Same.

With the exception of Erwin Wegner, who probably will return to center after a two weeks' absence because of injury, the Northwestern line will be the same that started against the Gophers. Kovatch and Eby will be at the ends; Voigts and Cutlich, at the tackles, and two sophomores, Guritz and Goldman, will be at the guard positions.

Bess Ehrhardt and Roy Shipstad who will perform during the five day international skating carnival which will open at the Stadium next Wednesday. Both are noted for their spectacular individual numbers as well as for their performance as a team.

Among Their Wedding Gifts—A Fine Horse

BY FRENCH LANE.

One of the wedding presents received by Miss Betty Graham of Detroit the other day upon her marriage to the young Kentucky horseman, Duvall Headley, must have felt a trifle strange there among the solid silver tea services, the bon-bon dishes, and the gravy ladles.

It was a horse—the very fine racing mare Sparta—given to the couple by the groom's uncle, Hal Price Headley.

If the intentions behind this gift come true, then the bridegroom will some day head a thoroughbred production industry that will rank in caliber with that of his uncle, which right now is one of the most prosperous in the country.

Sparta is to head the thoroughbred nursery, and, if she is as successful there as she has been at the race tracks, the project will soon be on its way to fame and fortune.

As far as the groom is concerned, his uncle could not have thought of a more desirable gift.

Since he prepped for Princeton young Headley has spent a great part of his time in and around the barns and farm of his uncle.

He developed Sparta, which, in three years of racing, has been one of the most valuable mares in the country. This year alone she won five races and $7,125.

But that isn't all the young bridegroom has accomplished. He has brought out what many believe are the two best 2 year olds of the year in Menow, winner of the Belmont Futurity, and Bourbon King.

The new Mrs. Headley saw nothing amiss in receiving a horse for a wedding present. Her sister, Virginia, is married to Young Jack Healy, who, until a few weeks ago, was one of the C. V. Whitney trainers. When Whitney sold out Healy began buying horses and will race his own stable.

Her father, J. B. Graham, likes horses, too, but he makes an automobile bearing his name.

Well, you guessed it. He gave the bride a new automobile.

Bess Ehrhardt, Roy Shipstad to Skate at Stadium

Four of America's foremost ice skating celebrities will be among the fifty stars appearing in the sixth annual international ice carnival at the Chicago Stadium for five nights beginning next Wednesday.

Bess Ehrhardt and Roy Shipstad will perform their spectacular dances, while Oscar Johnson and Eddie Shipstad, the greatest comedy team on the ice, have a new routine which is said to be one of the funniest they have ever devised.

Miss Ehrhardt is just 20 years old and has made the most sudden rise to national fame in the history of American figure skating.

Roy Shipstad, who is recognized as one of the greatest contemporary masters of the ice, won fame as the "Human Top" through his famous spinning act.

Eddie Shipstad and Oscar Johnson, who have been skating together for ten years, have reduced pair skating to a fine art.

COLLEGES, A. A. U. SPLIT OLYMPIC GAME CONTROL

Each to Put Six Members on Committee.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The Amateur Athletic union today balked an attempt by the National Collegiate Athletic association to gain control of Olympic committees governing four sports by effecting a compromise with the college group at the quadrennial meeting of the American Olympic association.

Colleges were given equal representation with the A. A. U. on the committees in charge of track and field, swimming, gymnastics, boxing, wrestling, basketball, field handball, and ice hocky. The Olympic association allowed each group six members on each of these eight committees. A thirteenth member will be appointed by the Olympic association president, subject to the approval of two-thirds of the other committeemen.

N. C. A. A. Ready to Fight.

The N. C. A. A. had prepared to fight for control of track, swimming, wrestling, and eight oared crew racing, proposing that the membership on the track, swimming, and wrestling committees be reduced from thirteen members to nine and that five of the nine be N. C. A. A. members. It had sought three of five members on the eight oared crew racing committee.

Control of these committees in the past has rested with the A. A. U., although the colleges have supplied nearly all the contestants, point winners, and finances to insure their participation in Olympic games. The A. A. U. at its annual meeting here three days ago appointed a committee to seek a compromise with the colleges.

Y. M. C. A. Move Fails.

The reapportionment adopted at today's meeting was presented by T. Nelson Metcalf, athletic director of the University of Chicago, who represented the N. C. A. A. Prior to its adoption, Dr. John G. Brown, secretary of the International board of the Y. M. C. A., sought representation for organizations other than the colleges and A. A. U. His proposal was turned down.

Officers of the association were reelected by acclamation. They will serve for the next four years. They are Avery Brundage, Chicago, president; Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, Princeton, vice president; Frederick W. Rubien, New York, secretary; and Gustavus T. Kirby, New York, treasurer.

The Olympic association approved an appropriation of $5,000 to reimburse members of the Olympic team who financed themselves to compete in the games at Berlin last summer.

Admitted to membership were the Inland Empire association, Pullman, Wash.; the North State Intercollegiate Athletic conference, High Point, N. C.; The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis; the Amateur Softball association, Chicago; the Central Intercollegiate Track conference, Milwaukee; the American Sokol union, Chicago, and the American Horse Show association, New York.

Resignations were accepted from the National Recreation association, New York, and the American Turnerbund, Indianapolis.

Quick, Boy, My Digitalis!

There's a rumor floating around that the National league will adopt the dead ball next year as a money making scheme. It seems the bigwigs have figured out that they can nearly double the capacity of their parks simply by abolishing what is known as the outfield and extending the grand stands within five feet of the infield. They are undecided what to do with the unemployed outfielders, but again rumor has it that museums and zoos are ready to snap up these unfortunates.

Imagine coming upon, say, Demaree or Galan, at Brookfield with a sign on their cage, "Genus Accipiter Baseballus-Species Nationalus Leagueus-Extinct. A somewhat similar though far superior ballhawk is the Species Americanus Leagueus, which is still very active and much in evidence. In former time there was much controversy as to the relative merits of the two species, but today all authorities agree that the Americanus Leagueus is supreme."—Bobo.

JONES DENIES NEBRASKA WILL DROP PITT GAME

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Published reports that the University of Nebraska will drop Pittsburgh from its football schedule were denied today by Maj. Lawrence [Biff] Jones, Cornhusker football coach.

"There is no truth in the report," Jones said. "The fact is that the game has been played so long that it has become traditional. Through all these years Nebraska has respected Pitt for its fine football and sportsmanship.

"While it is true we have won only one game in the series, the Pittsburgh relationship is one of the most popular on our schedule. Within the last year the series was further extended two years through 1940."

Krieger Rallies to Defeat Battaglia in Ten Rounds

DeCorrevont? He's O. K., But Watch This Dave Miller

Toulon, Ill., Nov. 17.—(AP)—While Chicago raves about Bill De Correvont, Austin High school half back, little Toulon is equally proud of its Dave Miller, who has been romping over central Illinois gridirons.

Miller is captain of the Toulon team which is undefeated in 19 consecutive games, thanks principally to his 149 points this season. He has scored 24 touchdowns and five extra points. Miller is 17 years old, a senior, weighs 181 pounds and is 6 feet 1½ inches tall.

Bill Metzger, former Bradley Tech full back, Miller's coach, describes him as the best prep school player he has seen.

Miller has made touchdown runs as long as 87 yards. He runs, passes and kicks, and stands out as a pass catcher. He also stars in basketball and track, having averaged 12 points a game in the 1936-'37 basketball season and having qualified for the state track finals in the high jump.

Coaches—Dan Lamont [St. George]. Anthony Lawless [Fenwick].

St. George High school of Evanston will be the north section representative in the Catholic league's championship game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. It won the right to oppose Leo, south division winner, last night through the toss of a coin after the North Shore eleven had battled to a scoreless tie with Fenwick of Oak Park at the 124th Field artillery armory. It was the second time in four days that the teams attempted to settle the sectional crown, their first effort having ended in a 7 to 7 deadlock last Sunday at Mills stadium.

After last night's game, coaches Dan Lamont of St. George and Tony Lawless gathered with their team captains, Bill Hull of St. George and Don Kruger of Fenwick, for the coin tossing. Kruger flipped the coin. Hull called heads and won. The winner of Sunday's game will play the winner of the Austin-Senn battle which will decide the public high school championship, in Mayor Kelly's Christmas Benefit prep title game Nov. 27.

St. George Leads in First Downs.

Except for a last quarter march by Fenwick, which ended when Frank Caprel's place kick from the 10 yard line was blocked, St. George outplayed the Oak Park team. Benefiting from the shiftiness of Left Half Back Johnny Leys, St. George worked the ball on several occasions far into Fenwick territory, only to miss scores through intercepted passes, and once through a short place kick which Full Back Jim McPartland attempted from the Fenwick 26 yard line.

St. George made seven first downs from scrimmage, one through a pass interference penalty and another from an offside penalty. Fenwick made four first downs, one in the first half as the result of a penalty and three in the second half from scrimmage.

After see-saw play in the first quarter Leys ran from his 40 yard line to the Fenwick 46, but Fenwick held and Leys punted over the goal. After several unsuccessful line thrusts, Kruger, the Fenwick captain, tossed a pass which Larry Salerno intercepted on the Fenwick 39. Leys then went through right tackle for first down on the Fenwick 22 yard line, but Fenwick braced and took the ball.

Place Kick Fails.

St. George set out on several futile excursions into Fenwick territory in the second half, reaching its peak and failing when Jim McPartland's place kick from the 26 yard line fell short.

Fenwick rallied in the middle of the fourth quarter when Bob Rank, Fenwick full back, intercepted a pass on the St. George 48 yard line. Kruger, Barrett, and Rank carried the ball to the St. George 10 yard line, but the march came to an end when Caprel's place kick was blocked.

A crowd of 8,000 saw the game.

JOHNNY RISKO BEATS OLIN IN NEW COMEBACK

Cleveland, O., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, 34 year old Cleveland boxer, started another comeback tonight by winning a decision over Bob Olin, former light heavyweight champion, in a ten round bout.

Risko showed effects of his long layoff and was unusually wild, but his aggressiveness, hard infighting, and his old ability to protect himself, so that he is still practically unmarked after years of fighting, decided the fight. He won seven of the ten rounds, with Olin taking the sixth and seventh, and the fourth even.

TINSLEY, COFFEE CARDINAL HOPES IN LION BATTLE

Passing Duo May Decide Sunday's Game.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Coach Milan Creighton watched from the sidelines yesterday as Pat Coffee and Gaynell Tinsley, two of his Cardinal freshmen, threw a football around Wrigley field. In their perfectly timed maneuvers Creighton saw hopes of a victory over the Detroit Lions Sunday when the former champions come to Wrigley field in what probably will be the last Chicago appearance for Earl [Dutch] Clark, the Lions' coach and star.

Passing, the one phase of offensive football in which the Cardinals appeared deficient early in the season, now becomes their chief weapon against the Lions, with whom they share a mathematical chance of sharing in the western division title.

They're Dangerous Pair.

Tinsley and Coffee, aided by the veterans, George Grosvenor and Doug Russell, have developed so rapidly since the start of the season that they now form one of the most dangerous passing combinations in the National league. Tinsley came to the Cardinals with a reputation as an expert receiver, gained at Louisiana State and in the All-Star game where 80,000 saw him score the only touchdown of the contest on a forty yard run with one of Sammy Baugh's tosses.

He did not begin to scintillate in the league until after the Green Bay and Detroit games, because in those two contests the Cardinals had no one who could get the ball to him. Grosvenor connected on several attempts in the Washington game and Tinsley scored three times to defeat the Redskins, 21 to 0, running 65, 48, and 25 yards with passes. Hitting Tinsley with a pass was not essential to success, the Cardinals soon learned. All that was necessary was to get it within arm's reach of him.

Coffee, recovering from an early season injury, was ready in the second Green Bay game and Tinsley gave his most sparkling professional performance, taking half a dozen passes, four of which were caught with defenders hanging on his shoulders fighting for the ball. He duplicated the feat against the Bears and it soon became established that the Cardinals were as dangerous in the air as on the ground.

Build Offense Around Him.

Creighton has utilized Tinsley's talents in framing an offense which is calculated to give the young southerner and bird dog fancier ample opportunity to harass opponents with his miraculous catches and excellent open field running. Special preparations are being made for Sunday's guest, the Detroit club, in view of the Lions' apparent weaknesses on pass defense uncovered by the Bears and Packers.

The Bears scored twice on passes in defeating the Lions, 28 to 20, at Wrigley field. Bernie Masterson passed twenty-two yards to Bill Karr for one score and twenty-five yards to Eggs Manske for another. Green Bay defeated the Lions in the first meeting on a seventy-eight yard pass, Bob Monnett to Gantenbein, for a touchdown and another, seventeen yards, Joe Laws to Paul Miller, also for a touchdown. A third pass, twenty-three yards, Monnett to Don Hutson, placed the ball on the 4 yard line, from where the Packers went over for their first touchdown.

If the Bears and Packers were able to fool the Lions' secondary, Creighton is convinced Tinsley and Coffee can do it. Tinsley's task will be simplified Sunday by the return of Bill Smith, veteran end, who has been out with a touch of pneumonia which developed after an injury which cost the Cardinals his services early in the season. Smith will relieve Tinsley. He is an excellent receiver, making it possible to rest Tinsley without destroying the effectiveness of the aerial attack.

Sign Mundee at Center.

Creighton yesterday announced the signing of Fred Mundee, former Notre Dame center, as relief for Leonard Dugan and John Reynolds, who are injured, but who will attempt to share the burden against the Lions. The Cardinals' regular center, Ham Harmon of Tulsa university, a rookie who gave promise of being a freshman star, has been sent home to undergo treatment for an injury received early in the season. He will not be available until next season.

Plan Football Excursion to Bears' Game with Lions

Reservations were being received yesterday for the Bears' all-expense special to Detroit on Thanksgiving day, where the Bears play the Lions. The game has been designated as the feature of a civic celebration in honor of Dutch Clark, Lion star and coach. The train will leave at 4:45 o'clock on Wednesday night and will return Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Nagurski Pins Detton Twice with Body Slams

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Bronko Nagurski, Chicago Bear football star, defeated Dean Detton of Salt Lake City in the feature wrestling match here tonight. He used a body slam in both falls, the first in 32 minutes 20 seconds. Detton's shoulder was injured and Nagurski took the second fall in 1 minute 2 seconds.

Ohio Reserves to Get Chance and a Reward

Columbus, O., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Joe Aleskus, a right tackle on the Ohio State squad for two years, probably will start his first game against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday.

This comes about through the injuries suffered by Alex Schoenbaum, regular tackle. Schoenbaum was forced to retire from the Illinois game last week. Aleskus has been Schoenbaum's understudy all year.

Other Ohio State substitutes due to see service Saturday are Sam Bartschy and Esco Sarkkinen, ends; George Novotny, left tackle; Victor Marino, left guard, and Warren Chrissinger, right guard.

That substitutes would play a good bit was made certain today when Coach Francis Schmidt devoted most of the practice session with these reserves who faced freshmen demonstrating Michigan plays. Schmidt even indicated he might start this second team against the Wolverines.

John Rabb is definitly out of the Michigan game. His place will be filled, as last week, by Jim McDonald. Mike Kabealo and Dick Nardi will start at the halves and Wasylik at quarter back.

MICHIGAN IS KEYED UP.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Michigan's football coaches were impressed by Wolverine spirit this afternoon as the team made final preparations for its annual game with Ohio State here Saturday.

"This squad is hopped up as it hasn't been all season," Coach Harry Kipke said, "and the best part of it is we haven't had to bring them to it."

Michigan linemen reverted to fundamentals under Assistant Coach Hunk Anderson this afternoon, a reserve line charging against the varsity forwards on defense. Drills for the backs and ends emphasized passing, the backs in dummy pass defense formation while the ends were running out to catch the throws of Fred Trosko.

The squad again alternated on the offense and defense, running its plays in dummy scrimmage formations against reserves and looking at Ohio State plays as scouted by Bennie Oosterbaan.

TILDEN SOCCER TEAM WINS, 3-0, OVER HYDE PARK

A goal in the first half and two more in the second enabled Tilden Tech to win, 3 to 0, over Hyde Park yesterday at Ogden park in the first playoff match for the championship of the Chicago Public High School Soccer league.

Tilden opposes Crane Tech tomorrow at Ogden park in the final. Crane, Hyde Park, and Tilden completed their regular schedules in a tie for first place.

GOPHERS WARNED BADGERS WILL DO THEIR BEST

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 17.—[Special.] — Minnesota's Gophers were warned today to expect the same sort of an inspired battle from Wisconsin's Badgers Saturday as they were given by Northwestern's Wildcats last Saturday. Wisconsin, like Northwestern, always seems to play its best game against the Gophers, and the Gophers won't be caught napping.

It was the inspired rush of several sophomores which kept the Wildcats in the ball game last week-end. And the same treatment is expected in the Wisconsin contest, with no less than four first year men in the Badger lineup.

Seniors Lead Gophers.

On the other hand, it will be the seniors who will lead the inspirational rush for the Gophers. They will be playing their last year, and they will be playing for the distinction of being the first Minnesota team to win an undisputed Big Ten title since 1934. In 1935 the Gophers were forced to share the crown with Ohio State, each with five victories.

Eleven Gophers will be playing their final game Saturday. They are Capt. Ray King, Dwight Reed, Lou Midler, Bob Weld, Vic Spadaccini, and Rudy Gmitro, regulars, and Frank Warner, Bill Matheny, Clark Taube, Sam Riley, Ed Kafka, and, of course, Andy Uram, who suffered a broken wrist in the Michigan game.

The Gophers again emphasized pass defense in their workout today, fair skies allowing them to work outdoors through much of the afternoon. They completed the workout indoors, however.

BADGERS OFF FRIDAY.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A dummy scrimmage with the freshmen today concluded heavy work for the Wisconsin football team as it continued preparations for the final game of the season at Minnesota Saturday. A light drill is scheduled for tomorrow and the team will leave for Minneapolis early Friday.

Barring injuries the Badgers will be at full strength for the Gopher battle. Bob Weigandt, who came up from a third string guard to a varsity end in two weeks, and Lynn Hovland, reserve left guard, were declared ready for heavy duty today. Hovland was injured in the Northwestern game and Weigandt suffered a minor shoulder injury against Purdue.

With nothing at stake except an improved place in the final Big Ten standings, Wisconsin is expected to turn loose a reckless aerial attack against Minnesota, and the drills this week have been directed toward that strategy.

COALS TO PLAY KOLPING.

The Spencer Coals Rangers soccer team will conclude its fall schedule in the second division of the International league Sunday, opposing the Kolping F. C., at Kimball avenue and Addison street.

Grimes or Mungo Goes, Says Mungo

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Van Lingle Mungo, baseball's biggest problem child, will not play again for the Dodgers as long as Burleigh Grimes is manager, he said in an exclusive interview by long distance from his Pageland, S. C., home tonight.

Mungo, twice suspended and fined $1,000 for arguments with his teammates and Grimes, charged Grimes with fomenting his trouble because of personal jealousy. He said his suspension had cost him almost $15,000 and that he would bring suit against the club for the back pay due him.

Refuses to Take Cut.

"I like Brooklyn, always have, and always did the best I could there," said Mungo. "But I never will be able to get along with Grimes. He was jealous of my $18,000 salary, and since he was getting $7,500 or so, he held it against me. He threw the salary matter up to me every time I turned in a poor performance and ridiculed me in front of the other players.

"He never gave me credit for double work and wouldn't believe I was sick before I had my tonsils out. I was always 'lazy' or 'shirking.'

"I would not take a cut for 1938 under any conditions," continued Mungo, "but even if they offer me $18,000 and I get my back pay I won't play as long as Grimes is manager. I'd rather stay out of baseball for a year. By that time he will make such a mess of things they will get rid of him and I can come back."

Fines Pile Up.

Mungo, who was fined $1,000 for a battle with his teammate, Jimmy Bucher, in St. Louis last May, was suspended again in August for failing to report for shoulder treatments.

From Aug. 28 on he was fined approximately $100 per day.

Van was rather vague about the exact amount his little escapades have cost him but set it at almost $15,000. "I intend to sue for $8,500 deducted from my pay because of the suspensions and fines," he said. "My second suspension caused me to lose a $5,000 broadcasting contract."

Smith-Thomson, Turnesa-Manero Tie at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Best ball teams in which at least one Chicago district professional played, finished in four of the first five places in the pro-pro competition here today as the touring golfers opened a new season of tournament play. Fifty teams competed.

Horton Smith, former Oak Park pro, teamed with long hitter Jimmy Thomson to tie Mike Turnesa and Tony Manero, former open champion, for first honors with scores of 64—68—132.

Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Dick Metz, Mill Road farm, Chicago, took third place with 66—68—134. Harry Cooper, former Glen Oak pro, and Lawson Little, tied with Johnny Bulla, Woodridge, Chicago, and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, for fourth, at 135. George Slingerland, Greensboro, N. C., and George Low, Philadelphia, also had 135.

Tommy Armour of Medinah, playing with Bobby Cruikshank of Richmond, finished with 138.

The Chicago delegation will play tomorrow and Friday in the individual 36 hole Mid-South tournament.

Scores of Chicago district golfers:

Horton Smith and Jimmy Thomson	64	68	132

Purdue Holds Scrimmage; Full Back Out

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Purdue's hospital list, which already included Capt. Martin Schreyer and Andy Grant, was increased here this afternoon as it was announced that Frank Winchell, hard plunging sophomore full back, probably would be unable to play against Indiana Saturday, due to a hip injury suffered against Wisconsin last Saturday.

Winchell's loss added to Coach Mal Elward's worries as he pushed the preparation of his crippled eleven for the season's finale against Indiana.

Last Hard Scrimmage.

In the final hard scrimmage session of the season Elward devoted the major share of the defensive work to trying to stop the type of passes that Frank Filchock has been hurling so successfully for the Hoosiers all season.

The freshmen added to the worried atmosphere in the Purdue camp by passing virtually all over the field. Light drills here tomorrow afternoon and Friday will complete Purdue's preparation for the Old Oaken Bucket battle. The squad leaves here for Bloomington on Saturday morning, arriving just in time to go to the stadium and dress for the game.

HOOSIERS ARE PESSIMISTIC.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Coach Bo McMillin looked forward with misgivings to the Old Oaken Bucket battle against Purdue here Saturday after the Indiana varsity failed to show much defensive power in a scrimmage against the freshmen today. Consistent gains were registered by the yearlings on both running and passing plays.

Adding further to McMillin's gloom was a shoulder injury received by John Widaman, reserve end.

The Crimson squad spent much time in a rehersal of ground and overhead plays. Frank Filchock did most of the passing, with George Fowler and Bill Anderson relieving him. Anderson, who has been on the injured list, is rounding into shape and will probably see plenty of action Saturday.

MAROONS READY TO GIVE ILLINI A TOUGH BATTLE

Sherman Shines in Drill on Offense.

Chicago's Maroons are in the best shape of this season, Coach Clark Shaughnessy admitted yesterday, at the conclusion of the year's final scrimmage session. They are ready to give Illinois "a good, tough game" at Champaign Saturday.

Enthusiasm was beginning to boil in the Maroon practice yard yesterday as plays clicked with polish and precision. Sollie Sherman, left half, sparkled particularly in a series of short dashes during a half hour of work on offense.

Closing the scrimmage with a defensive workout, the Maroons were warned particularly against Jay Wardley, who is regarded as Illinois' outstanding offensive back. Last year, with Chicago leading 7 to 6 in the fourth quarter, Wardley tossed a fifty yard pass which turned the tide toward an ultimate 18 to 7 victory for the Illini.

After two final days of signal and blackboard drill, the Maroon team will leave for Champaign Saturday morning, accompanied by a large delegation of students.

SURDYK TO GET CHANCE.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Florian Surdyk, junior from Cicero, today appeared as a starting possibility at right tackle against Chicago as Bob Zuppke maneuvered the Illini in order to present the strongest possible front. If Surdyk starts he will supplant Tiny Cramer, who has been at right tackle since Al Lundberg was disabled.

Jim McDonald, who has been showing well at center all season, will have an adequate replacement in the person of Ed Lenich, sophomore from Joliet, who has been held back by an injury. Lenich is now reported fit and is likely to play part of the Maroon game. Andy Glosecki, 198 pound senior, received attention today and will be in line to share the full back responsibilities with Carson and Bennett.

How to thwart Sollie Sherman's open field running continued to be a major problem in the mind of Zuppke, who warned the Illini that the Maroon half back is dangerous.

Conviction is strong that Chicago will make the going difficult and that the Illini will do well to wrest victory from the conference underdogs.

GALLAGHER REJOINS IOWA.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football team took new hope today with the return of Frank Gallagher, regular tackle, to the lineup, following an injury which has kept him out of action since the Wisconsin game.

Gallagher, who started at right tackle in the first three games, has been out with a severe charley horse which has prohibited him from engaging in even the lightest practice, and, although it was considered doubtful he could win back his position from Wilbur Nead, he is almost certain to play against Nebraska Saturday at Lincoln.

Gallagher's return to the lineup will give Iowa the added strength it needs in the line to combat the powerful Cornhusker forward wall, which is greatly feared by the Iowa coaching staf.

MADIGAN, ON WAY EAST, LEARNS OF SON'S SICKNESS

E. P. [Slip] Madigan, coach of the St. Mary's football team, which is en route to New York to play Fordham Saturday, received word in Chicago yesterday that his young son had been taken to an Oakland, Cal., hospital. Mrs. Madigan returned to Oakland yesterday. The St. Mary's squad, after a workout at Soldiers' field, left for New York at 2:30 p. m.

SON HAS BRONCHITIS.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Dr. E. R. Guinan said tonight 5 year old Eddie Eugene Madigan, son of St. Mary's football coach, Edward P. [Slip] Madigan, was in fair condition from an attack of bronchitis. The boy suffered a relapse in a battle with bronchitis after his parents departed Sunday night.

Harvard May Surprise Yale and Mr. Frank

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—If there's anything farther from the thoughts of Coach Ducky Pond, his assistants and his Yale football players this week than Pasadena's publicity-scented Rose Bowl, it probably is Einstein's theory of relativity.

Even that might be more important to Yale as it drives for the climactic clash with Harvard. The relativity theory might serve to explain why, on parallel performances, Yale isn't more of a favorite for this renewal of their rivalry that will pack Harvard's stadium without the aid of a public ticket sale.

Of their mutual rivals, Yale has whipped Army, Princeton and Brown and tied Dartmouth, while Harvard lost to Dartmouth and Army and won only from Brown and Princeton. Not even a quagmire has been able to jam the gears of the Yale offense, while the Crimson machine has backfired badly on its two rainy day ventures, against Dartmouth and Davidson.

Harvard Has Chance.

Yet, given a dry field, Harvard stands a good chance of putting the first blot on Yale's record. The first string backs, who absorbed so many bruises in swamping Princeton that they were not available for the Army game, are ready again, and the hard charging, clean blocking line is prepared for Clinton E. Frank and associates.

It's quite a task they've set for themselves. Frank has been responsible for the scoring of at least one touchdown in every game this season and has scored seven in the last two. Furthermore, Yale teams, while winning 24 of their last 34 games—24 of 32 under Ducky Pond—have scored at least once in every one.

Yale Can Win Title.

Besides settling the Big Three issue, this game also will give Yale a chance to clinch the Ivy league championship. It has won three and tied one, to Dartmouth's two victories and two ties. Victory for Yale will give it the title no matter what Dartmouth does against Columbia. A tie for Yale and triumph for the Indians would leave them even. Dartmouth will be able to retain the championship it won last year only if Yale is beaten.

The concluding league game of the year will be played Thanksgiving day between Cornell, now in third place, and Pennsylvania, kept out of the cellar only by the fact that Princeton has been beaten more often.

The Ivy league standing, with season won-lost-tied records in brackets:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.
Yale [6-0-1]	3	0	1	71	16
Dartmouth [6-0-2]	2	0	2	68	26
Cornell [4-2-1]	2	1	1	40	22
Harvard [4-2-1]	1	1	0	36	26
Columbia [2-4-1]	1	1	0	26	20
Pennsylvania [2-4-1]	0	2	0	13	53
Princeton [3-4-0]	0	4	0	22	113

Ignat and Diot Get Summonses for Army Service

New York, Nov. 17—[Special.]—Emile Ignat and Emile Diot must answer the call to arms following the conclusion of Madison Square Garden's annual six day bicycle race, which begins Sunday night. The French stars must return to France immediately after the race to serve in the army.

A special permit allowed them to remain in this country for the race. They finished second in the race held last week in Chicago.

GREEN REJOINS HARVARD

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Further improvement was noticeable in the Harvard football camp today when Coach Dick Harlow used Bobby Green at left end throughout the dummy scrimmage defensive drill, and also held him in his position during the entire signal session.

A few weeks ago Harlow declared that Green was the best end he had coached and his return to the team, with an excellent chance to start the Yale game, has helped Harvard. Green started at New Haven last fall, and his substitute was Gibson Winter, who will be on Harvard's left wing Saturday if Harlow decides to hold Green in reserve.

Green weighs 165 pounds and Winter is seven pounds heavier. Green's work against the opposing tackles has been effective all year, and he also is one of the Crimson's surest pass receivers.

win the Western conference championship after one year's absence from rulership, by defeating Wisconsin. The Gophers probably have too much power on defense for the Badgers, although the Minnesota secondary still shows a weakness against passes. Minnesota is favored more because of its balanced attack than because of its defense. Rudy Gmitro, Wilbur Moore, and Hal Van Every furnish the Gophers with passing and kicking and running. Larry Buhler is one of the hardest hitting full backs in the conference.

Buckeyes Invade Ann Arbor.

Should Ohio State whip Michigan, Minnesota must defeat or tie Wisconsin to take the title. The Bucks expect their fifth Big Ten triumph at Ann Arbor. They have been defeated only by Indiana in their conference schedule. Michigan now has three conference victories and last week won from Pennsylvania, 7 to 6. The Wolverines undoubtedly will put up a splendid fight, and, since they have been badly outplayed only once this season, by Minnesota, 39 to 6, Ohio State cannot afford the luxury of overconfidence.

Iowa already has finished its conference schedule with five defeats. The Hawkeyes scarcely can expect to beat Nebraska, although they will have an advantage in meeting the Cornhuskers after their gruelling battle against Pittsburgh. Iowa's defensive play against Indiana last week may be basis for prediction of an upset.

Maroons Meet Illini.

Chicago also has not won a conference game and concludes the season Saturday at Illinois. The Illini should win, but they'll have to do better than they did against Ohio State last week. The Maroons always have won at least one conference game and this may be that game.

Purdue definitly is the underdog in the battle for the Old Oaken bucket at Indiana. The Boilermakers tied Wisconsin last week and have beaten Iowa. Indiana, if at the peak of offensive form as displayed against Ohio State, should be the victor, but this game never is fit subject for prediction. Anything can happen, and frequently has happened, in the Hoosier rivalry.

De Paul Faces Final Test at Western State

If Western State Teachers can be beaten at Kalamazoo Saturday, the De Paul university football team will have compiled one of the finest season's records of any squad in the school's history.

Only one defeat—that by Illinois Wesleyan—has been suffered thus far. Illinois and St. Louis university have been tied, and North Dakota, Loyola of New Orleans, Wichita, and South Dakota State beaten. Against Wichita and South Dakota State, the last two opponents, De Paul has scored 75 points to the opposition's 14.

Much of this season's success has been attributed to the seniors on the squad. Those who will be lost for next year include Capt. Paul Mattei, Pat Howlett, Harry Postaer, and Les Kein, backs, and Chester Chesney, Bill Casey, Evy Eastlund, Bruno Raffin, Ed Kelly, Chick Apolskis, Joe Gagliardo, Werner Cederberg, and Hal Chaddock, line men.

IRISH LOSE THREE

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's shock troops came through yesterday's scrimmage without casualty, but Coach Elmer Layden said today that three members of the first three teams are definitly out of Saturday's game with Northwestern, while three others are on the doubtful list.

Layden ordered a light drill today, consisting of dummy scrimmage on offense and defense, and a forward passing session. He said that the workouts tomorrow and Friday will be similar in nature. The team will leave for Evanston Saturday morning.

Walter [Babe] Marshall, second team right guard; John Fogel, third center, and Jerry Clifford, third left end, are definitly out of Saturday's game. Fogel and Clifford are from Chicago.

BODEAU, CHICAGO RUNNER, NAMED PURDUE CAPTAIN

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Art Bodeau of Chicago, Ill. the most consistent performer on Purdue's freshman cross-country squad, has been elected captain of the 1938 varsity squad, it was announced today.

FOOD SHORTAGE FORCES DUCKS TO CORNFIELDS

And Poor Shooting Has Been Result of Raids.

BY BOB BECKER.

Farmers living close to the Illinois river valley have to watch their corn these days if they want to put the full crop in their corn cribs. Since hundreds of thousands of mallards and pintails are finding no food in the Illinois river bottoms they leave every afternoon for the country to feed in the fields at night. All stray kernels, to say nothing of the ears on the cornstalks, are bound to get a real overhauling when this hungry winged army comes into a cornfield.

The daily migration of ducks from the river to the fields, balmy weather, lack of water, not many ducks becoying, and resultant poor shooting have been features of the 1937 shooting season in the Illinois river country. When snow and cold weather came along the hunting business perked up. But the season to date has been "funny," as one veteran duck hunter remarked this week.

Gobble All Night.

When there was lots of food in the sloughs, marshes, and timber of the valley the ducks naturally were more inclined to move over the lowlands and work to decoys. When there is little or no food [as is the case at this time] the birds wait until afternoon and then stream through the sky toward the cornfields where they spend the night gobbling up all the food they can find. Back they come at dawn to the river bottom. But during mild "woodpecker" weather the contented, smart greenheads just sit all day on a refuge where nobody can shoot at them.

The evening flight out of the river bottoms is one of the most beautiful sights of the month. We had a ringside seat for the flight a few days ago when we were about to leave a goose shooting blind near Loganberry lodge, above Bath, Ill.

En Route to Cornfields.

It was around 4 o'clock in the afternoon. As far as we could see to the east there was a never ending line of birds heading toward the cornfields. They were pouring out of the river valley by the tens of thousands. As we watched we wondered how many tons of grain they were going to eat that night and how many hunters would be disappointed the next day when the birds just sat around all day giving few shooters any chance to burn ammunition.

Milling Meets RodakMonday at Marigold

Varias Milling, veteran Filipino junior lightweight, yesterday was signed to meet Leo Rodak in a ten round headliner at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . An eye injury, received in his eight round draw with Pete Lello at Chicago Stadium Tuesday, has caused Everett Rightmire to call off his scheduled match with Frankie Covelli of New York at Minneapolis Nov. 26. Covelli is matched to face Jimmy Perrin at New Orleans Nov. 22. . . . Lem Franklin and his handlers, including Larry Amadee, will leave today for Detroit, where Franklin hooks up with Harold Ullmer, Milwaukee heavyweight, in a six round supporting bout on the card topped by Maxie Rosenbloom and Jimmy Adamick tomorrow. Loop observers believe Adamick will avenge a previous setback by Rosenbloom in the same arena Sept. 17. . . .

Joseph Pontious, 67 year old father of Harry Thomas, watched his heavyweight son begin boxing drills at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday for a 15 round contest with Max Schmeling at New York next month. After the workout Mr. Pontious, who is of French descent, said Harry has a chance to upset Schmeling. "Harry always has been confident of himself," his father explained. "He can punch and he can absorb a hard wallop. He'll carry all three requisites into the ring against Schmeling." . . . Mr. Pontious will return to his farm near Eagle Bend, Minn., today to feed the chickens and milk the cows. He will not see Thomas fight Schmeling, he said.

Bobby Bruns will make his third appearance in a week in a featured match against Orville Brown on the wrestling program at White City Monday. . . . Joe Louis is to open drills within the next few days in anticipation of competing in two matches before his title defense against Max Schmeling next June. . . . Following his conquest of John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, Izzy Gastanaga has been removed from the permanent retired list by the National Boxing association. F. M.

UTILITY, PAPER FIRM FILE BOND ISSUES WITH SEC

Offer Six Million Boston Loan Notes Today.

Two large corporate financing operations were disclosed yesterday in registration statements filed with the Securities and Exchange commission. Mountain States Power company, Albany, Ore., proposes to issue 8 million dollars of new bonds, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company plans to issue 10 millions of bonds.

The paper company securities will be first mortgage bonds maturing in 1952. Interest rate, redemption provisions and offering price were not set forth. Proceeds will be used to pay off $8,500,000 of unsecured bank loans and to increase working capital. Brown Harriman & Co. heads a syndicate underwriting the deal.

Plan to Refund Debt.

The utility issue consists of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds, due Dec. 1, 1942, and $700,000 of serial notes. The company said it expects to enter into an underwriting agreement to sell the bonds and notes subject to conditions which include that holders of the company's outstanding first mortgage gold bonds, series A, 5 per cent, and series B, 6 per cent, due Jan. 1, 1938, agree to purchase a certain percentage of the new bonds and accept interim receipts, and pay for them by the delivery of outstanding bonds at a price to be fixed. Proceeds will be applied to the payment on, or before maturity Jan. 1, 1938, of all the company's funded debt now outstanding.

City of Boston Notes Offered.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and the Marine Trust company of Buffalo are offering today an issue of $6,000,000 of City of Boston 1.64 per cent temporary loan notes at a price to yield 1.30 per cent to maturity on Nov. 1, 1938. Halsey, Stuart is also offering a $200,000 issue of City of Cambridge, Mass., 1¼ per cent bonds, due Nov. 1, 1938-'42, at prices to yield 0.5 to 1.3 per cent.

A Province of Ontario $25,000,000 loan was oversubscribed shortly after it was offered yesterday.

Directors of G. R. Kinney company, Inc., have made a final extension until Dec. 15 of time to exchange preferred stock under a plan of recapitalization. They will meet next month to consider payment of a dividend on prior preferred shares.

Investors' Guide

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Central Illinois Public Service-Middle West.

Investors' Guide: If the Middle West corporation application to buy 10,000 shares of Central Illinois Public Service company preferred stock in addition to the 10,000 previously granted and if future applications are granted, is this stock to be bought at market or call price? What is the significance to preferred stockholders? If Middle West acquires a majority, is it probable they would wipe out accumulated dividend arrears or reorganize C. I. P. S. capital structure so their common would pay dividends and preferred stockholders would lose?—E. H.

Answer: Stock has been and is to be bought at market prices. Middle West has two ideas in its purchases. One is the normal thought of any investor—that the stock is or will be worth more than its current price. The other is to gain majority voting control, which it does not have because the preferred as well as the common has voting rights. Such control would enable it to consider CIPSCO as a subsidiary in its income and balance sheets.

Some capital adjustment appears highly probable to clear preferred dividend arrears, whether Middle West acquires a majority vote or not. This does not mean that CIPSCO preferred stockholders would be cheated, however, and not receive either stock or cash or both in payment of arrears.

Idaho Power Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I have some money which I would like to invest, provided I can find something fairly safe. What is your opinion of Idaho Power company first mortgage 3¾s?—J. S.

Answer: Bonds of the Idaho Power company deserve a high investment rating. Interest has been paid regularly and has been covered by earnings by a consistently good margin—2.3 times in 1934, 2.5 times in 1935 and 2.6 times in 1936. Interest charges will be about the same on the $18,000,000 issue of new 3¾ per cent bonds sold this fall to pay for plant improvements and retire $13,000,000 of 5s and $1,500,000 of notes.

The company operates a completely interconnected system of electric light and power properties serving a population of about 200,000 in 75 cities, principally in the southern part of Idaho. It is a part of the Electric Power and Light corporation system.

COURT MAY END BAN ON SALE OF RAIL COLLATERAL

Speedier Reorganization of Rock Island Hinted.

Rather than be in contempt of the United States Supreme court, Judge James H. Wilkerson in federal court here yesterday admitted that he may be obliged to enter an order on his own motion to dissolve an injunction under which the Reconstruction Finance corporation and several banks have been restrained from selling $54,000,000 of collateral held by them as security for unpaid loans to the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

The RFC, the holder of the largest part of the collateral, loaned the road $13,000,000 on which both the principal and $3,000,000 have long been overdue. If he should enter such an order, Judge Wilkerson indicated to counsel in his court, it may be the initiative in forcing a speedier reorganization of the railroad, which has been pending under section 77 of the bankruptcy law since June, 1934.

Bank Seeks to Intervene.

The judge's comment was made following a motion by the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company to intervene in the proceeding as trustee under the bond issue of the Rock Island Improvement company, a subsidiary of the railroad. Attorneys for the railroad objected and the judge took the motion under advisement.

Judge Wilkerson recalled that the injunction was instituted on the railroad's plea that a sale of collateral would interfere with the reorganization. The Supreme court, however, stipulated in its opinion upholding the injunction that it should extend only for a limited period of time sufficient to permit the railroad to complete its reorganization.

Believes Court May Be Blamed.

"Every one seems to have forgotten what the Supreme court has said," Judge Wilkerson remarked. "The Supreme court was clear and specific in its opinion and if no one else takes the initiative, the court may on its own motion dissolve the injunction. Otherwise the court itself may be blamed for the present situation."

At this point former Senator Otis Glenn, reorganization counsel, said he believed "Washington was to blame," later referring to the interstate commerce commission, which has coördinate jurisdiction with the court in approving any reorganization plan. At a recent hearing the commission continued until Feb. 28 the date for a resumption of hearings on the reorganization plan.

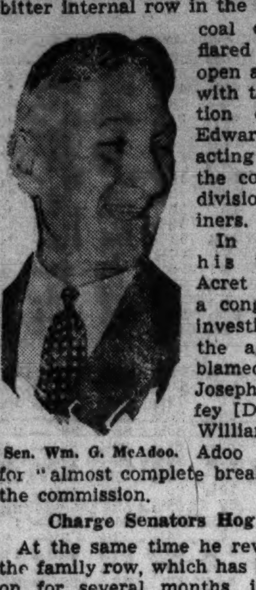
Coal Bureau Fight Bursts Into Open

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—The bitter internal row in the bituminous coal commission flared into the open again today with the resignation of George Edward Acret, acting director of the commission's division of examiners.



Sen. Wm. G. McAdoo.

In submitting his resignation Acret suggested a congressional investigation of the agency and blamed Senators Joseph P. McGuffey [D., Pa.] and William G. McAdoo [D., Cal.], for "almost complete breakdown" of the commission.

Charge Senators Hog Jobs.

At the same time he revealed that the family row, which has been going on for several months, is due not only to dissension over patronage, which he said has been hogged by the senators, but also to the fact that the commission is seeking to grant railroads below cost fuel at the expense of general consumers.

With this statement Acret made known what had been suspected, that the commission was divided over the question of price fixing policy as well as patronage. He blamed C. F. Hosford Jr., chairman of the commission, who withdrew his resignation last week, for the railroad plan.

Acret, a former commission member, said he was informed that Hosford had opposed his reappointment as a member because "he was unable to handle me with respect to this question."

Wanted Foreign Junket.

"Shortly before the vote on railway fuel was to come before the old commission [which was re-formed when congress passed the present coal control law] he tried to induce the labor member of the commission and me to make a junket to Europe to investigate coal in all European countries and had the old commission designate an expense allowance of $12,500 for this purpose, Acret said.

Although Senator McAdoo indorsed Acret for appointment to the position from which he resigned today, Acret contended McAdoo and Senator Guffey "interfere personally and directly with the normal functioning of the commission and support the chairman and the so-called 'directing commissioners' in much of their misdirected effort."

McAdoo Denies Interference.

McAdoo said today he had "never interfered in the activities of the coal commission directly or indirectly." Guffey said: "The statement regarding me by Mr. Acret is so untrue and unfounded that it is unworthy of comment."

President Roosevelt, who once suggested that members of the commission "lock themselves in a room and fight it out," attempted to bring peace by sitting down with the members of the commission for an hour Nov. 5. The olive branch was spurned by both groups and they went back to their hair pulling.

REPORT BRITISH REFUSE ITALY'S PLEA FOR LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Premier Mussolini's bid to raise a big loan in London has been turned down by British financiers, it was reported in market circles in London tonight. Il Duce, through Count Giuseppe Volpi di Misurata, president of the Fascist Confederation of Industrialists and former finance minister, who has been in London for several days, wanted between $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 for two or three years.

Count Volpi, it was stated, did not seek a direct loan to the Italian government, which at present is out of the question politically, but aimed to raise cash for Italian industry which might have served just as well.

But Il Duce's envoy found no encouragement even in circles politically sympathetic toward Italy, it appears. Apart from short term trade credits no private institution in Great Britain was prepared to risk lending money to Italy without the guarantee either of the British treasury or the Bank of England. Official sanction for the loan, it was indicated, is being used by the British government as a bargaining counter in dickering with Mussolini for better Anglo-Italian relations. Meanwhile reports indicated Italy's need for a loan was becoming urgent.

MEXICO STUDIES NATIONALIZING OF FLOUR MILLS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Expropriation of all flour mills in Mexico and the setting up of a nationwide producers and consumers' coöperative organization was provided for in a bill studied today by the Mexican chamber of deputies.

Congressman Emilio N. Acosta, author of the bill, proposed that 65 per cent of the shares of the coöperative be assigned to wheat growers and 10 per cent to employés of mills. The remaining 25 per cent would be assigned to the government.

Profits would be limited to 12 per cent of the capital represented. Present owners would receive full market value for their properties within a year. Mills worth less than 4,000 pesos [about $1,000] and those already operated coöperatively would be exempt from expropriation.

BarUtilityRate Cut Evidence in TVA Case

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—The three judge federal court headed by Circuit Judge Florence E. Allen, which is trying the injunction suit of 18 private power companies against the Tennessee Valley authority, excluded from the trial record today company exhibits offered to show savings of millions of dollars to consumers in recent years from rate reductions by the Appalachian Electric Power company and associated companies. The court took under advisement a motion by TVA counsel to strike from the record all testimony and exhibits on rate reductions previously introduced by counsel for the private companies.

The court ruled that the Appalachian exhibits had no relation to the issues in the suit attacking the constitutionality of the operations of the TVA and the act of congress which established it. This sustained objections made by TVA counsel.

Follows Bitter Argument.

The court's ruling followed a bitter argument between TVA counsel, who contended that the court was not trying a rate case and it made no difference to the constitutional questions of the rights of congress and the TVA what the rates were, and counsel for the companies, who insisted that the rate schedules and savings would tie in with their contention that the federal government was invading the constitutional rights of both the state governments and private citizens through its power program.

Today's witnesses were nine executives of ten private power companies. Then counsel attempted to show from their testimony that TVA competition constituted a threat of great damage to the private companies in the seven states in the valley by building power dams and transmission lines in or near their service areas, fostering PWA loans to local communities for municipally owned and operated distribution plants to substitute TVA power for private power, and otherwise take away their markets and depress the value of their plants and securities.

Assert Facilities Are Ample.

They also brought out testimony to show that the private companies had progressively increased the service to their communities and had ample facilities to supply all current and expected future demand wherever economically feasible to do so.

In cross-examination TVA counsel attempted to prove that instead of having been injured by TVA competition so far the private companies are doing the best business of their history, with larger receipts and more customers than ever before, and that some of them are adding generating and transmission facilities to take care of expected further increases in business.

MANUFACTURERS TO STUDY EFFECT OF PROFITS TAX

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday asked its members for information on the effect the federal surtax on undistributed profits has had on their business.

The questionnaire asked particularly for data on the amount of contracts which would have been let for rehabilitation or expansion had it not been for the tax.

Other questions related to stability of employment, increase of wages, debt retirement, increase of debts to banks or stockholders, restoration of depleted working capital, difficulties in financing increased inventories or accounts receivable, difficulties in making capital goods purchases or sales, difficulties in estimating taxable income on which to base dividend actions prior to the end of the year, and the form in which dividends were paid.

FEDERAL DEFICIT TOPS 700 MILLIONS FOR PERIOD SINCE JULY 1

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The federal deficit climbed above the $700,000,000 mark in the first four and a half months of the fiscal year which began July 1, the treasury statement showed today. On Nov. 15, expenditures had exceeded income by $702,238,089. To keep within President Roosevelt's Oct. 19 budget estimate for the entire fiscal year, the treasury must hold the deficit for the next 7½ months down to $193,000,000.

Although Senator Byrd [D., Va.] has predicted the red ink figure will be much larger than expected, treasury officials express hope that enough money to verify their figures will pour in during the important taxpaying period next March.

The President's estimates were based on increased revenues and decreased expenditures this year, compared with last year. So far, the income of $2,166,144,471 is about $600,000,000 more than the similar period last year, but the $2,868,382,561 expenditures are also larger than last year to the extent of about $200,000,000. The federal debt now stands at $37,051,401,153, an increase of about $600,000,000 since July 1.

FEDERAL LOANS ASKED FOR OCEAN PLANE BUILDING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Federal construction loans for the building of aircraft for the foreign trade up to 75 per cent of their cost, and the placing of transoceanic flying under the supervision of the maritime commission were among the recommendations in a maritime commission report on aviation sent to congress today by Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy.

The report contains charts and figures to show that flying boats now under design will be able to render service comparable to that of the Normandie or Queen Mary at much lower cost.

"The commission found that a fleet of 18 flying boats on a daily service of three planes a day would offer the same total passenger capacity per year as a superliner, at a production cost for building the planes estimated at $18,000,000, against an American production cost of $50,000,000 for the superliner," Kennedy said.

"Because of its close relationship to shipping, the responsibility for the development of this new form of overseas transport logically should be placed in the hands of the maritime commission. This can be accomplished by a simple amendment to the merchant marine act of 1936 extending the definition of the term 'vessel' to include oceangoing aircraft. The commission's report recommends this amendment."

Sales of Airplanes, Parts Up 50% in 1st Nine Months

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Sales of American airplanes, aircraft engines, and spare parts for the first nine months of 1937 were 68 per cent higher than in the same period last year, it was announced today by Leighton W. Rogers, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America. Total sales were $80,615,058, compared with $47,978,661 for the first nine months of 1936.

Steel Output Rate Lowest Since Late '34

Steel ingot production this week was estimated yesterday by the magazine Iron Age at 35 per cent of capacity, a drop of 6 points, or 14.6 per cent, from last week. This is the lowest operating rate for a full week since late in 1934.

Pittsburgh was the only district to show a gain in operations. The rise there was 1 point to an estimated 35 per cent of capacity. Chicago ingot production is estimated at 27½ per cent, and the Cleveland-Lorain district is down to 18 per cent. Blast furnaces have been banked or blown out in several districts, according to the trade journal. It added:

Some Cheer In Outlook.

"Several items of cheer to the steel industry were noted, despite the continued fall in operating schedules. The automobile industry is experiencing an increase in sales which, if continued, will bring higher production. The small takings of steel by automobile makers indicate a rapid reduction of inventories which may result soon in replenishment buying.

"Rail buying by some railroads promises to develop in fairly large volume over the next several weeks. The Southern Pacific, which recently inquired for 75,000 tons, has placed orders for 35,332 tons of rails. The Northern Pacific is expected to distribute orders this week for 30,000 tons, while the Great Northern may buy 25,000 tons, and the Atlantic Coast Line and the Louisville and Nashville 20,000 tons each.

Expect Rate Increase.

"The belief persists in the steel trade that the interstate commerce commission will render a speedy decision on the plea of the railroads for higher freight rates, and that a favorable result will be almost immediately followed by inquiries for cars and locomotives.

"Export buying offers more promise, so far as volume is concerned, as some American mills lower their prices to meet foreign bids. Concessions from $5 to $8 from domestic prices had been given on some recent orders.

"American scrap dealers have booked orders for 500,000 tons of steel scrap for the European scrap cartel for first quarter shipment. The reported price is $16.50 a ton at American ports, or $5 a ton below the last previous transaction a few months ago.

"Declines at Chicago and Philadelphia reduced the Iron Age composite scrap price to $12.92, the low since June, 1936."

Proposes Reserve Board Governors Get Pensions

New York, Nov. 17.—[Special.]—A proposal that governors of the federal reserve board be pensioned on retirement was advanced today by the Society for Stability in Money and Banking, Inc., in a statement issued by its president, Dr. Joseph E. Goodbar. To permit the maximum of impartiality in the board's consideration of national banking problems, the statement said, members of the board should be relieved of the financial necessity of providing for their own declining years.

WHEAT SOARS 5C AS FROST HITS ARGENTINE CROP

FearHeavyDamage; Corn Higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices of principal December deliveries on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .95	$ .90	$1.17¼
Corn	.55¼	.54	1.05¾
Oats	.31	.30⅝	.44⅝
Rye	.73⅝	.71¼	.93⅝
Soy beans	.94¼	.92½	1.31

Wheat prices advanced the permissible limit of 5 cents a bushel yesterday in North American markets as the result of a broad buying movement induced by heavy frosts in Argentina which are thought to have caused heavy damage to the new wheat crop in that country. Closing quotations were the highest for the day in Chicago and Winnipeg, and only small fractions of a cent below the permissible limit at Kansas City and Minneapolis. Liverpool closed as much as 3¾ cents a bushel higher.

Corn advanced a cent a bushel higher on heavy buying by cash interests who were removing hedges on export sales which were estimated as high as 2,000,000 bushels. European demand yesterday was the best of the season.

Temperatures Below Freezing.

Temperatures as low as 24 degrees were reported in the Pampas area of Argentina, while in the western and southwestern section of the province of Buenos Aires, the southern half of Cordoba, and parts of southern Santa Fe temperatures of 28 to 29 above zero prevailed.

No estimates were received as to the extent of the frost damage, but private reports indicated it would be severe. Yesterday's frost was the fifth in the last three weeks, and the official forecast indicated frost probably would occur last night.

According to B. W. Snow, crop expert of Bartlett Frazier company, who is familiar with conditions in Argentina, the frost occurred in that part of the country where the wheat crop is now heading and that heavy damage can result. The middle of November in Argentina corresponds to the latter part of May or early June in the United States.

Large Export Sales Made.

European importing countries yesterday bought large quantities of North American wheat, with purchases estimated at 1,500,000 bushels or more, including 500,000 bushels of American grain. Buying of futures to remove hedges against the export business was a material help in advancing prices.

The Argentine wheat crop previous to Wednesday night's frost was estimated at 200,000,000 to 225,000,000 bushels, compared with 247,000,000 bushels harvested in 1936. Experts now believe this year's harvest may be less than 190,000,000 bushels, which would be the smallest with two exceptions in over fifteen years.

Reports that the big movement of cash corn to terminal markets is nearing the end, that farmers are holding back the balance of the crop for higher prices, and an advance in cash prices helped to buoy corn futures.

Industrialists Give Hope of Labor Peace

From the annual meeting of the National Industrial Conference board, held yesterday in the Palmer house, came hopeful views of the possibility of ironing out management labor problems, and a gloomy forecast that fundamental economic improvement in the United States is not in prospect.

Dr. Virgil Jordan.

The discussion of labor relations was held last night at a session attended by 500 important industrialists from all parts of the United States. The declaration that the country is headed for the new doldrums was made by Dr. Virgil Jordan, president of the board, in a luncheon address to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Debated Behind Closed Doors.

Although the labor question was debated behind closed doors, it was learned from some of those who attended that Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, declared full sympathy with the laboring man in his desire for fair wages, decent working conditions, and his right to promotion for merit.

"We as employers," Purnell is understood to have said, "are as interested in labor's welfare as those in political seats. We realize that management must grant legitimate rights and foster a psychology of construction and coöperation. We are against belligerence and destruction. We had no pride in defeating the C. I. O., which called a strike in our plant last spring, but he rejoiced that our own men went back to work of their own volition."

View on C. I. O. Battle.

Purnell was quoted as saying he did not regard the anti-C. I. O. battle of his company one against labor. It was instead, he said, an attempt to prevent the control of a whole labor group by one man, John L. Lewis. At another point he asserted that "when a labor dictatorship and a political dictatorship combine it's awful."

Other speakers said that they favored policies of fairness, based on mutual understanding between the man who hands over and the man who receives the pay envelope. Several said that collective bargaining could be handled without friction if interference from outside labor organizers and political influences could be eliminated.

Dr. W. M. Leiserson, chairman of the national mediation board, was quoted as laying the blame for present industrial disputes at the feet of industrial management which, he said, abandoned its enlightened personnel policies when the depression struck in 1929.

Believes Collapse Possible.

In his address on the current economic situation, Dr. Jordan said that political manipulation might pull the country out of its present slump by next spring. But, he added, the collapse of the entire system of private enterprise is certain unless conditions blocking sound recovery are corrected. "All that remains of the forms of free government" will vanish, too, he said, if private enterprise is routed.

It is unlikely, Jordan said, that the United States will discard its present dangerous economic program until its peril "is demonstrated to the great masses of people by much more painful experience than they have had so far."

BOARD OF TRADE FAVORS SHORTS, SAYS MEMBER

MacMillan Answers Corn Fight Charge.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago Board of Trade was accused yesterday by John H. MacMillan Jr., president of the Cargill Grain company and a prominent Board of Trade member, of championing short selling in the grain market at the expense of farmers and grain merchants. The accusation was made as the result of the charges preferred on Tuesday by the board against MacMillan and his associates for alleged violation of rules in connection with the "squeeze" in the corn market last September.

In a statement issued through the Cargill office here MacMillan readily admitted that his company had refused to obey the order of a Board of Trade committee to liquidate part of its corn holdings in September. He declared that the exchange had been plainly partisan in dealing with the market situation in September and that new federal legislation may be necessary to curb dictatorial conduct by the exchange in the future.

"No Apologies to Make."

"No arbitrary or capricious action of any committee of the Chicago Board of Trade can ever force me to sell, regardless of price, property of which I am trustee for my stockholders," MacMillan said. "We, of course, refused to obey an order of the business conduct committee issued on Sept. 23, 1937, which directed us to sell in four hours' time more than a million bushels of corn at whatever the market might be or become because of such forced liquidation. We have no apologies to make for this action. To the contrary, it is high time that certain fundamental issues be decided.

"If representation on the Chicago Board of Trade subjects property to the whim of committee action, such representation costs too much. Further, the action of the business conduct committee in ordering Cargill, Inc., to liquidate regardless of price while issuing no similar order to shorts to buy in their short commitments was grossly one sided and unfair.

Says Shorts Get Benefits.

"The committee indicated a willingness to allow short sellers to dominate the market and thus reap huge profits at the expense of American corn growers and merchants. In times like the present, when our commodity markets show the absence of constructive buying, the government, the public, and indeed even the Chicago Board of Trade should be fully aware of the importance of discouraging instead of championing predatory short selling.

"Further legislation may be required to make the Chicago Board of Trade deal with the public and all of its members fairly and evenhandedly as a public service corporation should, and to prevent it, through the exercise of unauthorized dictatorial powers, from encroaching upon contract and property rights of its members."

Creates Unusual Situation.

Seldom in the 80 year history of the exchange has the threat of disciplinary action against a member created a situation comparable to the present one. The Cargill interests are among the largest operating in the Chicago market. Headquar-

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Stocks fluctuated today in an extremely narrow range and closed generally lower. Trading totaled 758,570 shares, compared with 1,450,210 shares Tuesday. Light buying waves swept over the market at times. Several industrials, notably steels, climbed a point or so. However, modest selling in the closing hour turned these gains into losses.

U. S. Steel common ranged between 56⅝ and 58⅝, and closed at 56½, off 1 point. Other steels followed, with the majority losing only fractions.

A disappointing estimate on freight loadings for last week had a bearish effect on carrier shares. Losses were small, however. Chesapeake and Ohio moved up 1⅝, following the company's action yesterday in declaring a special dividend of $1.

Utility shares were active for a while, but later followed the performance of the remainder of the list.

With Boeing in the lead aviation stocks met a brisk demand during the morning. But the move waned, with the result that small losses were chalked up against leading issues.

After exhibiting mild strength in early dealings, motors turned lower. Chrysler lost 1⅜ points, while General Motors eased fractionally.

Building shares reacted despite the prospects of government aid in a building program. Losses from fractions to 1 point appeared against American Radiator, U. S. Gypsum, and Johns-Manville.

New York Bonds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 17.—Bond prices continued irregular today with no particular pressure and no enthusiastic buying demand. There was a decided recovery in Argentine loans which for two days had been depressed and a slight further improvement in most Brazilian government, state, and city issues.

Trading was light in the United States treasury group, but prices in most instances were higher. Gains ranged up to 6-32 point.

Domestic corporate bonds displayed mixed trends. Active dealings in many low priced bankrupt rails continued, but there was no definite trend.

Utilities also pursued divergent courses. Some Brooklyn Union Gas issues dropped to new lows. American and Foreign Power 5s and International Paper and Power issues were strong.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were irregular at the close yesterday after moving in a narrow range in a dull session. Only 20,000 shares changed hands. Of 81 issues traded, 21 advanced, 27 declined, and 33 closed unchanged.

Middle West, Commonwealth Edison and Chicago corporation were the only issues in which turnover amounted to as much as 1,000 shares. The latter two closed unchanged, and Middle West edged up ⅛ to 7⅛ in a 2,700 share trade. One new 1937 high was recorded when Harvey Hubbell moved up ⅜ to 12⅜.

THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks closed at 11.72, off 0.06 from the previous day. Yesterday's high was 11.94 and the low was 11.71.

Bank Stocks!

Chicago bank stocks were weak yesterday. Harris Trust, National Boulevard, and Northern Trust shares dropped $5. Lake Shore Trust declined $3, and First National and Terminal National were $2 lower. Continental Illinois dipped $1.50 a share, and City National $1. Chicago Title and Trust advanced $1, and American National was quoted unchanged to $5 higher by various dealers.

Commodities

Egg prices declined further yesterday while commodity prices generally scored a moderate recovery. Losses in egg future contracts on the Chicago Mercantile exchange ranged up to ½ cent a dozen.

The Associated Press index of 35 cash commodities closed at 77.84 after reaching a new 1937 low of 77.76 on the preceding day. The Dow-Jones commodities futures index rose 0.70 to 53.92.

Reduced demand for storage eggs, reflected in small withdrawals at principal markets, was credited with causing the liquidation in the egg futures market. Some recovery occurred before the close of the market, the November contract finishing ⅜ of a cent lower at 18¼ cents a dozen.

Rubber prices advanced 0.08 to 0.12 of a cent per pound in the New York futures market. Cottonseed oil and wool top futures incurred moderate metal markets showed only slight declines. The prices in the chief changes.

SENATORS ASK KOLBE FOR DATA ON STOCK SALE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—[Special.]—Senate railway finance investigators said today they had asked Frank F. Kolbe, New York broker, for information on the reported sale of his common stock holdings in Alleghany corporation. Kolbe is said to have sold his stock to Mrs. Robert R. Young, wife of Kolbe's former brokerage partner, and an unidentified buyer. Alleghany corporation is the top holding company in the $3,000,000,000 railroad empire put together by the late Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland.

Testifying before the committee today William C. Potter, chairman of the Guaranty Trust company, said he did not believe that fraud charges against some of the directors of the Missouri Pacific railroad, a Van Sweringen unit, were an obstruction to their continuing in office. He said he thought it was "cruelly unfair to pre-judge" the directors on the basis of charges which had not been proved in court.

The fraud allegations were made in a suit filed by a bankruptcy trustee in connection with use of Missouri Pacific funds for purchase of the railroad's own stock.

MOTION FOR OIL CASE ACQUITTAL DENIED BY COURT

Madison, Wis., Nov. 17.—(AP)—After denying a general motion for a directed verdict of acquittal for all defendants in the federal government's gasoline price-fixing case today, Judge Patrick T. Stone heard the first of a series of arguments for dismissal of charges against the individual defendant oil companies and executives.

The court, in rejecting the general motion, held that the government produced sufficient evidence regarding an illegal combination to warant continuation of the case. Judge Stone said, however, he believed that some of the companies and individuals had not been implicated in the alleged conspiracy, and called for argument as to the status of the various defendants.

Although the court did not rule, the first of these arguments was on the Gulf Refining company and the Gulf Refining corporation. Judge Stone said Archie Gray of Houston, Tex., Gulf attorney, made a "very persuasive argument."

Exports of newsprint declined 40 per cent from August, but were 18 per cent over September, 1936.

Borah Fights Congressional Aid to Railway Rate Boost

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Senator Borah [R., Idaho] introduced in the senate today a resolution to put congress on record against any attempt to influence the interstate commerce commission in its decision on the railroads' application for increased freight rates. His resolution said "interested parties, particularly the railroads," were urging that congress call on the I. C. C. to increase freight rates.

Cummings Asks $1,500,000 to Fight Anti-Trust Cases

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings said today he had asked the budget bureau to approve expenditure of nearly $1,500,000 next year for enforcement of the anti-trust law. He told his press conference that only with an appropriation triple the $472,000 provided last year could the justice department "give adequate consideration to major cases of suppressed competition and monopolistic practices."

MANY CARRIERS REPORT DIPS IN NET INCOMES

Earnings of C. & O. Run Well Below Year Ago.

The Chesapeake & Ohio and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis [Nickel Plate] railroads yesterday reported net incomes for both October and the first ten months of 1937 were lower than in the same periods last year. The Baltimore and Ohio and several other roads reported smaller earnings for September and the first nine months of this year. The Louisville and Nashville nine month figure was higher than a year ago, but September earnings dipped sharply.

Net income of the Chesapeake & Ohio sank to $4,185,569 last month from $5,579,188 in October, 1936. For the first ten months this year net profit was $29,105,221, or $3.73 per common share, compared with $34,369,732, or $4.49 a share, in 1936.

Nickel Plate Earns Less.

The Nickel Plate had October net income of $121,949, or less than a third of the $396,325 reported a year ago. This pushed ten months' income down to $2,130,978, which was less than the $2,304,214 reported in the corresponding 1936 period.

The Baltimore and Ohio's net income was down to $607,084 in September, little more than half the $1,110,883 in September, 1936. For the first nine months net income was $483,135, or 82 cents a share, compared with $250,077, or 42 cents a share in the corresponding 1936 period.

The Louisville and Nashville September net income was $790,645, compared with $1,151,714 a year ago. This reduced net income for the first nine months to $5,717,803, or $4.89 a share, from $6,047,694, or $5.17 a share, a year ago.

Southern Pacific Figures.

The Southern Pacific had net operating income—before interest and other fixed charges—of $2,292,647 in October. This was a little more than half the October, 1936, figure, and two-thirds the figure in 1935. As a result, net operating income of $20,677,321 for the first ten months this year was well under the $23,284,099 in the corresponding period of 1936.

Gross revenues last month were $216,239 above a year ago, but expenses rose sharply. It was pointed out that increased wages of operating employés took effect in October, contributing to the $1,062,633 increase in transportation expenses over last October.

UTILITY STOPS PAYMENTS ON CONVERTIBLES

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Associated Gas and Electric company, in a letter to stockholders made public today, announced suspension of interest payments on the series A and series B convertible obligations. Directors said payment would not be justified in view of an adverse trend in current earnings.

A year ago interest payments were resumed on the two series in five year, 4 per cent scrip, and all arrearages were paid in scrip. Full service, the company said, has been made on the fixed interest debentures.

COTTON

Cotton showed a firm undertone in the early trading yesterday in sympathy with Liverpool and on buying attributed largely to the continent and Bombay. However, speculative interest was not large and late in the session selling by spot and commission houses caused a reaction of around .15 cent a pound and the close was at the low point of the day.

Net losses on futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were .03 to .08 cent, while other markets were off .04 to .09 cent a pound. Spot cotton closed .05 to .10 cent lower, with New Orleans, 7.90 cents; New York, 7.85 cents; Houston, 7.60 cents, and Galveston at 7.55 cents a pound. Prices follow:

BOARD OF TRADE FAVORS SHORTS, SAYS MEMBER

MacMillan Replies to Corn Fight Charge.

ters of the Cargill firm is in Minneapolis. Operations here have been carried on through the Cargill Grain Company of Illinois, subsidiary of Cargill, Inc.

The Cargill company, MacMillan, and two vice presidents, Philip C. Sayles and Edward J. Grimes, were named in the charges brought by the committee which investigated the corn market squeeze.

Report Refusal to Sell.

The committee reported that Cargill refused to sell part of its September corn holdings when ordered to do so by the business conduct committee. The order to sell was issued, the exchange maintained, because the Cargill interests had violated a "gentlemen's agreement" under which members pledged not to make market commitments in excess of 5,000,000 bushels in one grain future.

Hearing Set for Next Month.

Hearings on the charges against the Cargill members will not be held by exchange directors until next month, after which disciplinary action, if any, will be decided upon. A second investigating committee now is engaged in a study of all market transactions in the cash and futures market that may have a bearing on the September corn squeeze.

The squeeze that developed in the corn market in September was one of the most acute in exchange records. The deadlock between the longs and the shorts was finally broken when the exchange set a settlement price of $1.10½ a bushel, at which all contracts were closed out.

Cargill Largest Holder.

The Cargill interests were the largest holders of corn, owning future contracts calling for delivery of more corn than there was available at the time in all the commercial elevators in the United States. Its holdings were in excess of 6,000,000 bushels. At the time of the settlement Cargill representatives asserted that the price set permitted short sellers to escape the penalty of their inability to deliver grain.

BOARD OF TRADE NAMES 7 FOR CEA HEARINGS

A committee of seven was named yesterday by Kenneth S. Templeton, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, to represent the exchange at hearings Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 in Chicago before the Commodity Exchange administration.

Purpose of the hearing is to consider the establishment of limits on speculative transactions in grain futures by any individual and to consider the advisability of prohibiting trading in an expiring grain future ten days in advance of the final delivery date.

C. D. Sturtevant, president of Bartlett Frazier company, is chairman of the committee. Other members include Barnett Faroll, vice president of the Board of Trade; James C. Murray, vice president of the Quaker Oats company; Lowell Hoit, Arthur F. Lindley, Richard F. Uhlmann, and Harvey S. Austrian.

ELECTRIC POWER PRODUCTION OFF MORE THAN USUAL

Electricity produced in the United States during the week ended Nov. 13 totaled 2,176,557,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. This was a more than seasonal decline of 1.2 per cent from the 2,202,451,000 kilowatt hours generated in the preceding week, but is still 0.3 per cent above the 2,169,480,000 kilowatt hours of the corresponding week of 1936.

Electric output of the four companies serving the Chicago district totaled 128,278,000 kilowatt hours, a decline of 0.9 per cent from the preceding week but an increase of 1.9 per cent over the comparable week of 1936.
